Ole Hansen

Expert Horse Shoeing and General Blacksmithing

At The OLD STAND, REEDVILLE, Oregon.

Last Sunday, Constable W. A. Danford caught Dan Cochrane, a young man who has been in the employ of A. B. Flint for the past year, in the act of shooting Chinese pheasants and at once placed him under arrest. Later in the day, Flint and Cochrane appeared before Judge C. E. Kindt when arrangements were made for Cochrane to plead guilty the following day. Cochrane was allowed to go on his own recognizance, as he was well known to the Court, but failed to show up at the appointed time. It is understood he has left the state. Judge Kindt stated that hereafter all defendants in criminal cases would be compelled to furnish bail or go to jail, as he did not propose to be imposed on, even if the parties were vouched for by leading citizens. If Cochrane ever returns to Oregon, he will at once be re-arrested.

Work is progressing finely on the Tamiessie block, Third and Main, and in a few days the walls will have been built. The trees in front will be felled and a wide concrete walk laid. The upstairs will have fifteen office rooms, and each will be heated by a hot water plant, and have modern conveniences. The heating plant will be located in the rear of a downstairs room, and pipes laid from the coils into the upper story. Dr. Tamiessie says he hopes to make the building one of the most modern in the county, and he thinks he will have no trouble to rent all of his building.

Victor Nord and wife, of below Harris Bridge, were in town Tuesday. Mr. Nord recently lost a horse, or suffered a theft of it, and his advertisement is found in another column. Argus readers will remember that Mr. Nord and wife were married in June and attracted considerable attention because of his disparity of age, Nord being 37 and his bride but eighty.

The Farmington baseball team met and defeated the Reedville club on the latter's grounds, last Sunday, by the decisive score of 28 to 8. The grounds were located on a hayfield which was so rough that infield fielding was nearly impossible, so it was merely a matter of which team had the best batemen.

Geo. Bacon, travelling for a St. Louis vehicle house, and making the south and west, was in town Tuesday, greeting oldtime friends, made years ago when he was in business here and at Forest Grove. He is now making his home at Deer Island. His wife has been accompanying him on several of the trips to the South.

Emil Kuratli, the well known real estate man, writes the Argus from Berne, Switzerland, that the journey of himself and wife has been a splendid success, and they are enjoying the beautiful Swiss scenery. He states that over 20,000 tourists were at that place, July 8.

Frank Keenon was down from Vineland, Tuesday, bringing in O. H. Reed and wife, of Portland, who have been visiting there for a few days. The wife is a daughter of Keenon, and the husband is engineer of the heating and electric plant of the Portland Hotel.

All the young people will be at the pavilion, Shute Park, Saturday evening, July 31. A dandy floor and fine music—Toelle's orchestra always gives the finest measures. There will be a fine crowd.

J. M. Miller is again petitioning the county court for license to conduct a saloon at Banks, for the period of a year. He has a very large petition making the request of the county court.

J. H. Dobbins, raised in this city, and well known to all of the old-time people and many of the younger generation, is now on the steady freight run from Portland to Corvallis, passing through this city.

We are in the market for two farms of about 100 acres each; cleared and good soil, and for which we will pay cash for all, but price must be right—A. J. Ray, 334 Sherlock Building, Portland, Oregon.

John Brooks, who was released on bail furnished by Dr. Large, promised to write the Sheriff's office regularly, but he does not appear to be much of a correspondent. Brooks is on bail to appear to answer a statutory crime.

Wm. McQuillan, who recently sold his farm, departed Monday for Fresno, to be absent for an extended time. He has a niece and nephew in California, and visits them.

R. Puhols, who has farmed the Mrs. Smith-Christensen place, near West Union, was in town Saturday. He has a fine crop this year, and starts harvest this week.

Ward Swops, who formerly taught here and at Forest Grove, is now holding down a position in the registry department of the Portland postoffice.

Newton Womer, one of the old timers of the Laurel section, was a county seat visitor Tuesday.

Geo. Holt, who runs a hotel at Buxton, was down to the city yesterday.

Henry Hannan, of Buxton, and who with his son is interested in the big store at Buxton, was down to the city Friday evening.

Wanted—Intelligent man or woman to take territory, and appoint canvassers to sell our water filters. Exclusive territory, and nice profitable work for the right party.—Seneca Filter Co., Seneca, Mo.

When it was finished the neighborhood rose up in arms, and the landlord was frantic. The tenant politely explained that there was nothing in the lease about the color, so he intended to finish the job by painting the back of the house green with large yellow spots. The landlord saw that he had met his match, and within a few days the tenant had a new lease in which the landlord undertook to do all the outside painting.—Lippincott's Magazine.

A Truce.

Braun (finding his neighbors in the midst of a domestic quarrel)—But what are you doing under the bed, Tips? Tips—Looking for a mark that was lost, aren't I, my dear? Mrs. Tips—Yes, but you can come out now. You can look for it again after Herr Braun has gone.—Fleegende Blätter.

The Wane of the Honeymoon.

"Haven't you forgotten something?" the sweet young wife called to him from the open doorway. He stopped and fumbled in his pockets.

What is It?

"You—you used to kiss me when you started downtown," she said, with a little flush on her rounded cheeks. "Oh, is that it?" he cried as he retraced his steps. "There you are. And, say, I'll take enough for four mornings ahead. Hang it all, there goes my car!" And he made the gravel fly as he raced for the street crossing.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In the Future.

Pausing at the entrance to the church wherein the wedding ceremony is being performed, we note an almsbox tugging at its moorings and at one side concealed in the shrubbery a huge mortar or siege gun. About this latter are grouped a merry party of young folk, who are laughing gaily and are loading the weapon to the muzzle with old shoes and rice.

What are you doing?

"They're going away in their airship on their honeymoon trip," explains one of the joyous party. "Just when they fear the steeple of the church we are going to let them have the contents of this gun."—Chicago Post.

Did Not Like the Jury.

A tailor who was defendant in a case at the assizes seemed much cast down when brought up for trial.

What's the trouble?

"It looks pretty bad for me," said the defendant, "unless some steps are taken to dismiss that jury and get in a new lot. There ain't a man among 'em but what owes me money for clothes."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Singular and Plural.

"Whenever she gets to thinking how much they're in debt it affects her nerves."

How singular?

"Just singular. It affects his 'nerve.' He tried to borrow a hundred from me today."—Catholic Standard and Times.

New Scheme.

Jimmy—What yer looking so gay about, kiddo? Yer'll get a licking when yer get home for going in swimming. Petey—Oh, no. I told dad I had been in swimming and got the licking before I left home. Now I can swim without anything on my mind.—Denver News.

Contradicted.

The play was dull from start to end, and the author thus addressed a friend. "If 'twas not a bit, 'twas a miss, for I didn't hear a single hiss." "True," said his friend, "but in such weather no man can hiss and gape together."—Detroit Free Press.

A Pointer.

"Boy, have you seen a valuable hat yet? I can't find it anywhere." "Which way was the pin headed, so'am?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

She Dusted Him.

Mrs. Benham—Man is made of dust. Benham—I wish you wouldn't use a rolling pin for a dust brush.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Wise Wife.

"Yes," said the newspaper artist, "my wife helps me in my work." "She normally draws my salary."—Kansas City Times.

DOTTED LINE DOTINESS.

He'd been cutting puzzle pictures for the children every week. And at last he rose in frenzy and began to wildly speak.

"Please be careful when you trim me. I'm a puzzle picture now." Then he slapped his palm with vigor on his supercilious brow.

"You will find complete instructions at the side of the design, but be sure that when you fold me fold me on the dotted line."

"If the dealer doesn't give me with the paper that you say. Tell him that he is a robber and then sweat him in the eye."

Lay me on the dining table when the breakfast hour is over. Or if baby wants to watch it spread me out upon the floor."

Note the letters and the figures where the sections all combine. And be sure that when you fold me fold me on the dotted line."

"I'm a steamboat and an engine and a horse and wagon too. You will find that every Sunday I am always something new."

Please be careful when you're working over me with happy haste. That you do not cut your fingers or upset the pot of paste. I'm a colored puzzle picture, and I think that it is fine."

But be sure that when you fold me fold me on the dotted line."

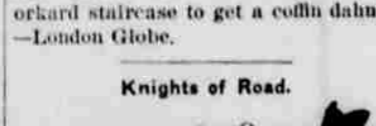

So we took him by the fingers, and we led him gently out. And we put him in a wagon that was waiting thereabout. And we hauled him to the portal of the sanitarium.

While he showed us how to shape him till he was a big bass drum. The attendant nodded gravely when he said, "Note my design. And be sure that when you fold me fold me on the dotted line."—Chicago Post.

Cheering Him Up.

"Bill," said the invalid's friend, "I've come to cheer you up a bit like I. I've brought yer a few flahrs, Bill. I fought if I was too late they'd come in handy for a wreat, yer know. Don't get downhearted, Bill. Lummy, don't yer look gashly! But, there, keep up yer spirits, ole sport. I've come to see yer an' cheer yer up a bit. Nice little room you 'ave 'ere, but as I sez to meself when I was a-comin' up, 'Wat 'a orkard staircase to get a coffin dahn!'"—London Globe.

Knights of Road.

"Yes, Freddy, I was nearly killed for droppin' out of a poker game once!" "How was dat?" "Why, it was in a balloon, an' I had ter drop about 500 feet."

Knew What Was Coming.

Judge—Did you witness the accident? Witness—I did. Judge—At what distance? Witness—Sixty-seven feet and nine inches. Judge—How do you know so exactly? Witness—Well, I knew I'd be summoned and prepared myself for all the foolish questions I knew would be put to me in court.—Kansas City Journal.
