You also state that Mr. Godman has for his deputy a woman, his own daughter, which, in the eyes of a few, is a downright crime. In this last statement I agree with you insofar as Mr. Godman's deputy is a woman, but insofar as it being a downright crime, as you say it is in the eyes of a few, I do not agree with you, except you use the word "downright crime" to convey your idea of the political significance that necessarily attaches to that particular feature.

If that is the meaning you desire to convey, I desire to say, now and here, that I am opposed to the appointment of women as deputies in any of the county offices, as I regard all the county offices as men as deputies in any of the county of-fices, as I regard all the county offices as political offices, and, being of that opin-ion, I sincerely regard it as the duty of every official to appoint for his deputy a resident and citizen, and voter, and mem-ber of the republican party, if the office is held by a republican, and if held by a democrat the same principle is involved. This, Mr. Bath, is what I consider good, logical, wholesome politics—politics that and I also concede that there is nothing written in the bond prescribing the wearing apparel of the deputy. And, in this connection, Mr. Bath, permit me to give you a little bit of good advice: In the future, when you are discussing these matters, do not so far forget yourself, out of the fullness and goodness of your overflowing heart to do something for your friends, that nothing but ridicale and contempt comes of the argument.

It is also true that I was deputy under Mr. Godman for two years, and am now a candidate for the same office. W. D. SMITH.
