Casper Jasper, one of the enthusiastic Forest Grove baseball fans, came down to the opening game on the 15th.

M. O'Meara, of Reedville, and Jas. O'Meara, of Kalamazoo, Mich., were callers at the Argus office, Tuesday.

J. C. Wegner, the Third Street horse-shoer who bought the Peck shop, has sold out to Edward Kerr, of Minneapolis, who will conduct the business.

Mrs. E. Cox and Mrs. J. W. Lewis, of Martinsville, Indiana, are in the city for an extended visit with Mrs. Crandall, wife of Assessor Max Crandall.

Geo. R. Bagley, of Bagley & Hare, now owns all of Block One in Thorne's Addition, and he expects to build in the not distant future. This will make one of the finest home sites in the city.

The first big haying of the season was noted last Friday, on the famous Ladd & Reed farm, at Reedville. From the train it looks like a fine crop.

S. H. Bullock, of near Banks passed through town Tuesday, en route home from Beaverton, where he visited a sister.

Chris. Peterson, owner of the former Bennett farm, north of town, and who is an ex-county commissioner of Clatsop County, was in the city Friday.

Chas. Bloom, who is cultivating 12 acres of hops, was up to the city from below Newton, Friday. He says the vines are not doing very well down his way this season.

Richard Baltra and wife were Portland visitors, last week, and attended the Rose Festival. While down they were guests of Aunt Angeline Catching, who is still quite smart at the advanced age of 84 years, and who settled in this county in 1845. Mrs. Catching is Mrs. Baltra's mother.

OBJECT LESSON AS TO OUR DAIRYWORK

Horn and Hoof, a Dairy Paper, Gives Figures HOW WE DO BUSINESS 'OUT WEST

Record of a Year on a Mountaintale Ranch

Horn and Hoof, a Seattle stock and dairy paper, gives a valuable illustration as to what a Washington County dairy will do under intelligent management. Fred Schomburg, who is one of the practical dairymen, and who came west a few years ago with but a family and a bawdiana handkerchief as his assets, and who is now worth his thousands, is the worker that the paper records, and the story is as follows, and all who know "Kaiser" Fred know that he talks facts:

Mr. Fred Schomburg, of Hillsboro, Oregon, sends us the following annual statement of the earnings of his 33 cows, milking from March 1, 1908, to February 28, 1909, inclusive. Mr. Schomburg is a patron of the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Co.

| 1908— | Pounds of Milk. | Amount. |
|------------------|-----------------|------------|
| March..... | 22,865 | $ 376.53 |
| April..... | 26,621 | 350.07 |
| May..... | 24,416 | 310.08 |
| June..... | 22,131 | 293.24 |
| July..... | 18,376 | 248.08 |
| August..... | 12,236 | 190.27 |
| September..... | 9,657 | 124.13 |
| October..... | 11,511 | 168.66 |
| November..... | 13,405 | 219.17 |
| 1909— | | |
| January..... | 17,996 | 323.07 |
| February..... | 18,757 | 306.68 |
| Total..... | | $3,246.98 |
| Veal..... | | 227.45 |
| Grand total..... | | $3,474.43 |

Mr. Schomburg has a farm of 112 acres, 65 acres only are in cultivation. All feed was grown on the farm with the exception of $625 paid for chop and oil meal. It will thus be seen that this farm returned nearly $44 per acre from these cows.

An average of $105.37 per cow is a showing of which anyone might feel proud, and it goes to prove what can be done in dairying where intelligence and good management are brought into use.

Mr. Collie—Your daughter is to make her debut tomorrow, I believe?

Mrs. Poodle—Yes; tomorrow she will make her first bowwow to society.—Kansas City Times.

Unexpected, indeed.

"Hear about Jimmy?" asked the lanky youth with the bat and balls.

"No," responded his chum. "What's happened to him?"

"Lots. He found a quarter in de street, went to de ball game, got lit wid a ball an' den got licked when he got home."

"Gee whiz! I guess dat's what you'd call trouble comin' from an unexpected quarter!"—Chicago News.

Too Late to Kick.

"And papa said no? Dear, dear! You didn't forget to tell him that you felt sorry he was ill, did you?"

"No, I didn't. I didn't say a word about it. I knew he wouldn't believe me. He would think it was a joke."

"Why would he think it was a joke?"

"Because he has rheumatism in his feet!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Local Shapes.

Gunner—But all of the feminine bats don't look like peach baskets and mush-rooms, do they?

Guy—I should say not. In Milwaukee they look like beer steins, and in Pittsburg they resemble smokestacks.

Gunner—How about Boston?

Guy—Oh, in Boston they resemble bean cans.—St. Louis Republic.

Like a Mental Moving Picture.

Baker—People who have been near drowning say that in an instant all the events of their past lives are presented to their mental vision.

Barker—I don't believe it.

Baker—Why not?

Barker—If it were true they would not allow themselves to be rescued.—New York Life.

The Nature of It.

"I suppose this aerial transit business ought to be financed by a bank of clouds."

"If it were, no matter how they would liquidate, there would always be some dew upon it."—Baltimore American.

Regulating Commerce.

"What will you say to the consumer when he demands an explanation?"

"The usual thing," answered Mr. Dustin Stax.

"What is that?"

"Please remit!"—Washington Star.

On the Wheat Special.

Sandy Pikes (in grain car)—Dis fellow Patten ain't got nothin' on us, pard.

Gritty George—How's dat?

Sandy Pikes—Why, ain't we also got a corner in wheat?—Puck.

The game Tuesday is a matter of gratification to Manager E. L. Moore, who is somewhat of a player himself.

Tom Williams redeemed his disgrace in dropping that fly by good field work subsequent, and by those daisy pokes in to the garden.

Speaking by Shakespeare, Umpire A. C. Shute got three base hits—one on the shin, one on the foot, and one on the stomach—and was in the game all the time.

Wilkes is one of the fastest shortstops in the county, and if he will just hold the ball until he gets his balance he will make a second Joe Tinker.

Roy Moore naturally feels sore at his hard luck on the batting end, for he is the laddy-back that can put them over the fence when he plays with the stars right.

The Hendrik Hudson boys from Verboort play nice ball, and for a bunch of gentlemanly players the bouquet is to them.

Anton Hermens, manager of the Verboorts, is a fine loser—the idea of Anton being a fan is a surprise.

"Old Hoss" Harry Cook is still the Pop Anson of them all when he gets in the game.

Catcher Phelps has some of the big backstops beaten a mile, and he is a valuable man in the Cardinal bunch.

Pitcher Nick Williams' twisters are league-measure, and all he wants is plenty of work.

Little Batchelar is the boy for bases. If the Athletic people don't look out he is liable to steal them all.

Eimer Smith was in his old Diamond-W form Tuesday.

Parrott, at first, was all to the good.

That man Houston has seen a diamond before—somewhere, where? And he has met second base a time or two. He'll do, and he knows the game.

Umpire Nelson has some speed himself, for an old man.

Koppel, the star shortstop for the Forest Grove Colts, and Hi Davis, the old reliable, were in the game all the time, but Kopypy is satisfied that when he gets sick he will draft Wilkes to handle the infield for the Colts.

John Becker, the scoresman for the Cardinals, knows the game, and keeps the records like a bank book keeper.

Deference to a Title.

"By George, I can't understand this! An old and experienced clerk like you letting a swindling stranger have $50 out of the cash drawer."

"Of course I wouldn't have given it to him if he hadn't spoken with a foreign accent and called himself a count."

"A count, eh! Oh, well, that's different."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

His First Glimpse.

Hardly had the proud father entered the sickroom to get his first glimpse of the new twins than both newborns set up a loud bawling. "Now, now," cautioned the father, holding up his hand and glancing from one red face to the other, "one at a time—one at a time!"—Argonaut.
