HILLSBORO, OREGON, APRIL 25, 1912

NO. 7

B. TONGUE LANDS DISTRICT ATTORNEYSHIP

Out in the Primaries by Over 1000 of a Majority

CARRIED CLACKAMAS COUNTY

Hundred and Forty-Two Where he Was Looking for Even

B. Tongue, district attorney, in the nomination in the primary by over 1,000 of a majority, carried Washington county 672, receiving 1521 against for Norblad. Forest Grove turned a stiff vote against tongue, owing to political activities against the nominee from members of the legal bar, and strong opposition of some democrats.

Over in Clackamas county, here Portland journalists declared to the Argus that Tongue could not get a majority, owing to the opposition of Sheriff Mass, tongue swept the county, polling majority of 812.

Columbia county swung into the Tongue column by a majority of over 200, although the vote Blakesley crowd fought official who prosecuted the celebrated machine boss.

Norblad was Clatsop county somewhere near 300 but this was his home county, and tongue expected his opponent to win well there.

They take with them their little grandson, Kenneth Bockmann, who is a relative of the Forest Grove Venens. The Argus wishes them a pleasant trip.

VETERAN HILLSBORO EDITOR PASSES

D. M. C. Gault Died Friday, at His Home in Cottage Grove

TAUGHT AND EDITED IN HILLSBORO

Two Times Represented Washington County in Legislature

D. M. C. Gault, school teacher and editor for years in Washington county, died at his home in Cottage Grove, Lane county, Friday, April 19, 1912, after an illness that extended over a period of two years. Mr. Gault, as a young man, edited a paper in Jackson county, later moving to Washington county. He served as principal in the public schools in the eastern part of the county, and in the '70s conducted several terms in the Hillsboro schools.

In the nineties he became connected with the Hillsboro Independent, and edited and published the paper for a joint stock company until October, 1903. In February, 1904, he went to Salem, where in partnership with his son, Harry, he conducted the Gault Printing Co. From there he went to Cottage Grove and bought the Sentinel. He was later appointed postmaster at Cottage Grove, and held the position until a few months ago, when his health caused him to send in his resignation. Mr. Gault was afflicted with liver trouble, and was here some months ago to consult with Dr. Linklater. The physician told him there was little hope for him, and that it was but a question of time.

Mr. Gault was born in Iowa, in May, 1841, and came West when he was a young man. He was wedded twice, his last wife being well known in Hillsboro. Besides his wife he leaves two sons, John, of Portland, and Harry, of Everett, Wash.; and Mrs. Halsted, a daughter by his first wife. Mrs. Mary Humphreys, of Portland, is a sister of deceased.

The funeral took place Sunday afternoon from the Congregational church, of which he was a member, Rev. Hughes officiating. The Independent Order of Odd Fellows had charge of the funeral and officiated at the cemetery.

Mr. Gault was a man of strong characteristics, and was the soul of integrity. He was a forceful writer, and always took an interest in public affairs. During his many years of residence here he lived one door west of the Henry Wehrung home, on Washington street.

Watch Buying Advice

Intelligent watch buying requires judgment on your part in two things, the case and the movement. These two items that constitute a watch are obtained by the jeweler from two factories that are unrelated. The movement is fitted into the case by the jeweler and the price of the complete watch depends on the cost of these two.

Thus you can buy a very fine case containing a cheap movement, and think you are getting a bargain, or you may buy a cheap case containing a very fine movement and be deceived again.

It is the proper combination of the two that makes the WATCH OF WORTH. No Watch deception at my store.
