With the death of Henry Wehring, Hillsboro loses one of its pioneer citizens who has left his impress on the city. He was a business man of the old school, and a man, who, while open-handed in matters of charity, never let his left hand know what his right hand gave—in other words, he never gave and then used it as advertisement. He was one of the pioneer builders, and his record as a business man and citizen held for him the highest esteem. He passed years over the average three-score-and-ten. Peace to his ashes.

Carping criticism—which has always been his lot, and over which he ever rose triumphant—will not in any degree belittle the worthiness of United States Senator Geo. E. Chamberlain. If Woodrow Wilson should appoint him to his cabinet the West will respond with thanks. He has the ability to fill it worthily.

Here's Something Coming Our Way

In engaging the justly famous Schubert Company, of Chicago, to give one of their delightful entertainments here our readers can congratulate themselves upon securing an additional and entirely unexpected feature of the greatest excellence. For it so happens that Miss Frances Rhinehart, the eminent harp soloist, is making a short concert tour of the United States in company with the Schuberts and will positively be heard here with them on Feb. 12, at the Crescent Theatre. Keep this in mind for, although she is not advertised on the Schubert's program or printing, she will be here with them and add two great solos to their fine program. It is our good luck that she is visiting her musical friends at the time they happen to be engaged to appear in Hillsboro, under the auspices of the Ladies' Societies of the Congregational Church.

Hon. Alex Sweek, the Portland attorney, was in the city yesterday, on business with Referee in Bankruptcy H. T. Bagley. Alex says there is a great deal of talk that Chamberlain may be given a portfolio in the Wilson cabinet. In that case West is to resign and thereupon Olcott will be governor, and it is expected that he will appoint West to the United States Senate. Senator Chamberlain knows the resources of the country as well as any aspirant for a cabinet position, and he would give it the same care and attention that he has every public office he has filled. The Argus wishes for him the appointment.

The Oregon Electric has notified Attorney John M. Wall that the Oregon Electric's midnight train out of Portland for Hillsboro and Forest Grove will run straight through without change of cars at Garden Home, hereafter. There was bitter complaint during the recent stormy weather, when the Wilsonville car, which carried passengers coming this way to Garden Home, was as cold as an iceberg, and there were times when passengers were required to wait some minutes in the cold at Garden Home—particularly when anything happened to delay the Forest Grove car which connected.

A. W. Halsey, well known in Hillsboro, was yesterday sentenced by a Multnomah County circuit judge to an indeterminate term of from two to 20 years in the penitentiary for passing a bad check on the banking firm of Ashley & Rumelin. The court said he was tired of dealing out parables to men who were check crooks and he proposed to hereafter give them the limit.

Hon. Thos. Macauley and son, Robert Jr., were guests at the Thos. Connell home, Tuesday. Mr. Macauley Sr. was in the same regiment with the father of the Argus reporter, and helped place that veteran on the ambulance when Long Sr. was injured at Shiloh. Robert Macauley hails from the Lake Superior section, where he is interested in lumbering, and he is now on his first trip to the coast in the interests of his firm.

C. F. Grabel, who is sojourning up at Vancouver, B. C., writes for the Argus, to see what is going on in the old county seat.

W. N. Ferrin has resigned from the presidency of Pacific University, and his resignation has been accepted. The school will be conducted by a committee of three until a new president is elected. Mr. Ferrin yet in the East, raising funds for the school.

The wood in the forms in a concrete chimney, in the Donelson Building, occupied by Grover Combs' furniture store, burned out at one o'clock, today, causing an alarm to be sent in. There was no damage.

Herman Pape, of Sherman County, was here on probate business today, his father, the late John Pape, of Sherwood, having named him as executor of his will.

Miss Iva Black, daughter of Rev. W. H. Black and wife, of North Plains, was beaten and robbed in her room in Portland, Tuesday night. The chief procured several dollars.

Ernest M. Doney, Portland, and Lilian Stevens, of Washington County, were married by Judge Reasoner, Feb. 3, 1913.

Mrs. J. M. Brown, of above Banks, was visiting in Hillsboro, yesterday.

Born, to Jos. Finta and wife, near Beaverton, Jan. 31, 1913, a daughter.

W. B. Shaw, of Beaverton, was up to the city today.

A Dreadful Possibility.
When Aunt Eliza takes the train She always has a vision (She's told us time and time again) Of being in a collision. She doesn't seem to feel much dread And fear of being mangled. Of broken bones, a broken head, Of being buried or strangled. "I always think," she says to me, "That 'twould be dreadful shocking If folks should pick me up and see A big hole in my stocking!" So Aunt Eliza takes her yarns When plans are made for starting And darts and darts and darts and darts Before she crosses departing. —Grace McKinstry in Judge.

The Waiter's Retort.
A young sport very loudly dressed went into a cafe and ordered a veal cutlet. The waiter brought the order. "Say," bawled the sport in a loud voice, "do you call this a veal cutlet? Why, it's an insult to a calf to call that a veal cutlet!" "Beg pardon," said the waiter politely. "I didn't mean to insult you, sir."—New York American.

That Rime.
Does he ride in Turkestan,
Live in Spitzberg?
No, he rides in far Japan—
Yachtman!

Power to wield the mikkerane,
Fash in Yaku?
Rest him in rules two—
Yachtman!

From the body bull moose to
The mosquito
All do what he says to do—
Yachtman!

Practical Economy.
"I do not see that you are practicing economy by buying a fifteen dollar hand bag for your wife."
"Its interior is so complex, that by the time she finds money for street car fare her companion will have paid for her."—Buffalo Express.

Ten Resolutions.
Ten resolutions stood in a line.
"Won't you take something?" Then there were nine.

Nine resolutions waited their fate.
"Have a cigar?" And then there were eight.

Eight resolutions looked up to heaven.
"Bang! went the hammer, and then there were seven."

Six resolutions managed to thrive.
"You credit is good." And then there were five.

Five resolutions sturdily wore.
"Lend me a dollar." And then there were four.

Four resolutions chuckled with glee.
"Yes, I am getting up!" Then there were three.

Three resolutions, frightened and blue.
"I can't pay you this month." And then there were two.

Two resolutions hard on the run.
"Let's go duck shooting!" And then there was one.

One resolution, "Let's spend what we've saved!"
And this is how hell has been finally paved. —St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

In Search of His Home.
A peaceable resident was rudely awakened from sleep last week at about 2:30 a. m. by a loud ring at his doorbell.

Throwing open the window, he stuck his head out and in a very pleasant manner demanded to know what was wanted.

"Sense me, sir," answered a muffled voice. "Does Jones—hic—hic—live here?"

"Jones?" said the party addressed angrily. "Of course not! What do you mean by ringing people's bells at this time of morning? Who are you, anyway?"

"Whom?" asked the disturber, apparently surprised at not being recognized. "Why, I'm Jones!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

A Recipe.
How do you make a song—
Of a lot of melodious words,
Of a breath of spring
When the violets sing
Sweeter and louder than birds?
Do you frame it of broken hearts
Or make it of words that rot
With a fountain gush
In the joys that rush
From the springs of an indammied soul?

How do I make a song?
With a meter already planned
And a book of rhymes
From the prosody schools
And verses properly scanned?
Ah, no! Be one spirit strong,
Or worried to death and sick,
I make a song
When they yell, "Rush along"
That bunch of old puns, quick!"
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ANNIVERSARY

Two birthday anniversaries were celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Carstens, at Banks, Sunday, in honor of Mr. Carstens and his niece, Mrs. M. F. Peters. Carstens and family; I. H. Smith and wife, Forest Grove; Mrs. Emma McKinney, Hillsboro; Mrs. M. F. Peters and son, Portland; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hartley, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. WORTH WHILE

One morning while snow lay on the ground,
And frost was in the air,
I heard a song that cheered my heart,
It came from over there.
In the woods, out of sight, a little bird sang,
So sweetly, its message of cheer.
In its little language it seemed to say
That spring would soon be here.
I paused from my work to listen while,
To these first notes of spring
And they brought to my mind the bright warm days
That spring was soon to bring.
I resumed my work with a lighter heart
For winter would be gone before long
So very that was what the little meant
When it sang its little song
O' dear little bird! we too, can cheer
With song, or word, or smile,
May we not forget, in our journey thro' life
That these are the things worth while —Mrs. J. M. Brown.

Judge Eakin Tuesday and Wednesday heard the case of Foster versus Sykes. Foster, the contractor on the court house, let a contract to Sykes to put in the windows at the court house annex, and his work was not satisfactory. Together with the architect, Foster refused to let Sykes continue, alleging his work was not up to the plans. He sought an injunction, and Sykes was trying to get the injunction dissolved. The court has the case under advisement. The case of Sykes versus Foster, where the plaintiff sues for damages, has been set for Feb. 24, and the jury has been discharged until they are notified to return.

Senator W. D. Wood and Gov. West have at least agreed on one measure—for a law preventing anyone giving inmates of jails or asylums any opiates, unless it be by a registered physician. This is done to prevent friends smuggling in "dope" to those addicted to the cocaine and morphine habits. As a matter of fact Wood is putting in the bill upon request of the governor.
