

A Portland real estate company is sub-dividing about 800 acres between Beaverton and Reedville, into acre and 5 acre tracts and town lots. A new station has been established by the railroad company, called Wheeler, where the Forest Grove local now stops, and other trains will make stops at this new station later on. A. A. Morrill, deputy county surveyor, is now working upon a map of the sub-divisions, which will be filed as soon as completed. It is reported that several Hood River apple raisers have bought apple tracts there, and are enthusiastic about Washington county soil for apple growing. Mr. Morrill recently saw a box of Washington county apples, of the Spitzenberg variety, sold in Portland for $4 per box.

After two weeks spent in a struggle for life, little 8 year old Harley Jeter, of Sunnyside, Portland, is now out of danger, and the attending physician says he will get well. Some time ago, the little fellow got severely burned while playing around a bonfire, with some companions. It was thought at the time that the child would not recover. E. H. Jeter, the boy's father, used to live in Gaston, this county, and was connected with the Gaston Co-operative Milling Co.

Married, at the residence of the bride's father, Hon. Wm. B. Jolly, Portland, Oregon, October 16, 1907, by Rev. J. R. Welch, Herchell N. Sawyer and Cora Jane Jolly. The contracting parties received many beautiful and costly presents from the numerous friends and relatives, and the wedding was a pretty affair. The Jollys are old residents of Washington county, where they are favorably known.

County Fruit Inspector Harris, of Forest Grove, wants the name of every man in Washington county, who has a prune dryer, together with the number of pounds dried this and last year. His object is to keep a record of the amount of prunes raised in this county, and kindly asks that growers who may see this notice, will drop him a postal card, with the information desired. Address W. R. Harris, Forest Grove, Ore.

Judge John M. Scott, of Salem, President of the State Good Roads Association, is conducting an active campaign in behalf of the Good Roads Meeting to be held in the rooms of the Portland Commercial Club November 14th and 15th. Judge Scott desires that every commercial, industrial, agricultural, horticultural, and irrigation organization in the State to send delegates.

Charles J. Aldrich, of Forest Grove, died on the 25th inst., aged 50 years. The cause of his death was Bright's disease, from which he had been a sufferer for some time past. He was born in New York, but came from Missouri to the Grove four years ago. His brother came out from Missouri, a week ago, to see him, and had started home a few hours before death came to the sick man.

L. A. Whitcomb joined his wife in Hillsboro, last Sunday, having just returned from Fairbanks, Alaska, where he spent the summer. He says that Fairbanks will send out about $6,000,000,000 in gold this year, and but for the labor troubles up there, would have made the amount $10,000,000,000. Mr. Whitcomb thinks of returning to Fairbanks next spring.

We have added to our exchange list, The Western Oregon, of Cottage Grove, by D. M. C. Gault, editor, and C. J. Howard, publishers. Mr. Gault is one of Hillsboro's old citizens and newspaper men. His paper has a good showing of land notices, and bears evidence of prosperity.
