

THE HILLSBORO ARGUS.

VOL. XVII

HILLSBORO, OREGON, SEPT. 29, 1910.

NO. 29

HALF TAX MUST BE PAID BY MONDAY EVE

Otherwise Delinquency Ensues With Interest and Penalty

SEVERAL THOUSAND YET UNPAID

Many Will be in Last of Week to Liquidate at the Counter

This is the last full week of grace for the payment of the last half of the county and state tax, and hundreds will take advantage of street fair week to walk over to the court house and pungle up the balance of their dues to Sheriff Hancock. If the last half goes delinquent, after next Monday, there will be a penalty and interest, and it runs into money rapidly. So if you have paid half your tax before, and liquidate the other part, or stand to lose some money.

Taxes can be paid right up to Monday evening, as the law says that the grace runs up to, and inclusive of, the first Monday in October.

Several thousand dollars will therefore be placed in the hands of the county in the next three business days.

They will make their home in their new bungalow, east of the city Park, and will be at home to their friends after a short wedding trip.

Rev. F. V. Fisher has been transferred to Ogden, Utah, where he will have charge of the M. E. pulpit. Mr. Fisher has been here the past conference year, awaiting a larger field. Bishop Smith and his cabinet evidently considered Mr. Fisher was the man for the Utah charge.

Andrew Heckmann, the road supervisor for Beaverton, was in town Friday. He has just finished some fine rock road work in the Cedar Mill district. Mr. Heckmann brought to the Argus office three fine apples, from a three year-old Oregon tree, which were the finest of the line for color and bouquet. They were very large, as well, and were perfect as to formation and freedom from scale or worm.

About thirty of the visiting ministers were taken out to see the surrounding country, Monday afternoon, making the trip by rigs and automobiles. The visitors were enthusiastic over their trip, and all united in saying that they had never seen a finer section anywhere in the Northwest. R. Lee Sears, Dr. W. D. Wood and Thos. Connell were among those who drove their cars.

Persons living in the country and wishing to take the Daily and Sunday Oregonian for one year can, by paying a year in advance, get the Argus and an Oregonian map, or chart, for the one price. This offer will not last long—so get in your order soon.

Chas. J. Herb, of the Greenville Banks section, was in town Saturday, enroute to Portland. He has just finished a forty-one days' sledge of threshing, and turned out 76,000 bushels of grain. This is a good record, and one that few threshermen equal in this section.

PRUNING AND SPRAYING BRINGS THE RESULTS

Fine Exhibits of Horticulture Brought in to Street Fair

SHOWS WHAT CARE WILL ACCOMPLISH

No Climate in the World Can Excel Our Local Production

A few years ago, Washington County's apple production amounted to nothing because of the general apathy for better horticulture. Today it is different, for growers everywhere in this section are pruning and spraying for all there is in it, and the splendid exhibits at the street fair is a demonstration of what the section can do with care and culture.

Nowhere in the world can there be found finer looking apples; finer colored apples; or apples with finer bouquets. The displays here have been eye-openers in more ways than one, and home people have never dreamed that such perfection could be a matter of history.

Hood River men who come here and see what we can do are astounded that there are not more orchards, and that apple land is selling so cheaply. Where the Hood flows apple lands run only about from $1000 to $1500 per acre—while down here one can buy acreage that will beat Hood River at from $50 to $300 per acre.

PUBLIC SALE

The undersigned will sell at public auction at his farm, one-quarter mile west of the Farmington store, six miles south and east of Hillsboro, at ten a. m., on Postmaster B. P. Cornelius and wife, and son, William, returned Monday afternoon from a three weeks trip back to Kansas City, Missouri. Mr. Cornelius arrived home two or three days sooner than he expected—thinking it would be a good idea to get back and see how the famous street fair is going. Mrs. Cornelius was ill two or three days after her arrival at Kansas City, but aside from that the trip was very pleasant. Ben says that Oregon has the edge on every state that he passed through, and he is glad to get back to the land of no extremes.

It took considerable oil on the waters to get Reporter Krantz, of the Oregonian, in good favor with the M. E. conference, which adjourned Monday evening. Krantz sent his paper in, an account of the dismissal of a young minister, and as the discharge came through executive session the ministers could not imagine how he got the "story". As a matter of fact it is always easy to get these things because it is hard to transact business of this nature without the entire conference knowing it.

Elmer Mays and wife returned from Kansas City, Monday afternoon. Elmer says he saw the place where Snyder, the father of the murdered Carey Snyder, was killed by his auto colliding with a telegraph pole. He says that it is a great country back there, but that Oregon has them all beaten a mile.

Auto drivers have a fine run on the stretch of road on Baseline, from the P. R. & N. clear to the top of the Honzaik hill, and the way they let them out will make your hair curl.

Track will soon be laid into Glencoe, and the United contractors are rushing work as rapidly as possible in order to have rails laid and trains running by January 1.

AGITATION FOR A PIONEER ASSOCIATION

All Old Timers are Asked to Meet at Court House Saturday

COUNTY HAS MANY EARLY PIONEERS

Requested to Meet in Court Room, Upstairs, at 11 A. M.

There are many aged pioneers in Washington County who are very anxious to see the formation of a county pioneer association, and those who are foremost in this desire request all pioneers who are in Hillsboro on Saturday, October 1, to convene at the court house at eleven a. m., for the purpose of organizing.

Washington County has many pioneers, and it is the wish of the promoters of the proposed society to get an accurate history of each and every pioneer in the county.

If an organization shall be perfected this will be an easy matter, and there is no county in the state, in proportion to population, which has any older in pioneerage. So, if you are a pioneer, come in Saturday and help organize.

Jabez Wilkes and several old-timers will be hand to meet you.

AUCTION SALE

The undersigned will sell at his farm, known as the Ben Hay or J. K. P. Brown place, 1 1-2 miles southeast of Hillsboro and 1-2 mile south of Newton station, on SATURDAY, OCTOBER 8

EXCURSION

The Pacific Railway & Navigation Company will run an excursion from Buxton, Saturday, leaving Buxton at 8 in the morning, and return, leaving Hillsboro at seven in the evening. The train will stop at all way points. This will give all who wish a day at the fair.

The Barnes' saloon, at Beaverton, was robbed the other evening, the pilferers getting away from the place with thirteen dollars, all in nickels. Sheriff Hancock went to the scene of the theft Saturday, but found no trace of the thieves. A one-armed man, who had been selling shoestrings here and at Beaverton was in the city the day before the place was touched and it was thought that he might have had something to do with it—although it appears there were two in the bunch.

Wm. Otto, whose ranch is situated at the extreme highest point of Balk Peak, was in town Monday. From Mr. Otto's place it is possible to see fourteen or fifteen counties in the state of Oregon, and several over in Washington. Some of these days there will be a trolley line up there—when the population of the cities in this section of the state is doubled.

Mrs. Bennett, widow of the late William Bennett, who was sheriff of this county back in the fifties, and who settled East of this city, was out from Portland, the last of the week. She accompanied Mrs. Julia Wilcox to the old home, and they were guests of the Archbold family. On Saturday they took luncheon with Mrs. J. C. Lamkin.

Considering the limited hotel facilities it is considerable of a task to care for several hundred extra people, but the citizens of the city extended every help to make the conference visitors comfortable. Many families cared for as many as five or six people throughout the session.

Richard Linton, who is putting the finishing touches on a fine ten-room house, was in from his East Plains ranch, Monday afternoon.

S. A. D. Meek, of beyond Glencoe, was in town Saturday.
