Winter is Coming

You will want a daily paper this winter in order to keep abreast of the times. Read what Congress is doing at the coming session. Remember you can get the Daily Oregonian and the Argus, the two best papers, for one year for

Gov. West is taking of calling a special session of the legislature for road legislation. If the Governor is wise he will let the legislature attend to road affairs at home. It is quite unlikely that under all the circumstances, and with a prospect of reprisals, a session would at this time be of the greatest wisdom.

The State Fair this year was the one best bet of Oregon's display of production and manufacture, and it was unfortunate that bad weather interfered with the splendid program. Either the management should set the Fair earlier, or later, and avoid the usual September storms.

Pendleton last week gave the West a touch of frontier life that has never been equalled in the arena before or since civilization was organized. It was a red-blooded affair from beginning to end a commentary on strength, bravery, agility and strategy. From the parched plains of Patagonia to the arid acres of Australia; from the verdant veldt of South Africa to the steppes where Mazepa leaped to the winds; from the North to the South pole—nowhere in space have men in hundreds so ably shown superiority over the animal as that great exhibition in the little city of Pendleton, situated at the border of the great range district that once was, but now is fast fading from us.

Thos. G. Todd, of Forest Grove, is back in old York State, where he was born, and on a card to the Argus reporter, says: "The religious weekly beat me back here. God Bless old Washington County, and give my regards to the boys." Mr. Todd was once county commissioner, and he has a host of friends all over the county.

NEAR FATALITY

Willie Hanley, the two year old son of J. D. Hanley, superintendent for the Kennedy Construction Co., storm sewer contractors, had a narrow escape from death this morning. He was playing around the sewer, in front of the Chief of Police Blaser's house, this morning, about 8 o'clock, in company with an elder brother, and in some manner fell into the sewer, which was about 12 feet in depth. His head struck on the sewer pipe, which was exposed, and he was rendered unconscious. It was at first thought that his neck was broken, but Dr. Robb and Dr. Tamiesie say there is every chance for the little fellow to live, as his spine is not injured. The screams of the elder boy attracted the attention of W. O. Jacobs, who swung into the sewer and picked the lad up. Dr. Robb was called, and later Dr. Tamiesie was in consultation. At first the report that the boy was instantly killed caused consternation, and mothers who have been worrying over the open sewers have been renewing their watchfulness over small children in the unfinished district.

PARROTT—McNELLY

A very pretty home wedding was celebrated Sept. 20, 1911, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Parrott, when their daughter, Miss Edith, was united in marriage to Fred Caples McNelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. McNelly, of North Tualatin Plains. The bride was dressed in pink silk mull, over pink silk taffeta, and carried a bouquet of pink asters, and entered on the arm of her father. During the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. John Welch, of Orenco, Mrs. Geo. McNelly presided at the piano. The couple made their responses under a canopy of Oregon Grape, entwined with clematis, tied with a lovers' knot of taffeta ribbon. Opposite the altar there was a solid bower of Autumn leaves, intermingled with Caroline Test-out and white LaFrance roses. The dining room was decorated with smilax suspended from the walls to the four corners of the dining table, which had as a center piece a great basket of pink and yellow asters. After the ceremony a delightful luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. McNelly were the recipients of very beautiful presents. After their wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. McNelly will be at home to their friends, October 10.

Those present at the wedding: Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Parrott and son, Harry; Mrs. H. T. Tennyson, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. McNelly, Capt. and Mrs. Geo. McNelly, Vancouver, Wash.; Mrs. L. B. Samuel, the Misses Ruby and Pearl Snyder, Mrs. P. L. Munson and little daughter, Agnes, Portland; Miss Grace Kerr, Hillsboro; Edward Lee, Latourelle Falls, and Robert Gilkey and Edward Benson, Hillsboro.

Brookman wants the eldest child, but is willing the younger two shall remain with the mother. The Russian says his wife "pasted" him in the mouth and abused him violently at various times. He wants to get away from her temper and her fists, according to his version of their marital troubles.
