

STRANGE WOMAN SENT TO STATE HOSPITAL

Picked up at Progress by Mrs. Riley and Brought to Hillsboro. She Refuses to Converse.

Recovered From an Attack of Varioloid and Probably is Escapee. An unidentified woman of perhaps 30 years of age was picked up at Progress late Thursday evening by Mrs. Riley, and kept overnight, and was brought to county seat Friday morning.

She was examined by Sheriff Reeves, Dr. E. A. Riley and a neighbor woman going to the house of a friend, when they discovered the man sitting by the side of the bed. Accosting her they received no answer. Seeing that nothing was wrong they pried her with questions, and after several attempts to get her to talk, her silence impressed them as peculiar.

Joseph M. Ross died suddenly at his home near Valmer, Idaho, Friday evening, and word was telegraphed to his sister, Mrs. Dierdorf, of North Tualatin Plains, Saturday. He was well known at Hillsboro years ago, when the Ross family first settled here. He was a bachelor, and was born in Scotland. He leaves the following sisters and brother: Mrs. J. B. Schaefer, wife of the mayor of Linton; Mrs. P. C. Buckingham, of Gifford, Idaho; Wm. Ross and Mrs. Emma Dierdorf, of North Tualatin Plains. The body was shipped to this place for burial, and interment followed in the Scotch Church cemetery, near North Plains. Deceased was 54 years of age.

I represent Spirella corsets—not sold in stores. Will call at homes on request, and do the fitting, and teach how to adjust and wear the corset. Our tailored-made-to-measure corsets, including the latest front lace, with an experienced corsetier service, cost no more than high class corsets purchased in stores. Mrs. M. E. Caudle, Hillsboro, Fifth and Jackson Streets, Phone No. 584.

J. M. London, the tallest man on Iowa Hill, measuring over six feet in his stocking feet, brought to the Argus, Saturday, some American Banner oats taller than the grower. The grain was very heavy, and was six feet and six inches tall, and from the heads, which were heavy and well-filled, the yield should go eighty or ninety bushels to the acre—a fine yield for mountain grown grain. The grain is on exhibition in the Commercial Club rooms.

If you want a range that beats the world for the money, call on David Corwin, Bank Annex Building, and see his Quality Ranges, all the way from $25 to $55. These are the best ranges ever placed on the market in Hillsboro. Call in and see them.

The city council met Saturday night and passed upon and accepted the sixteen blocks of rock-paved pavement just completed by Contractor Bruce Gordon. The pavement is "coming" better all the time, and the more the travel the better the roadway. Mr. Gordon is loading his plant for shipment to Condon, and he expects to leave for that point in a few days. Mr. Gordon has made many friends during his year of residence here, and all will regret his departure.

For sale: Registered Jersey bull, 3 years old, descendant of Wm. Schulmerich herd, $50, gentle and very easy to handle. Must change head of herd.—C. C. Brown Ranch, Cornelius, R. 2, Iowa Hill. 20-22

E. N. Green, who assessed the Sherwood and Tualatin sections, finished his work last week, and returned his assessments to the local office, Friday afternoon. He says that owing to increase in values, and the many plats now being sold, the job is no sinecure. Mr. Green soon goes up the valley to build a bophouse for a friend, and he will probably remain until after hop picking.

For sale: Two Jersey cows, well-bred and fresh.—Sigmund Burger, on Springville Road, one-half mile east of old Bethany. P. O. Address, Holbrook, Oregon, Route 1. 19-21

Thrashing reports are coming in daily, showing good yields. Gene Delplanché, of near Centerville, thrashed 45 bushels to the acre, while Jos. Cawrse, a mile or so distant from the Wunderlich place, turned out 44 bushels per acre. This shows what old Washington County soil can do when conditions are right.

Forsale: Indian Runner ducks and large strain of big young geese.—Henry Jaeger, Garden Tracts, west of court house. 21

C. C. Nelson, of Bacona, mail carrier between that point and Buxton, was down to the city Friday, on business. Mr. Nelson says that the fern is very high in the mountains, making it difficult for any one to trace a deer, and reports that very few are being killed up his way.

Anton Christener and Simon Hershey have appealed from the fines imposed by Judge Smith upon conviction of sale of unwholesome meat, and the circuit court will now have a turn at the case. Their bond was filed Friday last, and the appeal placed on the calendar.

J. B. Wilkes and family went to Cannon Beach, below Seaside, Saturday evening. Mr. Wilkes returning Tuesday evening. Mrs. Wilkes and children expect to remain several days.

L. W. WOODRUFF KILLED IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT

Big Auburn Machine Runs Amuck at Dairy Creek Bridge

CAR COLLIDES WITH EMRIK'S BUGGY

Then Skids to Bridge Rail, Killing Passenger and Injuring Another

L. W. Woodruff, aged about 40 years, was almost instantly killed in an automobile accident at the east approach of the Dairy Creek bridge, one mile west of this city, on the Baseline road, Friday evening, just before nine o'clock. J. E. Blackburn, a contractor, who is building a residence for W. H. McEldowney, at Forest Grove, left Hillsboro for the Grove, about 8:45, with the following passenger list: L. W. Woodruff, his brother-in-law; Brady Chowning, a Forest Grove barber, and Russell Prouty and Harley O. Wishard. As the car neared the Dairy Creek bridge it attempted to pass Alva Emrick and wife, who were enroute to the Fred Heywood place. Blackburn claims he did not see the buggy, owing to the dust, and the big machine crashed into the left hind wheel of the vehicle, turning it completely around. Brakes were applied, but the car was under such speed that it skidded to the planking and turned partially around, the end of the railing striking Woodruff over the heart, breaking three ribs and throwing him to the bridge. He died in a few minutes after Dr. Elmer Smith arrived on the scene. Brady Chowning was thrown over the glass, and alighting on his head, had his nose broken. Blackburn remained in the car along with Prouty and Wishard, one of the latter injuring his hand slightly.

When the car struck the Emrick buggy, Mrs. Emrick, whose health is delicate, jumped toward the ditch and sustained a few bruises. Her injuries are not severe, although she suffered considerably the next day. The husband was not injured in the least. The horse ran up to the city and was caught by bystanders.

The entire rear of the car was demolished and the tonneau was practically torn from the body of the machine. The left hind wheel was torn to fragments, and so great was the impact when the car struck the bridge that a 3x12 plank was broken. The tires fairly blistered the plank, showing that the brakes were set as hard as possible.

Coroner Ira W. Barrett held an inquest Saturday, and the jury, aside from declaring that death was due to an accident, fixed no blame. Blackburn and the two who were uninjured testified that the machine was going about fifteen or eighteen miles an hour, but others swore that when they left town and reached the Baseline road they were going with high speed. Blackburn says that owing to the dust he did not see the vehicle until he was right against it, and that he sounded his horn. Emrick says he did not hear the machine at all, and heard no alarm.

Woodruff is a member of the Moose order and a member of the Order of Railway Conductors. He was working with Blackburn while awaiting a position as conductor for the Portland, Eugene & Eastern. He leaves a wife and two children in California.

The county commissioners went to the scene to look at the roadway, which had recently been repaired, when the bridge was overhauled, as there was talk that the condition of the approach might have been partially responsible for the tragedy.

Woodruff's body was taken to the Hillsboro Undertaking parlors, and prepared for shipment to Portland, where his mother resides. The remains were shipped Sunday morning.

The jury which heard the case: Carl Bunsen, August Tews, J. B. Wilkes, Mr. Cornell, L. J. Rushlow and C. A. Lamkin. Deputy District Attorney T. H. Tongue appeared for the state and conducted the examination of witnesses.

It is the general idea of auto drivers that the speed was greater than claimed by Blackburn. Emrick and wife are to be congratulated that they escaped so luckily.
