T. R. Ratcliffe, well known at Scholls, in the old days, was out from Portland, Monday, greeting his Hillsboro friends. T. R. is looking over the field in the interest of W. A. Carter, who is a candidate for governor before the primaries, on the republican ticket. As it is stated that Hon. Jas. Withycombe is also a candidate, as well as W. S. U'Ren, this makes three formidable opponents in the field. Grant Dimick is also said to have the bee in his bonnet. Grant hails from Oregon City.

Want to buy from 20 to 50 acres, partially improved, with small house and barn preferred, back from center of county. Must be cheap and on easy terms. G. F. Cramer, Box 84, Route 5, Hillsboro, Or. 30-32

Grand Chancellor Frank S. Grant, of Portland, visited the local Knights of Pythians lodge, Monday evening. While here he was the guest of John M. Wall, who several years ago was the executive of the order in the state. Mr. Wall introduced Mr. Grant to the local Pythians. The new Grand Chancellor is one of the best informed Pythians in the state, and that he will be a credit to the order goes without saying.

GERMANS TALK ABOUT COMING ELECTION

Prominent Citizens Comment Argus for Attitude on Question

ADVISE AGAINST BAD WHISKEY

Gerhardt Goetze and Fred Schomburg Oppose Prohibition

Gerhardt Goetze, of Blooming, prominent as a breeder of Holsteins, and Fred Schomburg, of Hillsboro, a successful dairyman, and citizens whose integrity can not be questioned, write the Argus this week, anent the prohibition question. Their letters follow:

Cornelius, October 29, 1913, Editor Argus, Hillsboro,

Dear Sir: Your editorial of Oct. 23, about the local option election in Hillsboro is about right. It will cut the business of your town about in two. It is not only that the Germans from East of Hillsboro will go to Portland, but a good many South will do the same. Last April, when Cornelius went dry, they said they would trade in Hillsboro, and if Hillsboro should go dry they would do their trading through the mail order houses in Portland, which is now very handy through the parcel post, and it would save us going to town.

The Germans are a sociable people. They like to meet their friends in town once in a while, and have a friendly chat with them, and it goes a good deal better if he can have a glass of beer at the same time. But the reason the Germans are opposing prohibition is not because he can not get his glass of beer, but because it takes away his personal rights, and liberty, and a German will fight for his rights and liberty as long as he has a show.

I think it is very seldom you find a German drunk, because he only drinks beer. When a person begins to drink whiskey, there is where he gets too much, and if you are going to have a prohibition town it is certain you will have a lot of bad whiskey and drunkards in town.

Furthermore, I should like to say it is only too bad those prohibitionists did not live at the time of Adam and Eve. They surely would have grubbed the forbidden tree out and we would enjoy paradise today. You can not make a person better through prohibition laws—it is only through moral and religious teaching.

Yours very truly, Gerhardt Goetze, President German Speaking Society, Cornelius, Ore.

Hillsboro, Oregon, Oct. 29, 1913.

To the Voters of Hillsboro: On November 4, you will be called upon to vote either for or against prohibition in our city. Before casting your ballot, I hope you will give due consideration to the results which are bound to follow the adoption of prohibition in Hillsboro.

No matter what your belief may be as to the efficiency of prohibition as a moral agent, it cannot be seriously contended that any good can come to Hillsboro by abolishing the licensed saloon here, with Portland only a few miles away, and easily accessible.

Ask yourself if it is not reasonable to expect these conditions should Hillsboro vote for prohibition:

Increase of taxes owing to the loss of revenue from the saloons.

Loss of trade, because the man forced to go to Portland for a glass of liquor will purchase other things.

Loss of trade of those farmers who insist that they have a right to a glass of their favorite beverage, if so inclined, when business calls them to town.

More drunkenness, because the man forced to travel into Portland for a drink naturally will take several, when one would have sufficed the same man if permitted to exercise his right at home.

No decrease in the consumption of liquor, but worse conditions under which the supply comes to satisfy the demand.

The lowering of the moral tone of the community because of the shocking hypocrisy bred by this law which many openly violate, who would break no other law; for the reason that they consider it an invasion of their personal rights not to be tolerated.

Will not the bottle drinking, which prohibition always brings about, be much more dangerous to your boy than the open saloon, in which he is not allowed?

Don't you know that every boy feels that he must investigate the things which are forbidden—hence the injury worked by the blind pig and the hidden bottle in prohibition communities.

Don't you know that character alone makes the man or woman worth while, and that the legislative straight jacket of the prohibitionist must either breed a race of mollycoddlers or law breakers.

From observations on my last visit to Germany, I am sure prohibition would prevent emigration of the German class of people to this community. You will observe that a greater portion of our most prosperous citizens around Hillsboro, are of German descent, on whom we depend for a great portion of our support.

Very truly yours, F. Schomburg.

Pythian Sisters and Knights

The social evening to be given by the Pythian Sisters, Friday night, Oct. 31, has been postponed until next Friday night, Nov. 7. All members of the two orders and their families are cordially invited to attend.

FINE SMOKER

The Beaverton Athletic Club pulled off five snappy boxing bouts last night, to a crowded club room. Three coach loads arrived from Portland on a special, and about 40 attendants from Hillsboro and Forest Grove, Jack Heiser was referee, and George Barker was timekeeper. Pearl Casey, of the N. W. ball club, was one of the judges. To the efforts of A. A. Chisholm and J. L. Hardy, of the local club, was due in a great measure the success of the meeting.

Carlson, of the Columbus Club, was given the decision over Schmeer, the favorite of the Multnomah Athletic—135 lbs.; Hibery won over Cornquist, 145 lbs.; Hewitt, Multnomah, was given the decision over Ollie Hill, 115; Al McNeil, Beaver Club, bested Meagher, the Vancouver boy. The Newsboys Club, of Portland, furnished a 3-round bout between Gordon and Bernstein, Gordon winning easily on points.

C. C. Arns, of Route 1, was in town yesterday.

Frank Hovendon, of near Beaverton, was in town yesterday.

Ed. Thomas, of Beaverton, was in town yesterday.

Otto Wohler, of Oak Park, was in town today. He says onion buyers are offering $1.75.

Hub Simpson, of South Tualatin, was in the city the first of the week.

Coffee Club will meet at the Commercial Club rooms, Saturday afternoon, Nov. 1. All members are requested to attend.

Bert Mead, who has been at Springfield, Oregon, visiting his brother, arrived in Hillsboro last night, to remain.

W. B. Dolan, formerly a resident of Hillsboro, and two years fire chief here, died in Portland Saturday. He leaves a widow and one child.

Henry Howard Holcomb and May Marjora DeBurr, of near Bethany, were united in marriage, Oct. 26, 1913, Rev. P. W. H. Frederick officiating.

Mrs. Anne M. Long, of Downsville, Wis., is the guest of her son, L. A. Long, and family, this week. She soon leaves for her Montana farm, near Konan, on Flathead Lake.

H. Taylor Hill, the old Linn County pioneer, and a brother of Dr. J. L. Hill, was in from Portland, yesterday, enroute to his Roy ranch. Taylor still holds his acre, and is still as young as when he romped over the hills of Linn County.

Ed. Summers, a Beaverton contractor, died yesterday at the family home. He was in Hillsboro the first of the week, and the death came as a surprise, although he has been ill for some time. He leaves a widow and a son and daughter.

Max Haley and wife, formerly of the Grove, celebrated their golden wedding at Portland, Oct. 25. Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kuratli, of this city, were present. Mr. and Mrs. Haley are parents of Miss Carrie Haley, now Mrs. S. J. Donelson, of Rupert, Idaho, well known here as a teacher some years ago.

Fair shoppers who intend buying the menfolks something should not overlook the elaborate display of pipes and smokers' articles in the south window of the Den of Sweets. Come in and select what you want. Pay a little on it and have it set aside, and then pay a little now and then and you'll soon have it paid for. Now is the time to select before the stock has been picked over.—The Den of Sweets.

Chas. May, who has been up in Canada for a year, was in the city yesterday, returning from a trip out to Mountaineer, where he visited with his father, Jas. May and family. Chas. says that Canada is all right, but that the original Garden of Eden is right here in old Washington County, where he spent his boyhood. While out in the hills, he was brought in a couple of deer—and he went back to Portland laden with some fine venison steaks.

CONTRACTOR POTTS LOSES HIS LIEN CASE

Court Holds That Pews do Not Constitute Real Estate—Dismissed

PUT LIEN ON BEAVERTON CHURCH

Several Divorce Cases Tried Before Judge Campbell, This Week

Contractor Potts, who recently filed a lien on the Beaverton Catholic Church, Father O'Flynn, pastor, lost his case before Judge Campbell, yesterday, the court holding that pews, which were built by Potts, and for which he filed suit, do not constitute real estate. The priest claimed the pews were not to specifications and refused the bill, and suit and lien followed. The case went through court so far as proof of claim was concerned on the side of the plaintiff, and ready to argue, the attorney for the defense moved to dismiss on the grounds stated above—pews not being real estate. The motion was allowed, and the contractor will have the remedy of a suit in equity.

In the case of Saffron versus John Nyberg and Washington County, suit to enjoin operation of the Nyberg rock quarry, the defense was given five days to answer. Mr. Saffron and his witnesses were here with a basket of rock, alleged to have been thrown on the place by the blasts.

The case of W. H. French, for divorce, has taken up two days of the time of the court, there being 10 witnesses for the plaintiff, and a large number for the defense.

Divorces were granted in Walker vs Walker; Monson vs Monson; Walters vs Walters; Murray vs Murray, and Samson vs Samson.

Default cases entered; DeAcosta vs DeAcosta decree later; and Valley Trust Co vs Evans.

Hugo Nord, who passed a forged check on the Hillsboro Mercantile, pleaded guilty to the charge.

Chas. Meacham, who put in the macadam on the South Jackson Bottom hill, is very proud of the substantial work done. The county court is now cutting down the hill south of the condenser, and it will be rocked at once.

Franquette walnut trees grafted on California Black Root—the kind that grows vigorous and bears heavy crops here in Western Oregon. The tree mentioned in my former ad., topworked, 4 years ago last April, produced 125 pounds of dried nuts that can be sold easily for 20c per pound, wholesale, making an income of $25.00. We have acres here in the northwest that are producing over $300, net income, trees averaging less than 17 years old. It is time that Washington county was waking up to this new industry. My first and second plantings, 5 and 6 years old are beginning to bear.

I also have vetch seed in small or large quantities.—Ferd Groner, Hillsboro, Oregon, route 2, phone Scholls 555 line 16.

The holiday season is approaching, and a good photograph, or enlarged portrait, such as you can get at Johnson's Studio, will make a most acceptable present for your dearest friend. 32-3

Invitations are out for a conference at the Commercial Club, Friday, Nov. 7, at 7:30 p. m., to take up the question of protection of the boys and girls of the community, the conference to be attended by at least one or two speakers from the Oregon Social Hygiene Society, as well as speakers of local repute. A comprehensive program has been arranged, and the field will be covered by local physicians. The program committee consists of Dr. J. P. Tamesie, E. H. Baird, R. W. Barnes, E. I. Kurath and G. N. McKay.

Dance at the Bethany Grange Hall, Saturday, Nov. 8. Music by Johnson and Davis. Tickets, $1.00, including supper. Everybody invited. 32-3

"What Happened to Brags," a farce comedy in three acts, will be presented by the Young People of St. Matthews Church, November 19, at the Crescent Theatre. Prices of admission will be 50, 35 and 25 cents—and if the young people can give as good an account of themselves this year as they did at their last Playlet, they will be well worth while the visit and loss of an evening. The new play is said to abound with good comedy.

Miss Gladys Cuddy, of near Milkapsi, entertained a party of her friends Wednesday night, Oct. 29, the occasion being her 20th birthday. Halloween games were indulged and one of the features was a huge birthday cake, hidden in which was a ring, a thimble and a dime, to tell the fortunes of the lucky finders. The evening was very enjoyable.
