By the baking of a big gasoline buggy, the climbing qualities of which were vaunted by the demonstrator, a number of local people narrowly escaped being hurt seriously while the automobile was climbing the hill on the Wilson river stage route Tuesday about five miles from Gales City.

The occupants of the car were John McNamer, Hugh Smith, Claud Smith, John Stribich, Charles Miller, Jake Wirtz and the demonstrator. The engine, it is said, refused to work because the fuel did not flow from the tank. The auto began to run backwards but was guided into the bank by the chauffeur. Miller jumped out, before the machine capsized.—Forest Grove News.

Clyde Lincoln, of Glencoe, and who recently left for his Montana homestead near Inverness, had all kinds of hard luck in getting through with his carload of impedimenta. When he reached the stockyards at Portland four head of cows were condemned by the stock inspector and he was compelled to sell them to the Union Meat Co., for two cents per pound or get nothing for them. He was again held up for two days at Spokane, and by the time he got through he found that it cost him considerable more for his through car than was expected.

Mrs. Zurilda Tozier, widow of the late Chas. T. Tozier, was in the city Sunday, a guest at the T. S. Weathered home. Mrs. Tozier is the mother of Albert Tozier, Edythe Tozier—Weathered and LeRoy Tozier, all well known here. LeRoy is now practicing law at Fairbanks, Alaska, and is favorably mentioned as a candidate to represent Alaska in Congress at the next session. Mrs. Tozier has not been here for many years, and is very much surprised at the city's improvement.

Strawberries are ripening and the local production is very fine. S. M. Chapman brought in some fine Sharpless, Monday, and left a splendid sample at the Argus office. He has a Magoon plant that has 310 berries set, and if anyone can beat this it's time to "speak up." Mr. Chapman's yard is located two miles West of town.

Francisco Mulino, who lives near Bald peak, on the Chehalis Mountain, lost his house by fire last Thursday, while he was absent on a trip to Laurel. House and contents were a total loss. It is thought that a defective flue was the cause of the blaze.

Sheriff Hancock was nursing a "blue eye" and a bandaged head, the first of the week, the result of a collision with a stick of wood with which he was having a wrestling match. The wood business is getting to be a dangerous game.

Sam Moon, of Centerville, and Loui Manning, of North of town, two of the oldtime horsemen in the days of "horse glory" in Washington County, were in the city Monday morning, mixing like two old cronies.

Robert McKnight, who has 26 acres of hops growing on the old Farnham place, was in town Saturday. Mr. McKnight says he has a 14-acre yard that can not be excelled in the county for growth and prospects.

A. E. Dailey, of Laurel, reports that Geo. Hull, of Binkelman, Neb., said to be the last of the gunners of the mortar fleet on the Mississippi, died at his Nebraska home the other day.

John Zimmerman, of beyond Glencoe, was in town Monday morning. His section of the country is developing rapidly these days, and bids fair to be a fine dairy district in a few years.

J. W. Hughes, the South Forest Grove rancher and dairyman, and who takes a great interest in better herds, was down to the city Monday morning.

Ed Brooks, of Oakland, Ore., and his brother, Raleigh Brooks, of Scholls, have purchased the Mays & Conover Store, at Scholls.

W. F. Hartrampf, wife and children, were down from Forest Grove, Sunday, guests at the J. W. Hartrampf home.

Chas. F. Miller and Bud Watson were down from Forest Grove, Sunday, to see the locals—the "has-beens"—play the matinee three innings.

John Northrop, the oldtime hotel man, and for years a resident of this city, was out from Portland Monday, on legal business.

J. T. Morrison, of near Farmington, was in the city Saturday. J. T. says that crops are looking fine down his way.

Julius Asbahr, of South Tualatin, was in town Monday. Mr. Asbahr has two boys at the Oregon Agricultural College.

J. E. Dickason, road supervisor in the Mountaineer district, this side, was in town Monday morning.

George Corrigan, of Shady Brook, was a county seat caller Monday morning.

Jake Schneider, of Leisyville, was in town Saturday.
