NO. 34

FATHER ATTACKS SON WITH A POCKET KNIFE

O. M. Galloway, Near Forest Grove, Arrested

WIFE WAS COMPLAINING WITNESS

Domestic Trouble Leads to Assault With Dangerous Weapon

O. M. Galloway, a farmer living near Forest Grove, was arrested by Sheriff Hancock, last Thursday afternoon, on a warrant signed by Galloway's wife, charging the farmer with drawing a knife on his 17-year-old step-son. Thursday morning, the boy was about to start to the cider mill with a load of apples, when the step-father objected, and began to throw the sacks off the wagon. The boy resisted, and the boy's mother alleges that Galloway drew a knife, and attacked her son, and was stopped only by the timely interference of Mrs. Galloway's cousin, who happened to be present.

Galloway is a prominent farmer of the Forest Grove section, and the trouble is said to be the outgrowth of domestic inharmonies in the family. Galloway was brought down and placed in the county jail. On last Saturday, he gave bail in the sum of $100, and was released. The case against him will be one of assault and battery.

THINKS PERDUE WAS HUSBAND

Sheriff Hancock is in receipt of a letter from Mrs. Elmer Perdue, of Alleghany County, North Carolina, who thinks that Elmer Perdue, the man who was murdered in this county, last June, was her husband. She states that Perdue left home two years ago, and was never heard of since that time. According to her statement, Perdue's father was a moonshiner, and this corresponds with Johnson's statement about the dead man. A picture was sent Sheriff Hancock, but as it was taken some years ago, when Perdue did not wear a mustache, Johnson, who is in jail here, charged with Perdue's murder, says he cannot positively identify it as being a likeness of the murdered man, although it looks something like him. Perdue had a heavy mustache, when Johnson first met him in an employment agency, in Portland.

W. M. Jackson and wife, who spent two and a half months visiting old friends in Indiana, Nebraska, and other states, returned home Monday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson think there is no such country as Oregon, and are more than ever content to spend their remaining days in the Beaver State.

That seems to be the testimony of all who have lived here any length of time.

A team belonging to Chris Peterson got frightened last Friday, while near Moore & Greer's meat market, and started on a run down Second street. In the wagon was Mrs. Peterson and her two children. F. W. Gartner ran in and caught one of the horses by the nose, and the other by a line, and stopped them. Mr. Gartner ran serious risk of being run over, but he saved, in all probability, the occupants of the wagon from being badly hurt.

A horse ridden by Wm. Savage, of Portland, slipped and fell, Monday about noon, on the Farmington road, breaking the rider's left leg, and severely injuring his right shoulder. Mr. Savage was accompanying the funeral procession, which followed the remains of the late M. S. Dailey, to Farmington, when the animal fell upon him. He was picked up and placed in a hack and brought to Hillsboro, where Drs. A. B. and F. A. Bailey set the broken leg, and attended to the other injuries. The wounded man was then taken to a Portland hospital, until he recovers.

MARCELLUS S. DAILEY DIES OF PARALYSIS

Pioneer of 1853 Passes Away in Portland Last Saturday

VETERAN OF ROGUE RIVER WAR

Familiar Figure in Hillsboro for Over Thirty-Five Years

Marcellus S. Dailey, a familiar figure in Hillsboro for more than thirty-five years, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Anna L. Thirkell, in Portland, last Saturday, death being due to paralysis. Mr. Dailey was taken from Dilley, where he had been living since some time last summer, in hope that he could be helped, but death came to him shortly after his arrival in Portland.

Mr. Dailey was born in Beverly, Virginia, December 6, 1832 and in early life removed to Rock Island,

MARCELLUS S. DAILEY

Ill, where lived until 1853, when he crossed the Plains to Oregon, first going to Jackson county, where he engaged in gold mining, and later on took part in the Indian war in the Rogue River valley.

In 1860, he was married to Miss Mary Savage, and five children were born to them, two of whom only are living, namely, Mrs. Anna L. Thirkell, of Portland, and Mrs. Edith J. Harrington, of Medford. He also leaves a wife and a brother, the latter being R. K. Dailey, of Hillsboro, a veteran of the civil war.

Mr. Dailey settled in Washington county in the Sixties, and at one time was deputy sheriff of this county. He later served as city marshal of Hillsboro, and was engaged in building bridges in the county for many years.

His remains arrived from Portland, Monday morning, and services were held in the Christian church, Monday forenoon, Rev. A. A. Beery officiating. Interment was in the cemetery at Farmington. Deceased was a man of kindly impulses, and had many friends.

Caudle, Independent phone, No. 584. 27-38

Hillsboro has one case of mild small-pox, which has been quarantined. A well known Hillsboro young lady is the patient, and the person is Miss Effie Godman, formerly deputy County Clerk, under her father, E. J. Godman. Miss Godman contracted the disease either in Portland, or on the train between Hillsboro and that place. The disease is very mild in this valley, and is not to be dreaded as much as typhoid fever or measles. Still, the authorities have taken precautions to prevent its spread. Yamhill county has been full of small-pox all summer, especially the western part. Portland, so the doctors state, is never free from it. Properly quarantined, there is little danger of its spread.

WASHINGTON COUNTY FAIR A SURE THING

Meeting Last Saturday Practically Settles the Matter

COMMITTEE PLANS TO RAISE $50,000

Executive Committee Appointed to Get Books Ready

The meeting held at the Court House last Saturday afternoon, in the interests of an All-Washington-County-Fair, was well attended. Chairman, Wm. Schulmerich presided, and Grant Mann was secretary. On motion, the chairman appointed a committee of five to report on November 14, at 2 p. m., as to values on land for fair site, either for lease or purchase, and to make an estimate on the amount of stock necessary to be sold, and to have stock books ready to open on Nov. 4th, next. It was decided that stock should be sold at the par value of $10 per share, in order to give farmers and others a chance to become financially identified with the enterprise. Following are the names of the committee appointed to perfect organization, and to open the books of the Association:

Wm. Schulmerich, Dr. F. A. Bailey, John Dennis and L. A. Long, of Hillsboro; and Jasper Reeves, of Cornelius. Manager McGill, of the Oregon Nursery, authorized a subscription of $500, and others will take that amount, if not more. The consensus of opinion was that Washington county should have a first-class fair, and there was an earnest sentiment prevalent at the meeting, which spells success. The committee believes it will be able to raise from $40,000 to $50,000, should that much be required. It is also well known at this time, that Portland people desire Hillsboro to be placed on the racing circuit with them. It is also believed that should the Fair become a fact, Hillsboro will be a base ball town next year. Hillsboro has a number of base ball fans of means, who will finance a good local club organization, with the idea of using the Fair grounds for base ball purposes.

HATTIE MAY BUTLER

Died, in Hillsboro, October 30, 1908, Hattie May Butler, aged 36 years, 8 months and 24 days. Deceased was born 4 miles east of Hillsboro, February 4, 1872. Miss Butler had been in poor health for several years, previous to her demise. She leaves a mother, Mrs. P. C. Butler, two brothers, Mark I. and James E., and one sister, Lottie H. Butler, all of Hillsboro. Her father died in June, 1904, and a brother, Fred, in August, 1898. She also leaves a half sister on her mother's side, Mrs. W. H. McEl-downey, of Forest Grove; and on her father's side, there are the following half-brothers and sisters: Mrs. A. Sigler, Mrs. Jas. Sigler, Mrs. Clarence Bloyd and Geo. Butler, of Hillsboro; Mrs. Sarah Hoopengartner, Portland; Mrs. E. Bergiman, Chino, Cal.; Thos. Butler, Yakima City, Wash.; Wm. Butler, Hornbrook, Cal.; and Benj. F. Butler, present address unknown.

The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Folsom, of Forest Grove, last Sunday, at the Congregational church, of which she was a member. Interment was in the Odd Fellows' cemetery, at this place. The funeral was largely attended.
