DEAD JOHN FOOTE PASSED AWAY SUNDAY

at Home of Brother, at the Tualatin Hotel, Hillsboro

DECEASED HERE OVER FIFTY YEARS

Associate of John W. Shute in Farming and Banking

John Foote, the well known merchant and capitalist, died at the home of his brother, Perry Foote, of the Hotel Tualatin, Sunday afternoon, March 16. Mr. Foote had been ailing for several years, but his condition was not serious so far as external appearances were concerned. He had been able to eat in the general dining room for many months, except for occasional spasms. The last of the week he complained about not feeling so well, and the end came Sunday. He was well known on the East Tualatin Plains, where he owned farm lands since 1863, when he first came to Oregon. He was associated with John W. Shute, the banker, both in farming and banking, for many years. After his brother, Perry, came to Hillsboro, he made his home with the family the better part of the time.

Mr. Foote was born at Blenheim, New York, August 2, 1837, and crossed the plains to Oregon when he was but 25 years old. He leaves the following brothers and sisters: Perry Foote, Hillsboro; A. L. Foote, Fayette, Iowa; Mrs. Amanda Reector, Delaney, New York; and W. C. Foote, of Esperance, New York. Deceased was never married.

He leaves a considerable estate, consisting of mortgages and farm lands, as well as money. Several years ago he deeded several pieces of his farm lands to the heirs of the late Mrs. Lechly, he retaining a life interest. These lands now go to the Lechlys, title passing at death. An attempt to break these deeds was made two or three years ago, but the grantee won in both the lower and Supreme Courts.

Mr. Foote was noted for his kindly disposition, and he counted as his friend almost every person who lived on the plains east of Hillsboro. He was open handed, had no bad habits, and was highly esteemed.

The funeral took place Tuesday, interment being in the West Union cemetery.

"BACK TO THE FARM"

H. S. Huson, for years chief engineer of the Northern Pacific Railway, on the coast, was in from his farm south of Cornelius, the last of the week. Mr. Huson had charge of the road when they built the big Stampede tunnel, at that time the most remarkable work of engineering known to the railroad world in America.

Mr. Huson is interested in Portland property, but recently felt a longing to get back to the simple life, and purchased the ranch near the foothills of the Chehalis range. He likes Washington County, and says that dollar for dollar in value he gets off better than he does in Multnomah county.

MCCOY-WHITTEN

St. Patrick's Cupid was celebrating the anniversary in Hillsboro, Monday, March 17, 1913, furnishing the contracting parties to a wedding in Judge Reasoner's Chambers, the high contracting parties being Miss Phoebe Whitten and M. C. McCoy.

Bride and groom are located on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Flint, and they have a host of friends congratulating them on the nuptials which were solemnized on the day of all days dear to the McCoy family.

COURT GETS IRISH PRESENT

Monday morning St. Patrick's Day was celebrated in circuit court with a due regard to the anniversary of Ireland's patron saint. A son of Erin that is some of his forefathers were Irish—presented Judge Campbell with an Irish "cutty", which in Anglo-Saxon is a clay pipe, and attached to it was a sack of Irish tobacco, wrapped in green cloth. The court remarked, "An' I'll schmoke it, too."

Miss Marie Tunzai, of Portland, was out Sunday, the guest of Miss Pearl Smith.

Monday was St. Patrick's Day, and the "green" was in evidence everywhere. Ireland's patron Saint was perhaps the recipient of more attention the world over than any of the beneficent, and the shade of him who banished the snakes from Ireland must have been gratified if homage makes the herat of a spirit swell. The American, the Irishman, the Scotchman, the Dutchman and all nationalities wore the little green ribbon in honor of the day, and the Orangeman was courteous enough to keep his orange under cover.

Dunsenor, Orenco, Address, Hillsboro, Route 4.

Jabez Wilkes, one of the pioneers, living near the city park, was up to the business section, Saturday, carrying one of his fingers in a sling—he had been monkeying with the business end of a gopher trap, and the digit was "spearred" clear through and through. As Jabe tritely expressed it, "never had anything hurt so bad, excepting once—when a boy I was to the windward of a fellow who was chewing tobacco, and I got some of it in my eye."

I saw cordwood, poles up to 12 inches in diameter, fence rails, and boards of all kinds, into stovewood lengths. Will go into the country. Write, phone or call on me—Carl Skow, corner 8th and Fir, Hillsboro, Oregon. Phone, City 822.

The tour of Misses Alice Lund, reader and contralto, and Florence Salter, violinist and second soprano, in company with Miss Irma Beryl Shumway, of Willamette University, down the Willamette Valley, has met with favor by the music loving public, and the press notices given the trio show that they have been more favorably received than many of the Eastern musical aggregations now touring the West.

For Sale—A 50-acre farm, half cleared, 6-room house, barn, both in good condition; and outbuildings, young bearing orchard. Near station and town. Want to sell on account of old age and no help. Write Box 8, City Route 5. 51-1

Ed. Schulmerich, president of the Commercial Bank, was in town Saturday, after an extended stay on the farm. He will remain on the farm until the crop is in, and may then conclude to watch it grow. He was proudly exhibiting the callous spots on his hands, and says he is finding the real fountain of youth.

All parties knowing themselves indebted to the undersigned will please call and settle. Payments can be made to either O. E. Frank or the undersigned.—J. E. Borwick, Reedville, Ore. 35-1f

The representative of the S. P. was out Friday, to interview Sheriff Reeves. He offered a check for the tax minus the special road levy, but was told that it could not be received—so the agent took back his little twenty thousand dollars to Portland with him.

The Grand Marca is the most wholesome "two for a quarter" smoke on market—made in Oregon, by E. Schiller. When you indulge in a good smoke buy a Grand Marca. 12tf

R. B. Hibbs, a former Yamhiller, now at Lewiston, Idaho, was in town Friday, accompanied by Stewart Vaughn, of McMinnville. Stewart was for years a resident of the Middleton section, and he likes to revisit the old county seat occasionally.

The Ladies' Aid of Scholls, will have a social evening, with a program, at the Artisan Hall, Scholls, Saturday evening, March 22. Auction sale, Bazaar, coffee and refreshments. All are invited.

Geo. Bacon, of Yamhill, was in town Saturday, on business. Geo. says that the Chinas are very thick up his way, and his Hillsboro tillacums will be up there this Fall in quest of good sport.

For sale—Six fine brood sows and one boar—past two years. Inquire of J. H. Hanson, Hillsboro, R. 2, Box 7, or E. Peterson, Gaston, R. 1, Box 60. 51-1

Louie Sagert, of Tualatin, was in town Saturday.

SUDDEN DEATH CAUSES LEGAL INVESTIGATION

Mrs. Charles Hatfield, of Forest Grove, Expires Friday Night

POST MORTEM EXAMINATION HELD

Jury and Dr. Yenny Find Nothing to Ascertain Cause

Mrs. Charles Hatfield, of Forest Grove, died suddenly Friday night, and as she had not been very ill—ailing only from a slight indisposition—the authorities held an inquest to seek into causes which led to her demise. Sheriff Reeves, in company with the coroner, Dr. Barrett, and Deputy District Attorney Tongue made a thorough examination of conditions, and on Sunday Dr. Yenny, assisted by Dr. F. A. Bailey, of Hillsboro, made a post mortem examination of the remains. As near as can be learned there was nothing suspicious about the death. Several physicians worked with Mrs. Hatfield for two or three hours before she passed away, and none could determine just what caused dissolution.

Mrs. Hatfield was down town in Forest Grove, with her husband, Tuesday, in the family auto, and she appeared to be in fairly good health. On Friday evening she did not feel so well, and she told her husband to get his dinner in the business district. While he was at the restaurant he was notified by telephone, and he went to the bedside of his wife, who was then in a dying condition.

Sheriff Reeves and the officials do not think there is anything wrong, at all, and that she died from natural causes.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank our friends and neighbors in South Tualatin for the many kindnesses tendered us during our bereavement, the death and obsequies of the late John Purves.

Mrs. Carrie Purves and Children,
Hillsboro, Ore., March 15, 1913.

Albin J. Strang, sometimes known as Albert Miner, has sued Mary Strang for divorce. He alleges that his wife has not been dutiful in cooking his meals, and that she abused him frequently. He swears that he is a blacksmith and horse-shoer, and that it is a necessity to have his meals regular. Strang also avers that one time he became sick and went home and his spouse said to him, "You are too lazy to work." He wants the custody of a minor child.

Easter dance at Hillsboro Hall, Saturday evening, March 22. Best of music, and a splendid time. Everybody invited. This is the first dance under the new leaseholdship, Earl Donelson and Earl Luther. They have secured new music, and expect to make this one of the features of their year.

Geo. Biersdorf, of North Tualatin Plains, was in Monday, and stated that his dairy sale, Saturday, in this city, netted him between $80 and $100 per head. This he considers pretty good for cows that had been milking six months and over. The highest price paid was $150. There was a good crowd of dairymen in attendance.

Higginbotham, the Beaver twirler, well known to all Hillsboro lovers of the game, is one of McCredie's best, this Spring. Irvine is better than ever twisting the sphere, and the way he is batting them over the fence is a wonder.

Joseph Kemper, of Verboort, was in town Saturday.
