MY UNCLE'S WILL BY STEPHEN G. HARDWICK

One evening, at a stag dinner I gave at my house to a party of friends, when the coffee was brought on and cigars were passed I noticed that one of my guests, Major Tishie, did not help himself from the box offered him. "Don't you smoke, major?" I asked. "No," he replied, "I do not." He was the only man in the room who did not smoke, and the others looked at him with some curiosity. I was about to turn the subject when he gave us his reasons for not doing so in the following story.

Oregon voted democratic on president for the first time since the Civil war—but it wouldn't have done this had there been but one ticket opposed. Now, would it? Bryan is as happy as a man can be over another's election. There is no canker in the Bryan heart, and no political rust on the soul of the great Nebraskan, who for 16 years has fought the good fight.

Woodrow Wilson will have over 400 votes in the electoral college, and will be the next president of the United States. Not for nearly a century has there been a president elected with so large a percentage of good feeling in his favor. The Taft men preferred Wilson to Roosevelt and the Roosevelt men preferred Taft—and there you are. Each element concedes his stability, his integrity, his honesty of purpose, and all give Mr. Wilson credit for brains. He should make, and will make, a good president.

Geo. Meacham, of Mountaineer, was in town today. Sam Ornduff, of Laurel, was a city visitor the last of the week. Coal and wood of all kinds. Leave orders by Telephone City 477.—H. D. Schmelzter, 31-1f

Ben Heesacker, of Verboort, was in the city yesterday, before the county board, on business matters. For first-class work and reasonable, cutting and polishing agates, call on Francis Cota, corner Seventh and Fir. 31-4

The Missionary Society will join with the Society circle of the Cong. Church, in a meeting at the home of Mrs. R. C. Vaughn, Thursday, Nov. 16. Marriage licenses have been granted A. H. Davis and Ethel Haggarth; W. M. Abel and Jennie Underwood; John Vandoevering and Josephine Vanonden-haegen; A. E. Cooper and Agnes Jaehn; John Cop and Pearl G. Reynolds.

J. E. Reeves carried his own precinct by over 200—Cornelius precinct. That shows how Sheriff-elect Reeves stands at home, where he is best known. Applegate carried his own precinct by 75. Wm. Schulerich, on the ticket for state senator, given him without solicitation, also carried his home boundary. This is good work, considering Schulerich never turned a hand in the campaign. Dr. Wood, successful candidate as senator, also carried his own precinct, as did John McClaran.

HEESACKER-BERNARDS

Benj. Heesacker and Miss Minnie Bernards were united in marriage at St. James Church, McMinnville, Oct. 23, 1912. Rev. Father J. Bernards, brother of the bride, performing the ceremony. The wedding was witnessed by about one hundred and fifty relatives and friends. The groom is one of Verboort's well known young farmers, and at present is road supervisor in his district. The bride is a daughter of John Bernards, and is well known in Verboort, as well as in Yamhill county. They will make their home north of Forest Grove.

few moments—Suddenly a look of knowledge—the outcome of past unhappy experiences—appeared on his countenance. "Then is whipping heredity, ma?" he asked.—New York Journal

The Post and the Sunsets. The gorgeous grandeur of the sunsets (chills me). The brilliant colors and the golden glow I think sometimes it must be in a post. For poets all say it affects them so. I love to watch the sinking sun & the parting.

What's the matter with this mule's shoes? asked the village blacksmith. "I put them on day before yesterday, and they look all right to me." "Never mind how they look," replied Erastus Finkley; "you just take dem shoes off all put on yuther ones. Me an' Samson Smiley will staa' de expenses."

When I reached my uncle it was not expected that he would live through the night. He rallied, however, and the next day was slightly better. His physician remained at the house most of the time, especially at night, and when he was not with his patient he and I sat in the library below, keeping each other company. He was a very good fellow, and I grew fond of him. He liked his toddy, in which I joined him, but when it came to smoking he was obliged to smoke alone.

My uncle lingered between life and death for several weeks. No one could tell just when he would drop away. The night he died the doctor and I were keeping ourselves up by an occasional position. The doctor pulled two cigars from his pocket and offering me one, said: "Smoke. He's too far gone to know anything about it."

I accepted his proposition, lighted the cigar and smoked just enough of it to cause me to feel bad. Then a nurse called me to my uncle. I ran upstairs, and he was telling me about some improvements he advised making in a certain building that was to be mine, when he smiled smoke on me. Gentlemen, my expected fortune went the way of the cigar. I had accepted from the doctor—in smoke. My uncle lived forty-eight hours longer and altered his will, leaving all he possessed to charity.

The Sins of the Father. Little Jack was struggling through his home lessons, and there were many signs of woe and perplexity written on his impish young face. "Ma," he began, in rather a quavering voice, "what does her-edity mean?" Mother wasn't quite sure herself, but was sufficiently arful not to say so outright, so she answered vaguely: "Well, John, it is—er—it's something to do with what you get from your father or me."

Little Jack powdered deeply for a few moments—Suddenly a look of knowledge—the outcome of past unhappy experiences—appeared on his countenance. "Then is whipping heredity, ma?" he asked.—New York Journal

Wash Day. When Eve told Adam in Paradise She found much pleasure in it. For when she did her Monday wash It only took a minute.

And when the washing was away Eye didn't fret or whine. She merely splattered forth and picked New garments from the vine.

She didn't scold the housemaid, She didn't give him slack. Because he happened by mistake To bring the wrong lead back.
