JOHN DENNIS,

Hillsboro, - - - Oregon.

B. C. Hollenbeck and wife, en route to St. Johns, Florida, write the Argus as they are steaming down that river. They arrived in Jacksonville, that state, September 9, and passed through fields of cotton, corn, tobacco, sweet potatoes, but say that they have not seen anything that beats old Washington County, Oregon. While at Jacksonville they visited an orchard farm, where they saw 100 young and old birds, and nests with as high as eleven eggs. They witnessed a little darkey hitch up one of the huge birds and drive him around a race track with speed as rapid as that of a racehorse. The company raising these birds took them out in an auto over shell roads and showed them a good time, generally. They hoped to reach their new home on his 10th inst, and send their regards to all their Washington County friends.

Why buy a steel range from a peddler, and pay him more than you have to pay Emrick & Corwin for a steel range? We can beat their prices here at home. If you don't believe us come in and see.

Martin Vandehy, superintendent of the poor farm, was up to the city Monday, and reports that Aug. Boche, the German who has been an inmate of the farm for many years, went to church, Sunday, and, being nearly blind, strayed away toward Portland several miles. His lapse was not at all intentional as it is the only home that he knows, and he is perfectly satisfied—as much so as if he were in proprietorship.

Jack Varley, of near Dallas, Texas, is here, accompanied by his brother, W. H. Varley, and both are guests of their brother, R. N. Varley, of west of this city. Jack Varley was here several years ago, and thinks of disposing of his Texas property and coming to Oregon to state. For 18 years he has been running a thresher in Texas. He likes Oregon, and will either settle here or in Montana.

Chris Shattuck, years ago engineer at the local water and light plant, and who is now in charge of the Gates plant at Prineville, was in town Friday. Chris is looking fine, and carries quite a "corporation front" with him. He says he sees many changes in Hillsboro, and observes that the old town has "looked up" some since he left for the bunch grass country.

Herman Seidler, who for 17 years had charge of the Southern Pacific section, out of Cornelius and who left the Railway employ to go farming, was in town Saturday evening. He recently purchased the John Vandenberg place, near Centerville, containing 57 acres, all in the cleared class.

Joseph Beeks, who left here 31 years ago for the Yakima country, was here the last of the week, and went on out to Centerville, to see his old friends, J. W. and G. W. Marsh. He expects to soon locate in Washington County. He left for Seattle Wednesday evening.

The Use of Money

The way a man uses money—makes it, saves it, spends it—is perhaps one of the best tests of character.

Money should not be regarded as the principal ends of life, nor should it be regarded with contempt, for it represents to a great extent the means of mental and physical comfort.

The finest qualities of human nature are related to the right use of money—generosity, honesty, justice and self sacrifice.

A little self sacrifice, a saving account with this bank, and a determination to use your money right (by saving it) will soon accumulate a snug balance to your credit.

We pay four per cent on savings and time certificates.
