CANDIDATES FILE THEIR PLATFORM

Tell What They Will do if Elected to Respective Offices

WASH FILES HIS DECLARATION

Says he is in Favor of Rock Roads and Permanent Work

Several of the candidates before the primaries have filed their declaration, or platforms, with County Clerk Bailey, and more will file this week. The candidates file their instruments as follows:

G. W. Marsh, for county judge: "If I am nominated and elected, I will during my term of office honestly, conscientiously and impartially perform the duties appertaining to my office, and will use my best efforts to give the people of Washington County, a progressive, businesslike and economical administration of business affairs. I favor the building of permanent rock roads, a uniform system of road building and in getting permanent returns for the money expended and will work to that end."

I desire to have placed on the ballot after my name, the following words: "Businesslike administration; Permanent roads and full value for every cent expended."

Geo. G. Hancock, for sheriff: "If I am nominated and elected, I will during my term of office faithfully and impartially discharge the duties thereof, and give to the people of this county an efficient and at the same time an economical administration. I further state that I will give the business of that office my personal attention and every man a square deal."

Charles W. London, for representative: "Faithfully perform the duties of this office. I desire to have printed after my name on the ballot: 'The will of the people shall reign supreme.'"

H. G. King, for treasurer: "Strict attention to the duties of the office, and turn all interest collected on county funds into the county treasury."

E. L. Perkins, for recorder of conveyances: Promises to accept and not withdraw, if nominated, and says: "If I am nominated and elected I will during my term of office faithfully discharge the duties thereof."

W. H. Hollis, for representative: "Favor such a policy of economy in all public expenditures as shall be just to the taxpayers and consistent with the growth and progress of Washington County and the State of Oregon."

FOR THE LEGISLATURE

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the legislature subject to the Republican primaries, Sept. 24, 1910. I am a firm believer in the direct primary and believe in its being kept on our statutes. I am also a believer in direct legislation and Statement No. 1, and on these principles go before the Washington County electorate.

Chas. W. London,
Columbia Precinct, Cornelius Route 1.

FAILS TO GIVE BOND

Ed. Thomas, of Forest Grove, had his preliminary before Judge Barnes, last Friday, and was bound over to answer at circuit court in the sum of $2,500. The charge is a serious one, the prosecuting witness being his daughter. She was the only witness examined, and as the defense made no attempt to give evidence the court decreed that the defendant should appear before a higher court. Thomas was unable to give a bond and was remanded to the county jail, where he has been incarcerated since his arrest a week ago Saturday afternoon.

Ray Emmott, of Hillsboro, William Thistlewaite, of Klamath Falls, and Chas. Goodall, of Oakland, had an exciting experience with a bear on August 1. They started out the day before and on the first day killed several deer, one weighing 135 pounds dressed. On the way home Emmott's good hound jumped a bear and running it a couple of miles, finally treading it. Emmott and Goodall followed the dog as closely as possible. As they reached the tree into which the bear had been run, it started down. The hunters were on the lower hillside as they shot, and the animal came down striking and biting at them. The dog grabbed his bearship by the ham and walloped him down the hill. It was several minutes before Emmott got a good shot at its head. The dog was pawed up a little, but not seriously hurt. The hunters had had traveling to get out, and took only the hide and one ham of the bear home, where the people gave them the glad hand and the boys showed them that they were game. Eugene Daily.

We manufacture rough and dressed lumber of all kinds, and out of fine timber. If you are going to build, give us a chance to figure on your bill. Will figure at yard, or deliver. We are now sawing from the best timber cut in our section for years. Groner & Rowell Co., Scholls, Hillsboro, Ore., Route 2. 7tf

John H. Dobbins, raised here, and with the Southern Pacific as conductor for several years past, is now located at Ashland, Oregon, where he is a conductor on a 22 mile switching run. He writes that his new position enables him to be home every night, that Ashland has the finest peaches in the world; and that he and wife and children are feeling the best in the world.

Hop pickers wanted at the Ray & Co.'s yard, at Witch Hazel. S. P. trains stop at station. Write to W. R. Peterson, manager, Reedville, Ore. 21tf

E. C. Mulloy, who has 15 acres of hops in the Laurel section, was in town Saturday. He states that the crop will be light this year, but of fine quality. The vines however, will furnish what is known as "outside picking," as the clusters are tending to set on the outside of the vines. This will make nice picking, and speedy.

Team for sale: Mare and horse, weigh about 1300 each. Good work animals. About nine years old.—H. Harrington, near Centerville.

"A Concrete Modern Instance of Manly Christianity" will be the theme of Evan P. Hughes at the Christian Church, next Sunday night, Aug. 14, at 8 o'clock. Mr. Hughes will speak at 11:00 a. m. in the First Congregational Church on "The Philosophy of Worry." All are most cordially invited to attend.

Ice cream delivered to any part of the town. Remember we have Hazelwood. Both telephones.—Koerber's Confectionery.

Chas. Koontz and wife are camping at Timber, and expect to be absent this week and next. Mrs. Koontz is chaperoning the following young ladies: Eva Emrick, Mattie Wilson, Josephine Follett, Theodate Hobbs, Mary Heidel and Maud Griffiths.

For sale: Good cedar posts.—G. B. Hays, one and one-half miles N. W. of Laurel, Ore., on Route 1. 20-22

Cal Jack Jr., of the Shute Bank, is enjoying a vacation at Timber, the guest of Chas. Koontz. The fish that these two heavyweights will catch—if they get all they want—will lower the Nehalem river so that there will be no navigation at the mouth of the stream.

We carry a choice stock of fruits and nuts: Koerber's Confectionery.

Geo. M. Hunter has a crew of carpenters working at Richard Linton's, and before leaving they will build a residence, a barn and a granary. The Linton place is a mile or so east of this city.

Born, August 6, 1910, to P. G. Vickers and wife, of Hillsboro, a son. This is the second boy born to Mr. and Mrs. Vickers. The happy father is the genial Southern Pacific agent.

Fred Zilly returned Friday evening from ten days at Newport, and reported that the Hillsboro colony are having a fine time at that popular beach.

Mrs. H. T. Bagley departed Saturday for a week at Newport, where she is the guest of Mrs. L. A. Long.

VETERAN EDITOR DIES AT BALTIMORE, MD.

Hon. Harvey Whitefield Scott Succumbs to Operation

ONE OF NATION'S GREAT EDITORS

Graduated From Pacific University in the Early Days

Hon. Harvey Whitefield Scott, the Nestor of Oregon journalism, and one of the great editors of the Nation, died at Baltimore, Sunday, after having submitting to an operation for prostatic ailment at the John Hopkins Hospital.

Mr. Scott is well known in the Northwest as editor of the Morning Oregonian and his virile pen proclaimed him as one of the really great editors of the age. He was born in Tazewell, County, Ill., Feb. 1, 1838, and crossed the plains with his parents in 1852. The Scotts first settled in Yamhill County, but later went to near Olympia, Wash. About 1860 they moved to Forest Grove. Mr. Scott graduated from Pacific University in 1863. His life was one of hard toil as a boy, and his first trip to Pacific was made on foot from Mason County, Washington, and it is said that he carried his clothes on his back and swam streams in making the trip.

After graduation he went to Idaho, and for one year was engaged in mining and whipsawing. He then returned to Oregon and in 1864 came to Portland, where for a few months he was employed as librarian in the Portland library. He then sought and obtained a working place on The Oregonian. Showing a decided talent for newspaper work, he soon after became editor, a position which, with the exception of a short interval, from 1873 to 1877, he has ever since filled.

In October, 1865, Mr. Scott married Miss Elizabeth Nicklin. She died in 1875, leaving two children, John H. and Kenneth Scott, the latter dying in childhood. Mr. Scott's second wife was Miss Margaret McChesney. He married her at her father's home, Latrobe, Pa., in 1876. Mr. Scott is survived by his wife and four children, John H., Leslie M., Ambrose B. and Miss Judith M. Scott. He was the last of five brothers, two of whom died in infancy. The fourth, John Henry Scott, died at Forest Grove, May 1, 1862. Four sisters are still living, and in Portland. They are: Mrs. Mary Frances Cook, Mrs. Abigail Scott Dunaway, Mrs. Catherine A. Colburn and Mrs. Harriet L. Palmer. Mrs. Margaret Burns and Mrs. Maria Kelly, two sisters, died, the former in September, 1865, and the latter in 1901. Mrs. Ellen Latourrette, a half-sister, is living at Oregon City, and Charles Scott, a half brother, died in 1895.

Besides the children there are four grandchildren. William Harvey and Marian, son and daughter of John H. Scott, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie M. Scott, and Margaret, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Scott.

The family lived at First and Market streets for a time, moving in 1880 to their present home, Twelfth and Morrison streets. Mr. Scott took two trips abroad, the first accompanying Mr. Scott, in 1891, and another in the Fall of 1896, when he was accompanied by Mrs. Scott and his daughter. On the latter trip he visited the chief points of interest in Europe, among them Florence, Italy, Rome, Vienna and Switzerland, besides London and England.

During the continuous service as editor of The Oregonian, Mr. Scott took an active part in political and civic affairs in Portland and Oregon, aside from the discussions in The Oregonian of which he was the author.

In 1886 he was the temporary secretary of the state convention of the Union party, and at numerous times in the following subsequent years he was an active participant as delegate in the Republican party conventions in Oregon. In 1876 he was a delegate to the Republican National convention, held at Cincinnati, and which nominated Rutherford B. Hayes for President of the United States.

In 1880 Mr. Scott was a delegate to the memorable Republican National convention which nominated James A. Garfield.

At the time of his death Mr. Scott was a trustee of the Pacific University at Forest Grove, of which he was the first graduate. He had been a member of the Portland Water Board and always took great pride in Portland's water system. He was also a member of the State Text Book Commission, which chose the text books for the schools of the state.

In 1904 Mr. Scott was elected President of the Lewis and Clark Fair Association, but declined election in 1905, when he was succeeded by H. W. Goodale. Mr. Scott was a member of the charter board, which drafted the present charter of the City of Portland. He was a member of the Arlington Club and of the Portland Commercial club.

For County Judge

To the Republican voters of Washington County. The undersigned is a candidate before the Republican primaries, Sept. 24, 1910, for the party nomination for County Judge of Washington County, Oregon.

If I am nominated and elected, I will, during my term of office, conscientiously and impartially perform the duties appertaining to the office, and will use my best efforts to give the people of Washington County a progressive, businesslike and economical administration of county affairs. I favor the building of permanent rock roads, a uniform system of road building, and getting permanent returns for public money expended—and I will earnestly work to that end. I desire to have placed on the ballot, after my name, the following: "Businesslike administration; Permanent roads, and full value for every cent expended."

ROSELAIR AGAIN SENTENCED TO HANG

Brought to Hillsboro by Sheriff Hancock Monday, at 11 a. m.

HAS HAD HIS DAY IN COURT

Wife Murderer Must Expiate His Crime on Thursday, Sept. 8

Sheriff Hancock Monday morning, at 11:31 arrived with John D. Roselair, wife-murderer, having brought the slayer down from Salem. The condemned man looks rather more pinched than when he left Hillsboro to await execution on the gallows. His appeal having been made and the Supreme Court having affirmed the decision of the circuit court, Judge Campbell fixed Monday, August 8 as the day for the final sentence. Roselair ate his dinner in the county jail, with relish, and when visited by an Argus reporter talked intelligently on the crop conditions about Salem; about the prison management, which he says is good; and told about an escape from the brickyard. He was rational in all his conversation, except when dwelling on his family troubles. He said he had not seen Jeffries since his incarceration in the penitentiary and had received but two letters from him.

THE SENTENCE

Judge J. U. Campbell, who presided at Roselair's trial, arrived in the city at 3:05 and at once repaired to the circuit court room. Roselair was brought before the court at 3:30 and Judge Campbell sentenced him to be hanged at the penitentiary at Salem, on Thursday, September 8th. Judge Campbell stated to Roselair that it was to the everlasting credit of the County that it did not give him summary justice considering the atrocity of the crime; that he had had a jury trial by twelve citizens of the county; his case had been appealed and the verdict sustained by the Supreme Court; and that society was now demanding, under its laws, that he must expiate his crime. He told Roselair that the death to be meted out to him was not so much for his punishment as it was as an object lesson for those criminally inclined. He said that he was ignorant of his early training and had no knowledge of how much extenuation his environment might be, but that the court was only the machinery of the law and he must pay the penalty. Roselair was self-controlled and stood up for sentence without a tremor. Attorney Jeffries was present and heard the sentence.

Sheriff Hancock returned to Salem with the prisoner, Monday evening, taking with him the death warrant. It is noted that Roselair must hang within 31 days from date of sentence. The law says sentence must not be less than 30, nor more than 60 before hanging, and the court allowed but one day more than the 30.

CHRONOLOGY OF THE CRIME

Roselair killed his wife May 15, 1909; surrendered to Sheriff Hancock May 16, at 6:00 o'clock in the morning; remained in jail until December term of circuit court; the jury was sworn in December 15; the jury returned a verdict of guilty December 21; Judge Campbell sentenced him on December 27, the penalty to be hanging, and the date of execution set for Friday, February 11. On February 4, Jeffries asked for a new trial, which was denied, and on February 9, he appeared before the Supreme Court and asked for a stay of execution, which was granted.

District Attorney E. B. Tongue, who tried and convicted Roselair, filed a 90-page brief June 1; argued the case before the Supreme Court June 28; and had the decree of the lower court affirmed July 12—the case being finally determined in 14 months, from the time of murder.

Leo Schwander, of above Mountindale, was in Saturday afternoon, bringing in with him his 10 year old son, who had nearly severed a toe with a sharp ax. Dr. Tamiesie sewed on the member, but says he may yet have to undergo an amputation.

J. E. Dickason, of above Mountindale, and who has been the road supervisor for his district for some time, was in the city Monday.
