Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

NBODY KNOWS WHY—
A man invariably looks self-conscious when the good qualities of his offspring are being discussed and held up for admiration and approval and looks reproachfully at the mother of the same when the same gets vicious.

A dimple in her chin is worth more to a girl than a whole term of domestic science.
A married man always says to his wife "What is that?" no matter what the kind, quality, origin or nature of the thing causing the inquiry, no matter how obvious or how mysterious its reason or purpose. Many thoughtless married women give flippancy answers—see South Dakota.

Broken Spell.
The finding of a horseshoe
Along a dusty way
Brings good luck to the finder,
I've heard the wise ones say,
A case of rare good fortune
As mortal ever struck.
I'd rather find a dollar
And buy my own good luck.

These ancient signs and tokens
That in the long ago
Worked magic just as easy
As jobsos shovel snow
Are not at present writing
No certain to produce
As piles of ready money
Assorted and turned loose.

The finding of a horseshoe
In modern times will bring
A title from the junk man—
Perhaps a hall of fame—
But put it on a horse race
Or any scheme at hand
Without the aid of money
And see where it will land.

Only Resemblance.
"Let us be thankful the holdup men do not call their work a religious ceremony."
"How could they?"
"Don't they take up a collection?"

Many "Easy Marks."
"OH SURE YOU STICK BY ME FOR THE ILL RAISE YOU—SEE!"

Sometimes it is shameful to deceive it is so easy.

Pride is a very foolish thing, but it is the foolish things of the world that have made the most noise in it.

Perpetual Youth.
What's the use of growing old?
Not the slightest bit.
At threescore a man need not
Fold his arms and quit.
That's what the professor says,
"Calm your doubts and fears,
You can't be starting in
At one hundred years.

It is easy, so they say
Who have never tried.
Only need to have the rules
Thoroughly applied.
Just like falling off a log
Backward, they allow.
But they always die before
They have shown us how.
Once in every little while
Some one comes along
Who can beat the dying game
"He's his guess is wrong
He can tell you what to do
So you'll last and thrive
For a century or two
And still be alive.

Up to the Audience.
"WHAT IS IT THAT'S GOING ON A-FAR-T?"
"SPEAK! I THINK IT WILL BE A SUCCESS!"

Doesn't Work That Way.
How nice and pleasant it would be
If now and then there would
Appear upon our family tree
An uncle rich and good
Who'd leave this world of pain and woe
With much celebrity
And let a goodly fortune go
To us in verity?
But, ah, alas,
I grieve
To say,
It very seldom works
that way.

Frustrated.
"I am looking for work."
"Found of it?"
"Yes."
"What kind of work?"
"Any kind, just so it is work."
"Mighty proud of your good old family, aren't you?"
"What family?"
"Annamies!"

Answered the Description.
"I have a book on small fruit culture."
"It doesn't look like it. From appearances I would take it to be a historical novel."
"Anyway the clerk where I bought it assured me it was current literature."

Circumstances Alter Size.
"How big is a dollar, anyway?"
"That all depends."
"On what?"
"On how hard you have to work for it and how long you have to wait for it."

Knew His Line.
"You can recommend the count, then, to be gentle and house broke and all that," said the American millionaire who was looking around for something choice in that line as a present for his spoiled daughter.
"Yes," replied the marriage broker, stroking his short whiskers, "he is all right, and you can safely put your money in him. He is one of our six best sellers."

Now is the time to visit CALIFORNIA

When summer has passed in these northern states, the sun is only mild under the bright blue skies of Southern California. This is one of nature's happy provisions—eternal summer for those who cannot endure a more severe climate.
California has been called the "Mecca of the winter tourist." Its hotels and stopping places are as varied as those of all well regulated cities. Visitors can always find suitable accommodations, congenial companions and varied, pleasing recreations.

Southern Pacific Co

Will be glad to supply some very attractive literature, describing in detail the many delights of winter in California.
Very low round trip excursion tickets are on sale to California.
The rate from Hillsboro to Los Angeles and return is $56.30
Limit 6 months, allowing stopovers in either direction. (Similar excursion rates are in effect to all California points.)
For full information, sleeping car reservations and tickets, call on, telegraph or write
