Considering the Washington County school exhibit, which embraced many agricultural displays, along with the general showing in the general pavilion, the fair and carnival was a success. It is true that the fruit exhibit was small this season, as compared with the last fair, but it must be remembered the fair came in a very busy time with the farming element. Many were just finishing up threshing and hop picking. Taken all in all the showing was one worth while. Messrs. Boscow, Wiley, E. L. Moore and N. H. Alexander devoted a great deal of time to the fair, and in this they were earnestly aided by Messrs. Wm. Schulmerich and John Dennis. The school exhibit was the initial county affair, and shows what interest can do with the coming generation.

Chas. Schneider and family, formerly of Washington County, and well known here, visited this section this week, returning to their home at Irving, near Eugene. Chas. has done nicely down in Southern Oregon, and now has a seventy acre farm, all cleared, within four miles of Eugene. They made the trip up in their auto, and Mr. Schneider says he is surprised at the many developments in the county since he departed several years ago. He and Mrs. Schneider were in Hillsboro yesterday, and called on the family journal—a paper that he has taken for eighteen years without a lapse.

The Southern Pacific Company grading outfit started work on Sixth Street, the past week, and will soon have the Hillsboro work ready for the rails. The work of grading Main, ready for the rails, and the paving, will be done by B. A. Gordon, who has the Rockolite sub-contract for the city. With any kind of weather prevailing the rails will be laid in the county seat before many weeks. The company expects to have cars running into the business district by January 1. Work is rapidly progressing at Forest Grove, and rails are now laid within a few blocks of the city terminus.

Invitations will soon be mailed for the celebration of Columbus Day by the Hillsboro Knights of Columbus, when the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus will be extolled by this Catholic order. There will be a fine program, literary and oratory, and a big banquet. The Knights of Columbus will use the Hartrampf Rink hall for the occasion. This order will soon start building an $8,000 hall on Second and Fir, having already acquired the lot for the purpose. The committee in charge of the Columbus day festivites are M. J. Powers, Aloha, and Will Delsman and Edw. Unger, Hillsboro.

J. C. Beach, the well known North Plains ranchman and horseman, was thrown from a horse Sunday, and sustained a badly broken leg, just above the ankle. The break was oblique and shattering, and Dr. Linklater states that it will take several weeks to mend. J. C. has handled horses all his life, and for years was on the range in the upper country, and he naturally feels a little peevish that a valley bred animal put him "hors du combat."

The J. D. Wirth property, sold to a Mr. Robinson, at Tualatin, a short time ago, consisting of a house, blacksmith shop and woodwork shed, was burned Monday evening, shortly after seven o'clock. Not a thing was saved. The house had been unoccupied for some time, and the property was recently involved in litigation, brought by Mrs. Janey Galbreath, who claimed a portion of the survey. Wirth won the suit, and some time afterward sold out.

Fred Boeninger, of Helvetia, and Andrew Heckmann, of Bethany, were in the county seat Monday.

Miss Mary A. Simpson, of Hillsboro House, Richmond St., Bridlington, York, England, sends 8 shillings four pence to the Argus for another year of the religious weekly. Miss Simpson says: "I note in the Argus that you have had an unusual amount of rain in August and that the grain and haycrops were damaged. Weather conditions have been extremely bad here—potato crops are ruined and grain crops nearly so—in some places an entire loss. We have had no fine, settled weather since April, and not hot weather at all. What has Oregon done to have so much rain at that time of year—Oregon usually has enough sunshine and fair weather, and I did think it might have a little to spare for us on this side of the big "pond." Trusting that the spell of rainy weather will in no way affect the prosperity of Hillsboro, I remain, yours truly."

Sam Paisley, of Buxton, was in Chicago, Sept. 20 last Friday, and writes that the only thing Iowans can crow over Oregon is their corn crop. He states that he is finding many of his oldtime chums in Chicago, and that many of them have done finely financially. Sam, being a loyal Taftie, says Illinois is going for Taft, and that "Old Man Paisley" expects to be back at Buxton to vote for William Howard.

Louis Holtz, the Blooming thresherman and baler, was in town Saturday.

Ed. Schlegel, near Banks, was an Argus caller, Friday.

GOING BACK.

GOING back to nature
In the summer time,
Cutting out the city
With its want and crime,
Mowing in the garden,
Chopping cords of wood
Or just simply loafing—
Say, it's mighty good!

Rising in the morning
At the peep of day,
Tramping through the meadow
Or the new mown hay,
Sometimes strolling streamward
Where the fishes bite
And returning homeward
With an appetite.

Talking with the neighbors
Honest, square and plain,
On important subjects,
Such as cutting grain,
Hitching up the pony
To the one horse shay
For a drive to nowhere
At the close of day.

Going back to nature
For a week of rest,
Eating country victuals
With the old time zest,
Laboring or loafing,
Dibbling trouble fly,
Gaining strength and vigor
As the days go by.

A Glorious Future.

"Did you know that the Hennings are going south to live?"

"No. And what will they do there?"

"Mr. Henning will buy a tract of land, start an orange grove, raise early vegetables and perhaps engage in the poultry business."

"You don't tell me!"

"Yes. He has decided upon the number of trees he will start with, what vegetables will be the most profitable and has written to commission me about handling his products."

"But where will he get capital for all this?"

"He hasn't worked out that detail yet."

So Different Now.

"The children say so many bright things."

"I suppose you did also when you were a youngster."

"Oh, many of them."

"How we do change, don't we?"

Shrewd.

"Young Closefist is engaged to Miss Brown, they say."

"Yes."

"But I heard him say he doesn't expect to marry for some years yet."

"No. And when he does marry he will probably pick up a woman with money."

"Then why is he engaged to Miss Brown?"

"He says she gives such a swell little Sunday night supper."
