

JURY FOUND NAYLOR GUILTY AS CHARGED

Were Deliberating in Jury Room for Three Hours Ended Saturday

THIRTEEN WITNESSES WERE SWORN

Attorneys For Defendant Ask to File Motion for New Trial

Edw. Naylor, the Forest Grove breeder of Angora goats, and considered one of the substantial business men of that city, was Saturday found guilty of unlawfully living with Miss Martha Traver. The trial consumed the last part of three days, and went to the jury Saturday forenoon. Six witnesses testified for state, and seven were placed on the stand in behalf of the defense, among whom were the defendant himself and Miss Traver. The jury: Rhodes, Francis, Bohman, Cook, Batcher, Ritter, Tipton, Roy, Challacombe, T. M. Kerr, Aug. Tows.

In the case of the State of Oregon vs Archie Nichols, charged with killing an elk, the defendant, upon advice of his attorney, Mayor Bagley, pleaded guilty, and was fined $100 and costs. The costs amount to $31.25, and he is paroled upon condition of paying the costs. Emerson Farrel, indicted with Nichols, was dismissed. This was the case wherein Nichols killed the elk near the Buxton cemetery, last Fall.

Decrees of divorce were granted as follows—Boson vs Bowen; Dalton vs Dalton; Carmack vs Carmack; Hanson vs Hanson; Krushanski vs Krushanski. Holloper vs Hult. Dr. Holloper, owning a ranch near Newberg, sued Hult for a team which he claimed Hult had taken from the farm of plaintiff. Hult came over to the Laurel section with the team, and fought the case. He alleged that he was to have a share of the crop, but that he and Holloper agreed that he could have the team for his services on the place.

The jury evidently believed Hult's version, for they awarded the horse to the defendant. The jury: J. J. Weisenbeck, E. J. Boos, W. E. Parkin, B. S. Freewing, D. M. Whitesell, C. L. Johnson, C. W. James, Joo, Freundthal, G. F. Smithline, J. R. Trullinger, J. T. Young, C. Rehse.

TO THE PUBLIC

All persons are hereby notified not to sell anyone anything whatsoever to be charged to my account without a written order by the undersigned.

J. L. Forbes,

Hillsboro, Ore., Route 1, January 25, 1913. 47-9

Austin Sims, of Farmington, was greeting tillamooks in the county seat the last of the week.

According to the Tillamook Herald the Greeks and Italians at work near the place where Dudley, the cook, and a Japanese were killed at Wheeler, last Wednesday, went into the shack which was demolished, and robbed Mrs. Dudley's purse of $110 and her gold watch. They would give no assistance to Mrs. Dudley and her little daughter, who were in their night robes, waist deep in the snow, calling for help. Wm. Conley, formerly of Hillsboro, was in the ruins, injured, and they also paid no attention to his calls. A bridge gang, just starting for work, finally heard the cries, and went to the assistance of the stricken people. Mr. Conley is getting along fairly well, and will soon be able to again take up his duties as section foreman. Conley is a carpenter, as well as a track man, and has worked here for several years. He helped to build the Timber sawmill for Stevenson and Lytle.

RIGH FARMING SECTION MAY BE TAPPED BY S. P.

Nineteen of Engineering Corps at Work in South Tualatin

TO RUN FROM OSWEGO TO MURRAY

Would Traverse Very Fertile and Thickly Populated Community

There is great cogitation in the Scholls-South Tualatin sections over the advent of an engineering crew, which is running a preliminary survey through that richest portion of Washington County. Little can be learned about the intentions of the company, but it is popularly supposed that the Southern Pacific Company, wanting a straight shoot into Portland from McMinnville and the upper country, proposes to electrify a line from near Murray, on the Portland, Eugene & Eastern, run through the populous South Tualatin section, down past Scholls, and connect somewhere near Tigard, and make its way into Portland through the Jefferson Street depot. This would, in a way, be a time-saver, as well as tap a country now without a railway line.

This portion of the county has long been wanting a railway, and prominent citizens for years have been trying to enlist the interest of railway lines as to the great bulk of shipments that must annually go out to the markets of the world.

The Argus hopes that within a year it will be able to announce that rails are laid through the south of the county.

Dan Leisy, of South Tualatin, was a city visitor Saturday.

Wm. Ridgely, who was one of the boys in blue in sixty-two, was a county seat visitor Saturday morning.

E. Wenstrom, of near Scholls, was a city visitor Saturday. Wenstrom still holds his good humor and satire, and is always ready for a little coup d'etat.

Will Wohlschlegel, of Scholls, who graduated from the dairy business to the chicken industry, was in the city Saturday, greeting friends.

Dr. Hawke, the Mayor of Gaston, was fined $25 by Judge Smith, for violation of the game law—hunting ducks without a license—the other day. The Mayor-physician paid the fine.

Fred Ennes, of Goble, Ore., was up the last of the week, the logging industry for which he works having closed down for a day or two on account of 13 inches of snow.

All parties knowing themselves indebted to the undersigned will please call and settle. Payments can be made to either O. E. Frank or the undersigned.—J. E. Borwick, Reedville, Ore. 35-ft

Dr. August Tamiessie was one of the three physicians who had charge of over 300 insane patients transferred from Salem to Pendleton asylum, last week. The shift of patients was made in a vestibule special train.

Isaac Ford, aged about 46 years, died suddenly at the home of his brother, Thos. Ford, near Helvetia, Thursday, Jan. 23. Ford has been ailing from asthma and other maladies for some time. He had been here since last July. Coroner Barrett went out to investigate the cause of death, but found that demise was due to natural causes.

L. R. Sells, of Ferndale, Wash., has arrived, and has succeeded Phil G. Kinser as manager of the Forest Grove and Hillsboro condensers. Mr. Kinser will go to the general offices of the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Company, at Seattle, where he has been given promotion. Mr. Sells comes highly recommended, and will now deal with over 1,000 patrons for the two big dairy industries. When Spring opens this number will materially be increased.

The Legislature Friday passed the bill raising the salary of District Attorney E. B. Tongue to $3,500. This was one of the bills that Gov. West vetoed two years ago. It was passed over the Governor's veto by a big vote in excess of the two-thirds required. The bill is just enough for the duties of the district attorney in the district are manifold, and a great deal of territory must be covered. There is no question but what Mr. Tongue is earning his salary.

General Manager D. W. Campbell, S. P. Lines in Oregon, was up to the front, last week, watching the big engines buck the snow line.

For sale—Eggs for hatching; S. C. R. I. Reds, Barred Rocks, $1.50 per setting of 15; $5 per 100; Baby chickens, 12c each; S. C. White Leghorns, $1 per 15; $5 per 100; baby chicks, 10 cents. Will do custom hatching and furnish eggs of leading varieties. Agent for the famous McManahan incubator. Send request for catalogue by postal. Also have some White Leghorn cockerels for sale.—R. E. Duns-moor, Ore., address, Hillsboro, Route 4.

Amateurs made attempts to crack the safe at the Southern Pacific depot, Sunday night, but were not successful. The bill was robbed of a few pennies, but the safe appeared to hold the marauders to a standstill. The combination, however, was knocked off the depository. Some one also entered the Nelson Hardware Co. store and took several small articles.

Mrs. Nancy Banks slipped on the ice and fell near her house last Friday breaking the bones of one of her wrists. Dr. Munford attended to the break and Saturday Mrs. Banks went back to Portland to stay with her sister. Her son, R. M. Banks, went to the city with her.—Banks Herald.

TWO ELECTRIC ENGINES ARRIVE FOR P. E. & E. RY

Will Pull Freight Trains on Newly Electrified Lines

ALL ENGINES AND CARS CHERRY RED

Engines are Capable of Pulling 30 Loads on 4 Per Cent. Grade

The Portland, Eugene & Eastern Railway has received its first two electric engines and they are now yarded in Portland. A Portland paper says:

"Two of the large electric locomotives to be operated on the lines of the Portland, Eugene & Eastern Railway through the Willamette Valley reached Portland yesterday and were parked in the shop yards at Brooklyn, where their electric motors will be installed, after which they will be ready for service in handling freight shipments between Portland and all sections of the Willamette country.

The locomotives attracted unusual attention, because of their immense size, as well as the interest which the progress of this large interurban system has aroused. They were the first consignment of the equipment which will be used in the operation of 100 trains a day between Portland and the big valley to the south.

Stained a deep cherry red, the locomotives can be seen from any portion of the Brooklyn yards. Cherry red will be the color of all the cars composing both passenger and freight trains run under the banner of the road. The big engines are each equipped with four 250-horsepower motors and weigh 120,000 pounds to the machine. One of these locomotives can easily handle 30 fully loaded cars of a 4 per cent. grade. They are equipped with the pantograph, a diamond-shaped frame, which supercedes the trolley pole and rope for making connections with the overhead wires.

One of the most modern ideas in connection with the new locomotives is the "dead-man control," by means of which the engineer maintains the connection between the motors and the electrical current. This connection is maintained by constantly pressing the hand on a button. Should he relax the pressure at any time the current would be cut off and the train automatically stopped. The name "dead-man" was earned by the appliance after it had successfully been demonstrated on a number of trials in the East. With a dead or incapacitated engineer in the cab there would be no danger of an accident to passengers or freight.

Judge D. B. Reasoner has rented the Morgan property, formerly occupied by Ex-Sheriff Hancock. As soon as settled he will be able to devote his entire time to the judgeship.

Judge Reasoner has a sample of the Republican ticket which was voted the year 1890 when Gov. Penneyer defeated D. P. Thompson, the Portland banker. It is in a fine state of preservation.

Mrs. Lydia Gault, widow of the late D. M. C. Gault, formerly in the newspaper business here, was in the city Saturday, calling on her friends. Mrs. Gault resides at Cottage Grove where her late husband was postmaster for several years.

Mrs. Edyth Tozier Weathered writes the Argus from Albany, stating that in a short time there will be a "Made in Oregon" banquet held at Hillsboro, and it will be attended by a large number of Oregon manufacturers. The meeting at Gaston a few evenings back was well attended, and great enthusiasm was shown. Notice of the Hillsboro meeting will be given later.

Billy Vinton, of McMinnville, sends word to the Washington County Knights of Pythias that the McMinnville boys are arranging for a big time at the District Convention, which will be held up there on Saturday evening, Feb. 8. Big delegations will go from Washington County. Gaston wanted the convention this year, but the delegates felt that the hotel accommodations would be insufficient.

Saturday's Oregonian in "Half Century Ago"—Articles of incorporation have been filed in the clerk's office of Multnomah County for the construction of the Boon's Ferry macadamized road. This road will intersect the Milwaukie macadamized road opposite Milwaukie. The capital stock is $75,000 in $100 shares; principal office in Portland; incorporators, John Stephenson, Jesse V. Boon, John Sweek.
