CATHOLIC YOUNG FOLKS STAGE A GOOD DRAMA

Two Hours of Good Entertainment at the Crescent Theatre

COMEDY WITH LOCAL TALENT DRAWS Mixed With Pathos, Youngsters Give Good Account of Themselves

The young people of the Catholic church gave a good account of themselves at the Crescent Theatre, Friday evening, in staging a comedy-drama, "The Price of His Honor," and all who attended—and it was a good sized audience—felt that they were given their money's worth. Arthur Miltenberger, the "Reub" around whom the play centered, was very good as the oldtimer who was taking care of $61,248 for a niece, and the way he guarded the money and then lost it kept the audience in good humor all the time. There was a touch of pathos here and there, when he thought that his son had stolen the money. Will Delsman, who had the son's role, was clever all the time, and Miss Florence Waihel, the niece, Dora, who was finally won by the young man, after things had apparently gone against him, kept her lines moving all the time. The villain, Harvey Barton, taken care of by George Engeldinger, made good as the bad man who wanted the money which he stole from the old man, in order to throw a cloud on the son. He had no more than stolen the wallet, which the old man had intended to guard with a shotgun, but was temporarily called away, when in turn a poorhouse girl, befriended by the old man and wife, abstracted the money from the rascal. The poor house wif, Jerusha Boggs, was well handled by Miss Frances Delsman, who made a hit all the time. The girl finally told how the money had been stolen after the son, innocent all the time, had been brought back for trial. Mrs. Arthur Miltenberger was very good as the wife of her husband, and sustained her part with a great deal of cleverness at all times, particularly while old Eli began to doubt his honesty.

John Ryan, as Jimmy, the Irishman, was good in pantomime, and as a bouncer was some pugilist. Chas. Ritchie, as Jasper White, the coon, was more than good. Henry Delsman, as the Dutch chief of police, made good for the circuit.

All in all it was a good wholesome play, and all had their lines perfectly.

Vincent Engeldinger, at the piano, was a whole orchestra within himself, and gave several numbers between acts.

The Catholic young people are to be congratulated upon their clever presentation of the play.

The direction of the play was under the supervision of Father Lappen.

Will go to Beaverton

The cast will go to Beaverton Wednesday night, April 9, and the net proceeds will go to the Beaverton Catholic church.

WANTED

200 cords of fir wood to be delivered at the plant of the Company in Hillsboro; 50 cords to be delivered on or before June 1, 1913, and the balance during the summer as needed. Address, Everfresh Company, Spalding Bldg., Portland. 2-3

Fred Schoen Jr., of Blooming, was in town Friday.

C. Viohl, of Oak Park, convalescent from a serious illness, was in town Friday.

L. P. Spencer, of Bonita, on the Electric, was in the city Monday morning, on business at the court house.

Oregon school boys between the ages of 12 and 16 will be given a short practical course in agriculture and livestock growing at the Oregon Agricultural College June 16-26. The management of the state school is arranging a camp for boys from all parts of the state at that time, which will follow the close of the school year. Details of the plan have not yet been fully worked out, but E. D. Resler, director of the O. A. C. Summer school, has arranged for a new departure in the work and believes it will be of great practical value. Those attending the course will be shown approved methods and, as the instruction will be given by actual demonstration in connection with ten days camping-out, it will be a source of education presenting attractive recreation features. A prospectus will soon be issued by the college. A number will attend from this county.

For sale—Eggs for hatching S. C. R. L. Reds, Banded Rocks $1.50 per setting of 15; $5 per 100. Baby chickens, 12 cents each; S. C. White Leghorns, $1 per 15; $5 per 100; baby chicks, 10 cents. Will do custom hatching and furnish eggs of leading varieties. Agent for the famous McClanahan incubator. Send request for catalogue by postal. Also have some White Leghorn cockerels for sale.—R. E. Dunsmore, Orenco, Address, Hillsboro, Route 4.

Ex-Sheriff Hancock finds that he still has to thresh out a great deal of aftermath connected with the office. Last week he was up to McMinnville, where he was summoned as a witness, and Friday he was down to the county seat, a witness on the Cramer case.

I saw cordwood, poles up to 12 inches in diameter, fence rails, and boards of all kinds, into stove-wood lengths. Will go into the country. Write, phone or call on me.—Carl Skow, corner 8th and Fir, Hillsboro, Oregon. Phone, City 822.

H. H. Hall, of Shady Brook, was in town the last of the week. Mr. Hall has just returned from a trip to see his son, F. F. Hall, of near Summit, Benton County, and he says that while it is a great stock country he likes old Washington County and its climate better.

All parties knowing themselves indebted to the undersigned will please call and settle. Payments can be made to either O. E. Frank or the undersigned. J. E. Borwick, Reedville, Ore. 35-1f

George Madison, the cartoonist, has drawn a very fine rural picture of the fishing season, and the draft is on exhibition in the Hillsboro Furniture Store window. It tells its own story, and is a very creditable piece of work.

For sale: Thoroughbred White Leghorn eggs, $1 for 15, or $6 per hundred; also hens and pullets; won second pen prize at Hillsboro in 1912.—Emil Stark, Bethany, address Portland, Ore., Route 2.

Fourteen China pheasant roosters in one bunch were recently seen in a field within a mile or so of town. They are very plentiful this season, and when the season opens this Fall there will be things doing.

Dreer's Early Standard potato seed for sale. Potatoes mature in 90 days. Something new, and something fine. Have about 40 bushels.—Geo. R. Bagley, or apply at Oak Cove Farm. 45tf

The first crawfish supper of the season was pulled off Friday evening, twenty-two men of the town getting away with ninety dozen of the crustaceans.

Bud Knudson, below Scholls, has been catching crawfish with considerable success the past week. Portland and Seattle are the markets.

D. C. Stokebury, supervisor of the Forest Grove road district, was down to the county Monday. D. C. built some of Hillsboro's roads, and knows his business.

Cornelius and Forest Grove were represented here in numbers, the last and the first of the week, attending the Dr. Everest trial.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crabtree, now at the Laurel farm, were in the city Friday.

Editor Massey, of the Cornelius Tribune, was in the county seat Saturday.

C. E. Korn, of Helyetia, was down to the county seat Monday afternoon.

Dan Leisy, of South Tualatin, was a city visitor the last of the week.

EXPERT C. E. HACKETT COMMENDS OFFICES

Says That Work of County Officials is Above the Average

FINDS ALL MONEY ACCOUNTED FOR Errors Were Not Many and Only in Placing in Wrong Funds

C. E. Hackett, of Oregon City, Saturday evening, filed his report on the books of the officials of Washington County, covering the last term of office, and the present term as far as the tenure has extended. He was assisted by T. S. Weathered, and commends Mr. Weathered's work very highly. After reviewing the work he says:

"I find all the work above the average, and you have reason to congratulate yourselves upon having a very efficient set of officers."

Errors were here and there found in the turning over of money on tax rolls, all in very small amounts, and these can easily be rectified. These mistakes occurred in shifting the amounts from road districts to school districts, and vice versa. For instance, supposing a road district number should be 110, and there should be a school district of like number. A two or three dollar debit might be given to the school district of that number where it should have gone to the road district.

He commended all officers with this sole exception, and gives the treasurer a nice bouquet, at the same time recommending a little change which would be beneficial.

Mr. Hackett is one of the real thorough accountants of the state, and that he commends the officials past and present, is a matter of pleasure, both to the people and to the officials themselves.

MRS. LOUISE NASON

Mrs. Louise Nason, widow of the late Charles E. Nason, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Cuddy, north of Milkanst, Friday morning, aged 81 years, 6 months and 25 days. She was born in Windsor, Maine, and was married to Mr. Nason at Danvers, Mass., in 1852. She came to Oregon in 1896. Her surviving children are: Mrs. W. J. Cuddy, Hillsboro; Mrs. G. W. Greenstreet, Portland; Mrs. A. E. Spaulding, Los Angeles; Wm. E. Nason, Goldfield, Nevada.

The funeral was held at the Seventh Day Adventist Church, East Portland, Sunday, and interment was in the Lone Fir cemetery.

GIVES ICE EXPLORER AIR RIDE OVER BAY

Famous Arctic Traveler Signs Two Crafts for two Airships

WILL USE THEM IN THE NORTH

Aviator Christofferson Gives Amundsen Ride Over San Francisco Bay

Amundsen, the Arctic explorer, was given a ride in a flying machine over San Francisco Bay the other day by Silas Christofferson, the purpose being to show the advantage of the hydroplane in Arctic explorations. So taken with the idea was Amundsen that he signed a contract for two of the Christofferson machines.

The explorer gave Mr. and Mrs. Christofferson a dinner at the Fairmount hotel after the ride over the bay, and stated that with the use of the flying machine an explorer in the North would have a great advantage over the old methods.

He will take the machines with him to the territory of the South pole, and as the hydro-Aeroplane rides water like a duck, and flies in the air like a bird, there will be no question of its utility.

This is of interest to Hillsboro because the aviator who closed the contract is married to a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bissner, of South Tualatin. He is making the first flying machines to be used in Arctic exploration.

A recent issue of the Examiner, of San Francisco, has an extended article, covering the Amundsen visit to that city, and his dealing with Christofferson, and the story has photographs of the explorer and aviator, as they are about to take their flight.

KERR-RITCHEY

Charles A. Kerr and Eunice Hester Ritchey were united in marriage at 3 p. m., Sunday, March 30, 1913. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, G. W. Pate and wife, Rev. B. Clarence Cook officiating. A large number of friends and relatives of the bride and groom were present. Many beautiful and useful presents were received by the young couple. Among those present were: Messrs and Mesdames G. W. Pate, T. M. Kerr, W. R. Montgomery, Adolph Schafer, B. L. Jones, J. M. Gaur; Mrs. J. A. McDaniels; the Misses Laura and Mamie McDaniels; J. L. Kerr, Rev. Cook, Leo Gaur and Albert Ritchey. The bride and groom are spending a few days in Portland. After they return they will take up their residence in their home in the northeast part of the city.

MRS. LOUIS TOBIAS

Mrs. Ella B. Tobias, wife of Louis Tobias, died Friday morning at the family home, between Reedville and Aloha. Her husband went to Portland, Thursday, and upon returning in the evening, found the wife paralyzed and unconscious. Dr. Linklater was summoned, but upon examination gave no hope of the patient's life, and the next morning she passed away. Two years ago Mrs. Tobias suffered a partial paralytic stroke, and has never been strong since. She was about 48 years of age. She was born in Michigan, and was the daughter of Edward Bartlett. Her mother's maiden name was Charlotte Merrill.

MRS. LUCY E. WALKER

Mrs. Lucy E. Walker died at her home in South Hillsboro, Saturday morning, March 29, 1913, after an illness covering several years. She was the daughter of Peter Shull, and was born in Illinois, July 12, 1829. The family came to Oregon in 1847, and she was married to Stephen Walker, in 1849. Eight children were born to the union, four of whom survive—Douglas, James and William, and Mrs. Mary Waite, wife of Geo. Waite.

The funeral took place Monday, at ten o'clock, and interment was in the Lewis cemetery, Farmington.

Mrs. Walker was a member of the Christian Church, and was highly esteemed for her many noble qualities.

J. H. Dorland, of above North Plains, was in the city Monday morning.

P. J. Sonnen, of Cornelius, was a city caller Monday afternoon.
