MRS. MARY AUSTIN

Mrs. Mary Austin, a former resident of near Cornelius, died at Portland, Saturday, July 19, 1913, after an extended illness. She was a native of Virginia, and lacked but a few days of attaining the age of 85 years. She came to Oregon in 1878, and originally owned a farm in the Blooming section. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. N. A. Freeman, Portland; Mrs. Anna Wood, wife of Zina Wood, Hillsboro; Mrs. Janet Freeman, Portland, and one son, Ed. Austin, of Salem.

The funeral took place at Skewes' chapel, Portland, Monday, and the remains were brought to this county for interment.

SEALED BIDS

Sealed proposals will be received up to August 1, 1913, for furnishing 100 cords of four-foot fir wood, second growth, and 50 cords of good-sized oak wood, four-foot length, to be delivered at the school houses in Hillsboro as the board of directors may designate.

Peter Basow, Clerk.
By order of Board of School Directors District No. 7, Hillsboro, Oregon.

Now is the time, if you are a trifle quick tempered, to keep a good, stiff control over your impulses. Hot weather is likely to get your "peevy-nerve" and make you irritable. Hold down the lid for if you get into a fight and whip your man it may cost you a fine, besides the notoriety. If you should get "whipped," as the Arkansawyer would say, you would then have cause to wish that you had "argied" the other fellow out of the notion. Keep cool, and don't lose your temper.

Attorneys E. B. Tongue and Geo. R. Bagley returned the last of the week from Tillamook, where they are engaged in litigation on the case of the citizens of Tillamook against the Warren Construction Co. They say that they witnessed the assault on Attorney C. W. Fulton by the ex-convict, and that it was one of the most unprovoked they ever witnessed.

Sunday was a great day for visits to the beach and mountains. Hundreds went to Tillamook, while a large number went to Gales Creek points. W. G. Hare and family spent the day at Jackson Falls, in the hills above North Plains, and this is one of the beauty spots little known to county seaters.

Born, Saturday, July 19, 1913, to Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Gordon, of Hillsboro, a daughter, weight ten pounds. The happy father is the Rockolite contractor, now finishing his contracts in this city. He is already learning to do the Marathon, as he expects to take charge when Monsieur Colic makes a nocturnal call.

Walter Mosher, of Los Angeles, departed for home Saturday, after an extended visit at the home of J. A. Imbrie. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Med Mosher, well known here years ago. On the eve of his departure, young Robt. Imbrie entertained a number of their friends, with a party at Hale Springs.

Mrs. William Conley, of Beaverton, was in the city Saturday. She says that Mr. Conley, well known here, is still suffering from internal injuries received when a tree fell across a cabin in which he was sleeping, near Wheeler, last Fall. His attorney is taking up the matter of damages with the railway company.

Alfred Harrington, of the Peoples' Theatre, and Will Delsman, of North Hillsboro, are again on the streets, after a siege of the mumps. More adults have had this pleasant little malady here this year than in any other year of the swollen-chop epidemic that ever visited the city.

Peter Huffman, the Bacona sawmill man, says the roads up the mountains, above Mountaindale, are getting in fine shape for lumber hauling, and his teams are now able to bring out big loads. Peter is in a fine timber belt, and turns out a mighty fine product.

The cheapest sheriff's sale receipt ever made in Hillsboro was pulled off Monday, when a party bought in a Forest Grove lot for twenty dollars. The piece of property is said to be worth four or five times that amount, and redemption will come easy.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John M. Wall, Hillsboro, July 19, 1913, a son. This makes three boys and one girl for Mr. and Mrs. Wall, and the attorney says the family will now be large enough to fill the automobile.

L. A. Fernsworth, late of Sacramento, this week begins the publication of the Cornelius Tribune, succeeding Virgil Massey. The old Tribune plant was moved to Harrisburg, as reported in the Argus some weeks ago.

J. B. Oeffner, of Portland, was out to circuit court, Monday morning, on legal business.
