EQUALIZATION BOARD CLOSES ITS LABORS

Less Complaint About Assessment
Than for Years

JUST FOUR APPLICATIONS MADE

All Petitions Were on Small Scale—
Three Disallowed

The county board of equalization, consisting of Assessor Max Crandall, County Judge J. W. Goodin, and County Clerk J. W. Bailey, have closed their labors in correcting the assessment roll and adjusting values, and the board had but four complaints filed, although there were several in to look over the rolls to see if they were up against excessive values. Fred Bulling thought his assessment of $125 per acre on land just east of the city limits was excessive, but the board refused to lower the valuation. H. A. Ball, of near Oswego, averred his house was assessed at too high a valuation. It is a new home, but he claims it is yet unfinished in the interior. This has been left in statu quo until more evidence is received.

J. B. Walker, of below Beaverton, and whose land is located on the Beaverton-Willsburg cut-off, thought that $40 per acre for wild land and $96 for cultivated land was excessive, but the board let the valuation stand. Elder H. S. Sturdevant, of Cornelius, appeared to get the assessment on a lot annulled, but as the tract had not been sold to the Christian Advent church after March 1, the petition was denied.

HIGH SCHOOL FUND

As election time approaches, many questions of importance confront the people of the state and counties. Among the questions for consideration in Washington County is the "County High School Fund," which should be on the tongue of every citizen in the county, who believes in upholding the standard of education. If this bill is voted in at the coming election, it will give each district a square deal, in as much as it grants each district a right to maintain a high school. This is something that every parent should be interested in. It gives the farmer's child an equal chance with the city boy or girl. If a district is too small to maintain a high school, her pupils who have finished the eighth grade work may have the privilege of continuing their work by simply paying the railroad fare to the nearest high school, or the one which offers the best advantages. The expenses will be a very small item compared with the knowledge they receive. At present there are only two High Schools in Washington County which maintain a four years' course. There should be many more, and under the new system this can be accomplished. So, voters of Washington County, look into this, as too much cannot be said to further the cause of education, and let us put our county on par with any and all counties of our great state.

Petitions have been filed with the county court, and granted, asking that the voters of East and West Cedar precincts be allowed to vote for or against saloons. The two precincts are not sub-joined, and the court has ordered that the vote go upon the ballot. The court is considering a franchise asked for by the United Railways, from the county line as far as near Banks—the westernmost point of construction this Fall. The court went out to look at the line yesterday, and will probably not take the matter into consideration until the next regular term.

A. C. Winney, of beyond Glencoe, returned Tuesday from a three weeks' trip up in the Alberta country, where he bought 160 acres of land 112 miles north of Calgary, in the LaCoeb region. Part of the purchase is good wheat land, and a small piece of timber where he will build his residence. He also has good water on the place, and a school house just across the road. While absent Mr. Winney was up in the Montana country, as well, but thought better of the B. C. country. While in Montana he saw Dick Lambert and John Carver, who reside at Inverness. Carver is a brother of Mrs. Lincoln, of Hillsboro, and Mr. Lambert formerly lived above Glencoe.
