THE PAYNE TARIFF BILL

History of the Measure and a Summary of Its Principal Provisions--The New Free List.

What the People Will Pay Less and More For--President Taft's Fight For Downward Revision.

After one of the bitterest and one of the most momentous legislative epochs in the history of the national capital...

statements of a fraudulent nature are subject to a fine of $1,000 and imprisonment for one year.

HISTORY OF THE BILL.

The new tariff law will be known in history as the Payne bill, taking its name from the chairman of the house committee of ways and means...

It is the first time there has been a change of the tariff laws in twelve years, the Dingley act having gone into effect in 1897.

The agitation within the Republican party for a revision of the Dingley act has gone on from the days of the "Iowa idea" until at last it culminated in the plank in the last Republican platform...

The expenses of the war of 1812 necessitated a material increase in the tariff, but an adjustment occurred two years after the close of the war...

The tariff bill enacted in the United States was that of the First Congress. The opening section of that bill stated that, in addition to securing money for the support of the government, the tariff was adopted for the encouragement and protection of manufactures.

The Morrill bill of 1811 increased duties about one-third, and the tax was extended to include tea, coffee and sugar.

and sugar. Internal revenue was collected, beginning in 1862, and two years later the duties were raised 50 per cent for a period of ninety days.

But the revision which followed resulted in the re-election of Cleveland in 1892, with a Democratic Congress. Then resulted the Wilson bill, providing for wholesale reductions...

While Dr Linklater was coming down the hill at the west approach of the long bridge, a mile west of town, one of his auto wheels broke and let the machine to the ground.

The little five year old daughter of Tony Siny, residing on Iowa Hill, was severely burned on one foot, Tuesday. The family had been burning some debris in the yard, and the children were playing around the fire.

THE FREE LIST.

The new free list of the Payne bill includes the following articles: Petroleum, crude and refined, was continued on the free list, though considerable opposition to this procedure developed.

Geo. S. Robinson, of beyond Laurel, recently sold his 264 acre ranch to the Mr. Holmes, of Salem. There are 40 acres under cultivation.

Guy T. Helvering, a classmate of W. G. Gare, in the Ann Arbor Law School, was in the city Tuesday, visiting the latter. He hails from Marysville, Kansas, where he is engaged in the practice of law.

ADMINISTRATIVE FEATURES.

The bill marks a distinct departure in that it provides for a corporation tax and a court of customs. The corporation tax, while yielding a large amount of revenue, is primarily designed for the purpose of governmental regulation of corporations, and it will have this effect.

The fact that the amount of the tax to be assessed was lowered from 2 per cent to 1 per cent is considered by the members of congress to evidence clearly that the bill has regulation for its object and not merely revenue.

The customs court of appeals will further centralize the national government, and it will place the intricate and technical cases as to the construction of the law and the facts respecting classification of merchandise and rate of duty under the jurisdiction of men who are specialists in this line.

While many items in the bill show revision downward, it will as a whole provide for an increased revenue, continuing in general effect the Republican policy of protection.

Retaliation Measures.

Governmental measures of retaliation against countries which do not make tariff concessions to the United States are amply provided for. Maximum and minimum provisions enable a higher rate of tax to be imposed on the products of these countries than would ordinarily have been the case.

The creation of a commission to look into the question of the tariff from a nonpartisan viewpoint is an innovation that has been suggested for many years. It is generally looked on as a move toward "taking the tariff out of politics."

A policy long ago established by tariff makers in this country is retained in the new measure. It is the imposing of particularly heavy duties on luxuries.

The "drawback" provisions are indicative of a more kind hearted governmental attitude than had been considered probable. In brief, a drawback is a refund of duty money paid on material imported into this country which is used in the manufacture of articles which are themselves exported from this country.

The guiding spirit in the formulation of the provisions of the new measure has been one to fix duties that do not necessarily encourage foreign importation, but that render it impossible for a combination of capital in any given line to raise prices above those that now exist and to prevent them in general from being further raised.

Walt Taylor and his crew commenced active work on the concrete walk on the south side of Main Street, Monday morning.

The concrete is soon to be extended clear around the block, on the west side of Third and north side of Washington, and the Oregon Electric will also put in a cement walk in front of its Washington Street property.

W. J. Womelsdorf, of near Laurel, met with an accident resulting in the fracture of the right leg above the ankle, Monday, while running a hayfork on his farm.

Paul, the 7 year old son of Geo. Robinson, of beyond Laurel, fell from a load of hay Saturday, and broke his right arm, just above the wrist. Dr. Linklater set the fracture and the little fellow is getting along nicely.

H. V. Gates and associates have filed on the John Day river water rights covering a distance of about twenty miles. The waters are to be used for a water system for the city of Heppner, where Mr. Gates and his associates have a water and light plant.

A young fellow by the name of Miller, residing on the J. T. Young place, while trying to remove a bolt from a piece of machinery, Tuesday, severely injured an eye. Dr. F. A. Bailey attended the injured optic.

Henry Matthes, of near Laurel, was in Monday and took out a fine registered Cotswold buck, bought from the Stump fold, at Monmouth. The young fellow comes from imported stock, and will be a fine addition to Mr. Matthes' flock.

J. B. Wilkes was last Saturday elected vice president of the Oregon Title and Abstract Association. From Portland Mr. Wilkes went to Seattle, where he met with the National convention of Title Men, and incidentally visited the big Fair.

C. E. Hurst, who for several years has conducted the Postmaster B. P. Cornelius ranch, was in Monday getting ready for the threshermen. He reports a fine crop.

Farm horses look better this summer than for many years--due doubtless to the fact that we have had a very cool season. Nearly all work animals are in fine shape, carrying more flesh than usual.
