

FRANK LENOCKER SHOTS ED NAYLOR

North Yamhill Ranchman Then Commits Suicide

THE MOTIVE NOT YET DISCOVERED

Suicide Sends Revolver Bullet Into Naylor's Abdomen

Frank Lenocker, a North Yamhill ranchman, and who has been absent from his home for several weeks, after passing the night in Hillsboro, where he had been thrown in by Marshal Larsen, went to Forest Grove on the evening train, and going out to the Ed. Naylor property adjoining Naylor's grove, shot Ed. Naylor in the abdomen, and then committed suicide by shooting himself through the head, the ball passing clear through the skull, above the temple. Naylor, who was conscious when found, says Lenocker, whom he does not know, came to his barn and told him to throw up his hands. Naylor told him he would not, and Lenocker replied that he would make him. Lenocker first fired over Naylor's head, according to story, and the next shot penetrated Naylor's abdomen. Naylor fell, and Lenocker took a few steps into the brush and fired the ball into his temple, killing himself instantly.

Neighbors heard the shot, and a Miss Traver found the wounded man, and had neighbors summoned, and he was carried to the Travers home. That evening he was taken to Portland, where Dr. Coffey found that the bullet had punctured the intestines in two places. He removed the missile and operated on the unfortunate victim.

That the motive was not robbery seems to be the general opinion, but the real cause of the assault is not fathomed as yet.

Lenocker has a wife and two children, and he is said to be worth seven or eight thousand dollars. His domestic relations have not been pleasant, it is said, but it is also averred that Naylor knew neither the suicide nor any of his family.

Coroner Brown went to Forest Grove, and summoned a jury, which found that Lenocker came to his death by suicide, after attempting the life of Naylor.

Ed. Naylor in well known in West Washington County, and he is reputed to be worth thirty or forty thousand dollars. He has been a breeder of Angora goats, and took first prize at the Alaska-Yukon Fair two years ago. He has never married.

The coroner's jury: Ed. Wirtz, foreman, Ira Hampton, Al. Sexton, H. H. Porter, J. B. Matthews and John Wilhelmson.

The physician refuses to permit Naylor to talk of the shooting, and outside of the first statement of Naylor, that the man ordered him to "throw up hands," nothing as to the motive has been revealed. When Naylor is able to talk, if he recovers sufficiently, he will probably tell of the circumstances which led up to the shooting and suicide. There was evidently no attempt at robbery.

Naylor still lives and may recover.

Ejuro Uo, secretary of the Oregon Japanese Association, was in town Monday afternoon, viewing the remains of the Japanese who was struck by the Corvallis passenger train, between Beaverton and St. Marys, Saturday morning. The man's name was Murokami, and he was about 40 years of age. He left no message save and except an exclamation which means "Oh!" in Anglo-Saxon. He had been at the Barnes saloon in Beaverton, early that morning, and he had bought a bottle of whiskey, stating that he was going to die that day. He then bought a tablet of Dole's Balm, and on this wrote his name last word. The train ran over him to the extent of a yard and half of length, severing a portion of his feet, and cutting his head nearly off his body. The train men gathered up the remains and brought them to Hillsboro, along with $14.90, which was found scattered along the track, and in his pockets. Dr. F. A. Bailey, examined the body Monday, and disposed of the theory of the Japanese being shot in the head by finding that the wound only went through the outer scalp, and proving that it was clearly an exterior wound, caused, doubtless, when he was crushed by the train. The jury, which had formerly brought in a verdict that Murokami had been killed and then placed on the track, was recalled and found that death was due to his being crushed by the train. The jury: Chas. Kerr, F. E. Atkins, A. Luther, Andrew Jack, Peter Boscow and S. J. Galloway.

With the advent of the mud the streets have had a dandy coating of earth for sometime and last week and the first of the present week saw a great deal of cleaning up. Once a week would keep the planking free from the accumulations, and greatly help the appearance of the city.

GRAND JURY MAKES ITS FINAL FINDINGS

Asks That a new Building be Constructed on Poor Farm

ASK FOR LARGER AND BETTER VAULTS

Takes Crack of Criticism at Road District Expenditures

The grand jury finished its labors last week, and submitted their final report. After inquiring into all charges of crime, they report 17 true bills and two not true bills. A portion of their report, which is voluminous, follows:

"That we have examined into the conditions of the county poor farm, and find the buildings in a very dilapidated and unsanitary condition, and on account of such conditions, and the way the building is constructed, we believe that it would be impossible and impracticable to remodel the old building in such a way as to conform to the needs of the county. We would, therefore, recommend that a new building be constructed, which would not only be adequate for the present, but also for the future needs of the county. We found in the county poor farm ten inmates, two females and eight males. One of the former is very feeble-minded. We would recommend that she be sent to the home for feeble-minded persons.

We have also examined into the conditions of the offices in the county court house, and find the officers courteous, and the offices apparently well kept."

Then follows a resume of the report of Max Crandall, who has audited the books of the officers, which goes to show that there were no discrepancies of over a dollar or so, and that public moneys have been turned over in consonance with the report. They advise some changes in system, as recommended by Expert Crandall. (Mr. Crandall's report, which is made a part of the grand jury's report, will be published in full next week.) The inquisitorial body then goes on to say:

"In examining the condition of the county offices, we find that there is insufficient vault room for the proper care and preservation of the county records, and that we would recommend that larger and better vaults be constructed in the county court house for the preservation of the county records, as we deem the present vaults entirely too small, and inadequate for the present needs.

We have also investigated the collection and disposition of taxes collected for road purposes, and find that in some instances, portions of the general road fund have been taken and given to individual road districts. This practice we condemn as vicious, as we believe that all the money collected in each road district should be expended in the district from which it was collected.

We wish to thank the offices of the District Attorney and Sheriff for the assistance they have given us in our examinations." (Signed) S. Paisley, foreman, Tell Soule, L. L. Crawford, W. K. Curtis, Otto S. Parson, Fred G. Anicker, Wm. J. Gregg, Clerk.

FOR NEW BANK

The Wehrung building is now in the hands of the contractor, W. C. Moore, of Portland, and he will make the structure modern in all respects. There will be three great plate glass windows on the Second Street side and two handsome plate glass fronts. Cement floors and tiled entrances will add to the appearance of the building. Hoods will be placed over the doorways, and the cornice will be re-arranged. The outside of the structure will be plastered with cement, and the fourteen offices upstairs will be reached by a front and rear stairway.

The banking room will be 25x64, and will have two vaults, one for the general banking business, and one for safety deposit boxes. The fixtures will be the latest in banking manufacture, and will be the finest yet installed in this section of Oregon. Steam heat will be used, and there will be hot and cold water in the bank, in the two store rooms and in the upstairs offices. When completed the block will be a credit to the city.

The stock holders are: W. H. Wehrung, Dr. S. T. Linklater, H. T. Bagley, G. A. Wehrung, Mrs. H. Wehrung, J. C. Hare, Emil, John C. and David Kuratli, and the capital stock is $60,000. Mr. Wehrung states that the bank will be ready for business by February 1.

COUNCIL IS URGED TO PROGRESSIVENESS

Mayor Bagley Sends in Message Asking Public Spirit

HE APPOINTS VARIOUS COMMITTEES

No Marshal is Named as Yet, There Being Six Applicants

The council had a meeting Monday evening, and Mayor H. T. Bagley sent in a lengthy message advocating the spirit of progressiveness. He exhorted the council to use every possible means to make Hillsboro a better city, and to exact a spirit of improvement from all points of the compass. He outlined the necessities of a business administration, and appointed committees as follows: Water and light—Hartrampf, Houston, Boscow, Street—W. D. Smith, Kuratli, Heim. Sanitary—Heim, Boscow, Hartrampf, Park—Boscow, Hartrampf, Kuratli, Finance—Houston, Kuratli, Smith.

No appointment for marshal was made, although there are six applicants for the position. A levy of 6 mills was made for city purposes, and a half mill was levied for park improvements. Just how much this will make will not be known until the state commission fixes the value of railroad property in the city limits.

The street committee was ordered to see that necessary repairs be made at once; the recorder was instructed to notify the water and light system that they must live up to the contract for adequate supply of both water and light by May 27th next; the street committee was ordered to consult with drainage and sewage engineers, and see what their charges will be for engineering work necessary, the recorder was instructed to report all defective ordinances, and to get a metal case for the city archives; the fire department was asked to report the condition of apparatus, and present needs; and the committee on lights was ordered to report on status of present lighting.

HILLSBORO HIGH SCHOOL

Monday, after the school meeting, Directors Tamiesie and Shute spent some time in visiting the various grades. We like to see them come as it shows that they are interested in our work. Come again.

We had a fire drill Monday, and judging from the order with which the pupils left the building, we are sure all would go well even in case of a real fire.

At the meeting Monday, it was decided to add manual training to the present courses, the expense of apparatus and equipment to be met by a special tax. Hillsboro High is fast working into a first class school. Watch us. Z. O.

CONDOLENCE

Jericho Lodge, No. 183, I. O. O. F., Banks, Or., Dec. 12 1910.

To the officers and members of Jericho Lodge, No. 183, I. O. O. F.: Your committee on resolutions of condolence respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, The Supreme Ruler of the Universe has in his infinite wisdom removed from among us a worthy and esteemed member Bro. Duane Harvey; Therefore, be it Resolved, That in the death of Bro. Harvey we have lost a worthy member, the home a devoted husband, and the community an honorable and respected citizen; that we sympathize with the sorrowing relatives in their bereavement, and commend them to the loving care of "Him who Doeth all Things well."

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of this Lodge, a copy to be sent to Pacific Odd Fellow and to the home papers for publication, and that the chapter of this Lodge be draped in mourning for thirty days.

Fraternally submitted, C. W. Dolson, W. E. Davies, G. W. McGraw, —Committee.

NATHAN B. MEAD

Nathan B. Mead, well known in Hillsboro in the eighties, died at Gresham, Dec. 13, 1910, after being an invalid for several years. He was aged 69 years, and was a native of Minnesota. He came to Oregon about 35 years ago, and for some years conducted the Hillsboro Hotel. A few days prior death, Mr. and Mrs. Mead left Grants Pass, their home for a number of years, and went to Gresham to visit a son, in the hopes that the change would do him good. His wife and the following children survive: Mrs. T. A. McCourt, Dayton, Ore.; Mrs. Bert Barnes, Grants Pass; H. V. Mead, Medford; J. H. Mead, Grants Pass, and T. G. Mead, of Gresham.

The remains were taken to Medford for burial.
