DAIRYING NOW THE LEADING INDUSTRY

In Old Washington County, Where Wheat Once was King DAIRYMEN MEET AT FOREST GROVE

Forest Grove and Dairy Commissioner Bailey Talk

Most one thousand patrons of the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Company met in the Grove last Saturday, as guests of that company, many of the dairymen being accompanied by their wives and children. Senator Haines extended a welcome to the dairymen in behalf of the city. Addresses were made by President Ferrin, of Pacific University, A. D. Barber, vice president of the company, J. W. Bailey, State Food and Dairy Commissioner, C. A. Malbone, of the S. P. Co., and Byron Hunter, of the State Agricultural College. Mr. Bailey said in part: "The dairy counties were the prosperous counties, where wheat was growing in value. He has an amusing account of a talk he had not long since with James Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture. Mr. Wilson would hardly believe that kale was a valuable cow feed, and he refused to believe that it could produce 50 tons per acre. Mr. Bailey told of dairying in Holland, where each acre of land was supporting an average of 31 cows. He declared that the Willamette valley would do as well. He also advised milking machines as a new device, and told what he had seen in dairies in this state." Byron Hunter, from the Agricultural College at Corvallis, talked of the results of their observations in dairying dairy feeds. He believed that to be the best green feed. If raised early it would be ready to commence on by the last of August, and would continue good until next April. He recommended planting a long narrow stripe next to driveway, so it could be loaded on wagon or sleds without driving over ground in wet weather. Rye and vetch sowed in September would make good feed the following summer, after kale was gone. He urged farmers to get the Bulletin of the State and National Agricultural Departments, which are free, and contained the results of the studies of experts on the various subjects discussed.

FAVORS A COUNTY FAIR

The street fair at Hillsboro emphasizes the fact that farmers should get together more frequently than they do and that they should have some place in which they can make exhibits every year or often if possible. We understand that the county court is empowered to set aside the sum of $500 per annum for the benefit of the county fair. This is a fact then it will form a nucleus for the formation of a county fair fund and it would well for some of the leading farmers of Washington county to take up the matter of organizing a county fair association. There is so much to be gained by the fruit grower from the county fair, as was shown by the display of fine fruit at the Hillsboro fair and the object was given as to the difference between good fruit and that which is affected with scale and other various pests. Let us all get together and work for a Washington county fair next year that will be a success. This is a county of wonderful resources and let us work to bring them out and give the world a chance to see what Washington county can do.—Times.

INDIAN WAR "VETS" MEET 52 YEARS AFTER

Company D, First Oregon Mounted Volunteers SURVIVORS OF THE YAKIMA WAR Company was Organized on Main St., Hillsboro, Oct. 14, 1855

Monday, October 14, 1907, was the 52nd anniversary of the organization of Company D, First Regiment Oregon Mounted Volunteers, which served in the Yakima Indian War. The company was organized on Main street, this city, with 104 enlisted men, and there are perhaps but twenty of the old guard left. The late T. R. Cornelius, father of Hillsboro's present postmaster, was captain of the regiment. W. H. H. Myers was elected a lieutenant.

A scattered remnant of the company met here Monday in commemoration of the 52nd anniversary of its formation, and after the business session the veterans were the guests of Jabez Wilkes, at dinner. The following officers were elected: W. H. H. Myers, of the Grove, President. Jabez Wilkes, Hillsboro, Secretary.

The following resolutions were offered and adopted, and will be sent to the senators and representatives of Oregon: We, the Indian War veterans of Washington County, Oregon, in convention assembled at Hillsboro, this 14th day of October, 1907, do respectfully resolve as follows:—

That it is the sense of this meeting that we request the Congressional delegation of Oregon to use their most earnest endeavors to encourage Congress to pass a law putting the Indian War veteran on the same plane, and subject to the same pension legislation as the veterans of the Civil War.

RECKLESS AUTO DRIVING

Reckless automobile scorching in Washington county, will someday get a serious setback. The other day as Dr. F. A. Bailey and James Young, of this city, were coming from Forest Grove, and had just driven upon the long bridge, west of town, an automobile occupied by some Portland boys, bound for the Grove, hove in sight. As the bridge is narrow, the Dr. held up his hand for the chauffeur to stop, but instead, the machine came on at full speed. The occupants of the buggy just had time to get out, and seize the frightened animal by the bits, when the auto whizzed by, narrowly missing the buggy. As they passed, the boys yelled and jeered at the Hillsboro parties, seeming to regard the whole matter as a good joke. Mr. Young talked about the outfit arrested, but a complaint has been made of late about reckless Portland auto parties in this county, and when arrested and convicted, the authorities here will give them the limit.

Later:—Deputy Sheriff Kane went up to the Grove and took possession of the machine, which was in charge of a crowd of Portland Academy football boys. Ascertaining that there were some responsible persons in the party, he arranged for their appearance in Hillsboro, when notified. Frank read the law to them, of which they pleaded ignorance, and let them have the machine. It is doubtful whether they will be prosecuted.

John Milne sold 100 tons of last year's crop of oats to Lenech Bros., of Portland, last Saturday, for shipment to California, for milling purposes. He still has about 1,000 bushels of gray oats left over from last year.

Pheasant hunting is pretty good in Hillsboro, sometimes. Last Monday, a young and foolish pheasant alighted in front of the Tualatin hotel. Mr. Jeffries, the barber, saw the bird, and took two shots at it with a small 22 calibre rifle, but without effect. Then R. L. Sears, of the Main Street machine shop, took the gun, and fired, when the bird gave up the ghost, and fluttered to the ground. The incident created quite a ripple of excitement, and will probably form the basis of copious commentary in the editorial annex to the editorial columns of the Sunday Oregonian in its next issue, in which the "bright young man" grows witty at the expense of our poor chroniclers of country events.

FOREST GROVE MAN MET DEATH BY SAW

Ruel Bisbee Loses his Arm last Saturday DEATH FOLLOWED ON SUNDAY Leaves a Widow to Mourn Loss. Was Member Delphos Lodge K. of P.

Ruel M. Bisbee, well known in and around Forest Grove, and a son of R. M. Bisbee, while sawing wood, Saturday, had an arm cut off just below the elbow. The saw so completely severed the arm that it fell to the ground.

Bisbee was given surgical attention and removed to his home two miles west of the Grove, where he died Sunday morning, less than 14 hours after the accident. Bisbee was born in Page County, Iowa, 39 years ago, and came to Washington county at the age of 18. He graduated from Pacific University, class of 1896, with the degree of B. S. Bisbee was a member of Delphos Lodge, Knights of Pythias, of Forest Grove, and that order had charge of the burial, Tuesday, interment being in the Naylor cemetery.

His parents, a brother, and his widow, survive.

AFTER A LAPSE OF 14 YEARS

On Monday, a tall and well dressed stranger walked into the Schulmerich Bros.' store, and remarked that he was "ready to pay for those shoes, now." Herman Schulmerich carefully sized up the stranger, and informed him that so far as he was aware, there was no account against him, but the man persisted that he owed the firm a balance of $2 on a pair of shoes, purchased 14 years ago. "I'm sure of it," said the man, and he counted out the money, remarking, "It is a pleasant October day," and went out in the street, where he produced a camera, and took a view of the store. He did not reveal his name, and seemed in good financial circumstances. The only excuse he made for his dilatory meeting of the obligation was that he went East shortly after he bought the shoes, and had just returned to the state.

Mr. Schulmerich is hoping that some of the other old timers in indebtedness, will be taken with a spasm of honesty, and imitate the mysterious, but honest stranger.

LYDA'S SAWMILL BURNED

The sawmill of Wm. H. Lyda, at Bellinger's Bridge, between Forest Grove and Greenville, was consumed by fire, Sunday night. The mill and machinery were valued at about ten thousand dollars, and carried an insurance of $3,000. The blaze started about 11:20, and the men were unable to check it. This is the third sawmill fire Mr. Lyda has suffered within eight years, the first occurring when he operated on Gales Creek, his insurance having been but $300. The second fire happened three years ago, at the present site, and there was no insurance. It is not known whether the blaze was incendiary or not.

Mr. Lyda has been peculiarly unfortunate in fire losses but he always rebuilds. He is one of the pioneer millmen of this section, and an indomitable hustler, and his many friends in this county will regret his loss.
