Buy AN IMPROVED GAS MACHINE

Gas is the most perfect artificial light. It has no smoke or accompanying odor. Avail yourself of all the numerous benefits had from city gas; by buying the Improved Gas Machine there is no generating. The gas lights at touch of a match instantly, at the chandelier or gas range; heats water in a few minutes, night or day; lights can be turned high or low as you desire; it is perfectly simple and under full control. For a house of six rooms the total cost of light and fuel for cooking

Will Rarely Exceed $2 or $2.50 Per Month.

With a gas range the exact heat for all kinds of cooking can be governed like the flow of water from a faucet. There is nothing to learn about it, it is as simple as the match that lights it. No trouble—no odor—no worry; there is however a great saving in cost of fuel and light. Put an Improved Gas Machine in your store, it is better than any other light you can have because pure white light is the best in which to show colors to night shoppers. F. H. Miller, the plumber, is ready to install the plant complete and guarantee its satisfaction or your money refunded.

An excursion party came out on the Oregon Electric Tuesday, to a tract on the Sewell farm, called "Hillsboro Acres." Within a few years, there will be a continuous "stringtown" to Portland.

J. A. Currey and family, of Portland, were guests of Editor Killen and wife, last Sunday. Mr. Currey is a prominent structural steel contractor of the Ro e City, and was much pleased with Hillsboro.

The Mist creamery company has failed, and the farmers of the Ne-halem, who patronized the proprietor, are out various sums of money. The owner of the creamery claims his failure was due to the fact that he paid too much for cream.

The Southern Pacific Company began work on the Beaverton Cut-Off early Monday morning with a large force of men. This road has been a possibility for some time past, and will cross the Willamette river over a steel bridge, to be built at Willsburg. The road will connect with the Southern's East side line, stopping at the Union depot.

A number of Portland business men have been looking Hillsboro over since the coming of the Electric line, with a view to building suburban homes here. Several have expressed themselves as having made up their minds in the matter, and next Spring will probably see more building in Hillsboro, than ever before.

John H. Stevenson, the well known Portland newspaper man and lawyer, had a narrow escape from a horrible death last Sunday, at his father's place near the Grove. State Game Warden Stevenson, John's father, keeps a few deer in his park, and while John was out talking baby talk to the pretty animals, the buck of the herd suddenly charged him. Stevenson junior has long legs, and that is all that saved him from being gored into a colander. "What's the matter with that brute?" shouted John, after he had jumped a 10-foot fence. "It's your flashy red necktie, John," answered the Game Warden, as he came running up to the scene of the narrow escape.
