GRANGES CONTEST FOR PRIZES

Austin T. Buxton, of Forest Grove, Master of the Oregon State Grange, has arranged for a general contest among all the subordinate granges of the state, for which prizes will be given. The contest will open October 1, and continue for six months. A similar contest was carried on last year, the prizes having been announced and awarded at the Hood River session of the State Grange last May.

The prizes this year will be in the nature of premiums, consisting of banners, altar covers, grange jewels and implements, a score of 2700 points being necessary to win a choice.

In connection with his announcement the state master says: "With the increased number of districts this year the prizes will be widely distributed, as they are arranged in three classes, and the executive committee would be pleased to have every grange in the state win a prize, which is possible. All that is necessary is for a grange to meet promptly, have a good attendance of officers and members, put in full time and report facts."

The open season for Chinese pheasants began last Tuesday, and hunters were out after them early. The roar of shot guns in the country, sounded like the fire-cracker end of a Chinese new year celebration. And there will be no end of savory China stews, in town and country. The Nelson Hardware Company had sold 40,000 pounds of ammunition up to Tuesday, and other dealers have also sold large amounts.

Sheriff Connell and Deputy Kane are working like beavers these days, to catch up with the work on tax collections for the last part of the tax year, as the improvements on the interior of the office retarded their work, to quite an extent. Taxes from non-residents are coming in at a lively rate, hence the rush. The first Monday in October is the last day for the payment of taxes before they become delinquent.

The rush of school children to get books last Monday in this city, but faintly gives an idea of the immense sum of money spent in this state on that day for educational matter. The profits of the book trade is something enormous, yet the local dealers do not get much for handling the goods. There is a big graft in school books, and the burden falls hardest upon the poor of the country.

YOUNG REYNOLDS RELEASED

Walter Reynolds, the Cedar Mill boy, who was arrested for complicity with the negro, Marshal Robinson, in horse stealing, has been released by order of the Deputy Prosecuting Attorney, for the reason, as Mr. Wall believes that the boy was not connected with the case. Robinson, the negro, seemed anxious to fasten the responsibility upon the white boy, but Sheriff Connell now thinks the colored man has been lying about the matter. Young Reynolds is out on his own recognizance, and may be called as a witness in the case, when it comes to trial. Sheriff Connell says there is everything to show that Reynolds was not connected with the case. The negro is said to be an "alias" man, and it is extremely doubtful whether his name is Robinson, as he asserts.

Notice of Final Settlement

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has filed in the County Court of the State of Oregon, for Washington County, his final account in the estate of John T. Mills, deceased, and that the same has been set for hearing before said court on Monday, October 7, 1907, at 10 o'clock a. m. Dated this September 18, 1907. IRA T. MILLS, Administrator of the estate of John T. Mills, deceased. W. N. Barrett, Atty. for Administrator.
