ANDERSON GETS THREE FOR 120 ACRES

A big China rooster was noticed early Monday morning, serenely perched on the court house roof, watching the town waken into business life. Janitor Tupper was all excitement, and was trying to get some one to take a shot at the bird. As the city ordinance prohibits shooting inside the city limits, no one wanted to take the chance, and the fellow with beautiful coloring appeared to know his vantage ground for he remained there until the fog lifted. Some one ventured that the bird had arrived in town to mock at some of the poor shots that were afield Sunday morning. Others say it was a Reeves pheasant raised by Dr. Wood.

DEPUTY GAME WARDEN GETS ANOTHER GUN

Henry W. Lyon, a Portland business man, couldn't resist shooting at a China pheasant hen, last Sunday, and to his sorrow he landed the egg-layer. Deputy Game Warden Chas. Russell happened along and went through the hunter, finding the contraband bird. As a result he placed Lyon under arrest and brought him to Hillsboro. Lyon was fined $30 by Judge Smith, which he paid. Lyon also lost his gun, which was confiscated by the state under the provisions of the game law. The offender also lost his license to hunt for the year.
