The windy oracle that conducts the Independent is clying a great deal over the Argus being appointed the official county paper, and questions the integrity, financial sbility, and intentions of those who take this mick and lowly paper. Don't worry; don't be envious-it is conducive of jaundice; and finally, if you must know the truth, come over and the Argus books may be inspected, and then techaps you'll lift the terrific indictment of the nearly 2000 who take the religious journal-and pay for it
