Bryan's own state in convention, Tuesday, ratified the commoner's action at Baltimore, although the reactionaries tried every possible move to discredit the great leader.

There will now be water galore in Hillsboro and some of the lawns that have been scorched can be rehabilitated. Do not be afraid of the meter—give your yard the benefit of a good soaking. There is nothing so good to the eyes as fine-looking lawns.

With three in the presidential race, Oregon stands a good chance of going for Wilson. Those who figure that Roosevelt is not in the running should take stock and start over again, for he has great strength in every section of the state, and unless something unforeseen comes up he will carry over Taft at the November tally sheets. The Argus hears of strength for Roosevelt from all sections of Washington County.

A large number of Hillsboro ladies held an "afternoon" at the Keepfresh factory, Wednesday, and took lessons in preparing Keepfresh dainties. Next Wednesday afternoon the ladies will hold another meeting at the factory, and will organize a Ladies' Keepfresh Club. All ladies are invited. Instructions in new dishes will be given at each meeting, by Mrs. Geo. Rogers, who for two years has exclusively used the Keepfresh product in her home.

Seventy-two years ago today the first white female was born in the Oregon country. The child is alive and hearty today, and resides at Orenco. She was born of English parentage, her father being an employee of the Hudson Bay Co. The Argus introduces its readers to Mrs. Wiley-Edwards, well known for years as a resident of Hillsboro, and mother of W. V. Wiley. She was born at Sauvie Island, down the river.

Many farmers in the county are putting in water systems, driving six and four-inch deep wells. When they strike a good flow at a great depth they install gasoline engines and pumps, and have water systems of their own. Fred Berger, of Bethany, has bored to the depth of 300 feet; C. Lehmann has gone 195 feet, and A. C. Mulford, of near Elmonica, has a deep well of 111 feet.

The following have been granted licenses to wed: James H. Bryan, of Yamhill County, and Miss Leslie Miner, of Washington County; Wm. P. Kilgore and Bertha Fries, of Cornelius; Earl B. Powell and Beulah A. Overholser.

Mrs. J. S. Steinke, of Minter Bridge, departed for the East, yesterday, where she goes to attend the bedside of her father, in central Nebraska. She received a telegram announcing his critical illness.

Married: At the home of Frances Cota, Hillsboro, July 26, Rev. B. Clarence Cook officiating, Robert R. Hawn and Miss Emma Vibbert. The groom hails from Portland, and the bride is well known in the Laurel section.

John Brock, of South Tualatin, and B. Thurnher, above Blooming, were city visitors today.

Argus and Journal, $2.25.
