Herman Boge, of Farmington, was up to the city Monday.

Andy Westberg, the Farmington orchardist, was in town Monday.

Wm. Wohlschlegel, of Scholls, was up from his dairy ranch, Monday afternoon.

Peter Vanderzanden, of Centerville, was over to the county seat Monday.

J. E. Price, of North Hillsboro, was in town the last of the week. He will have a sale on September 23.

L. W. House has been busy getting equipment ready for the manual training department in the High School.

The range horse sale advertised for last Saturday failed to materialize, as the owners did not arrive in from Eastern Oregon.

Bartlett pears have been selling around the city as low as fifty cents per box, and the product is especially fine this year.

Money to loan on farm or other property, on approved security. We also sell real estate.—Kuratli Brothers, Main Street, between First and Second. 20tf

T. C. Johnson, of Johnson Bros. mill, South Tualatin, was in the city, Monday, and says that the local demand for lumber has been good throughout the Summer.

The Oregonian is editorially giving Hillsboro a great deal of beneficial notice these days, for all of which the people are duly thankful.

Road making has again been resumed on the Woolley Bridge road, between the two bridges, northwest of town, and the new unloading place is about as handy as a pocket in a shirt.

Van B. DeLashmutt, the Spokane boomer, was in the city the first of the week, and is spending a few days at his Witch Hazel ranch, and in Portland. Van says Hillsboro is going ahead in great shape and he predicts double the population inside of three years.

Cashier Mahon, of the Shute Savings, A. C. Shute and E. L. Moore, and several others went to Portland, Sunday, and witnessed the big double-header, both of which were won by Portland. The two games again put Portland in the lead for the pennant.

J. G. Crawford, of near Laurel, was in town yesterday, and started harvesting his eight acres of prunes, Tuesday morning. He has just completed a new drier, which is one of the best in his section, and says he has a fine crop this year, although the rains have already damaged about $200 worth of the product.

J. E. Loomis, of Forest Grove, was in town Monday, on business at the sheriff's office. Mr. Loomis has a 960 acre wheat ranch up near Wasco, Sherman County, and has four boys running the place. He states that the Sherman county yield was an average of about 9 bushels to the acre. This is a poor crop, however, as the warm winds injured filling.

People in a position to know aver that the coroner's jury which returned a verdict on the P. R. & N. fatality, above Camp 6½, last week, did Conductor Davies an injustice. Railroad men say that the accident was due to a peculiar chain of circumstances that happens very seldom, and that the conductor did all he could to avert the tragedy. As far as the blocking is concerned, any old railroad man will tell you that if a car once starts on a grade that the blocking would not last much longer than a furnace.

Hillsboro has no street fair this Fall for the first time in several years. Next year there will be a bigger-than-ever exhibit, owing to the fact that there can be none held this year because of the condition of the streets. One might have been held in the court yard, but it would have been strenuous to enter and leave with any degree of comfort. Next Spring the boys will get together and organize early, and we will have something that can be eclipsed only by the Pendleton Roundup.

Attorney C. J. Schnabel has filed with probate court the sworn statement of four heirs of the late Frederick Mager who was burned to death in his cabin, near Beaverton, last Spring. Mr. Schnabel has power of attorney for the heirs, and has filed with the court his commission from Schmiedefield, Germany. The heirs are Ernest Mager, August Mager, Auguste Goebel and Fannie Heber, and they have their family tree down to a nicety. The family had in its possession letters which Mager wrote them in 1849, when he arrived in America and went to the California gold fields. The estate is worth several thousand dollars. These people appear to have one of the best cases of heirship yet presented against the estate of the wealthy old German. John Welch is the administrator of the estate.
