

COURT SETS A DAY FOR HEARING PROTESTS

December 27, 1913 - Saturday
Will Have Hearing on Tax Budget
TO BE HEARD IN JANUARY
Can Protest Against any Item of Published Budget

The county commissioners' court met Saturday, December 27, 1913, as the day when taxpayers may meet them and protest against the proposed items of the budget contained in the published budget, published in another column in this week's issue. The law now requires that the court must publish a statement of what may be expended in the various offices, and in various public improvements for the year, outlining what the course of the court will be in administration. The entire day will be consumed in hearings of those who are desirous of objecting, and it is expected that quite a number will be in to hear what others have to say, even if they have nothing to say for themselves. Of course, it is pretty hard for a taxpayer to make up a list, as expenditures, like board of assessors, and such other things, are always hard to determine a year in advance. Saturday, Dec. 27, therefore, is expected to be a big day for Hillsboro—and you are invited.

JACKSON ELFORD

A pretty home wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. J. Elford, North Plains, when their daughter, Grace Ethel, was united in marriage to Frank Wesley Jackson, of Cullen E. Cline, of Portland, officiating. The bride is a highly educated young lady of North Plains, and the groom is a son of the well known pioneers, W. Jackson and wife. Both are very popular in their community, and they carry with them the best wishes of a large circle of friends. Claude Elford, a brother of the bride, was groomsmen, and Miss Anna Gordon was bridesmaid. Dr. Cline officiated with the beautiful ring service of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The bride was gowned in a charming creation of blue charmeuse, trimmed with real lace, and carried an arm bouquet of white carnations.

After the ceremony the wedding party, consisting of the bridesmaids and invited relatives and friends, were seated to a splendidly appointed dinner. The happy couple departed on an afternoon train for a wedding trip, after which they will return home to their friends, Dec. 30.

Those present were Messrs. J. Elford, J. Jackson, W. C. Jackson, Fred Elford, J. H. Layne, Rev. C. E. Cline, Messrs. Claude Elford, and Otis Jackson; Misses Ethel, Mae and Jessie Jackson, and Anna Gordon.

ORENCO FAIR

The second annual School Fair and Poultry Show held at Orenco was a great success, notwithstanding the stormy weather. Over 275 birds were shown in pens.

The vegetable display was not large as last year, owing to the lateness of the show, which made necessary so as to come to it with the poultry show, at the exhibit of poultry passed expectations. Almost every pen in the school had an exhibit of either White Orpington, White Rocks or Barred Rocks on eggs donated by Mr. McDonald. The pupils were allowed also to compete in the open classes against adults and took early every prize for which they had entries. In addition to the chickens there were many ducks, geese, turkeys and rabbits.

The domestic science exhibit attracted much attention. There were 50 entries in this department.

The Orenco Band furnished music, this being its first public appearance.

The awards for the poultry exhibit will be made next Friday at the school. Awards for the school gardens, vegetables and domestic science displays were made at the close of the exhibit.

The majority of the prizes awarded were books. Printed diplomas and ribbons were awarded also.

PYTHIAN SOCIAL

All members of the K. P. and Pythian Sister orders and their families are invited to attend the social meeting at the K. P. Hall, Friday night, Dec. 5. These meetings will be held on the first Friday night of each month during the winter.

Declaring that speculators by combining for the control of prices have made fortunes at the expense of the hop industry during the last 20 years, a meeting, attended by 76 representative hop men, was held at Salem a few days ago. Deciding that by an organization of their own the hop growers can regain and keep control of the market in the future, a committee was appointed to draft a comprehensive plan for a statewide union among the growers. According to the plan discussed, the union will maintain an information bureau with agents at London and New York to keep it advised as to market conditions and prices. It is estimated that through such organization at least $75,000 per year can be saved to the growers in the matter of supplies, which could be bought in wholesale quantities, and an additional $125,000 in commissions which have heretofore been paid to middlemen for disposing of the crop.

Confectionery store for sale, in one of the best towns in Oregon, close to Portland, will clear $150 per month; will sell at invoice price. Address Confectionery, Argus, Hillsboro, Ore. 35-7

The court did not hear argument or trial in the Hillsboro and Sherwood liquor cases, Monday, the date of hearing having been postponed until next Monday by agreement. Just what the outcome will be is only conjecture. Judge Galloway, of the district to the North, has held the Salem election invalid, and the case is being taken to the Supreme Court. If the court holds on this case with the lower court there will be nothing to the Hillsboro election.

For sale—9 head cows, graded Jerseys, all in milk, one fresh with calf at side, others to freshen from now on until Spring; new cream separator, milk cans, etc.—O. L. Graff, 1-4 mile north Reedville.

Gov. West has written all newspapers asking that they request their readers who are in need of labor to notify the office at Salem, with the following information: name and address; nearest station; number of men or women; character of work desired; wages offered; with or without board and lodging, and how long services may be required if work is satisfactory. Write in the above information and mail it to Gov. West, Salem, Oregon.

COUNCIL GRANTS LIQUOR LICENSES

W. V. Wiley and J. J. Krebs had Permission to Operate Saloons
ALL WILL RUN UNTIL JANUARY 1
Resolution to Deny, Presented to Council, Was Laid on Table

The council met Tuesday and a crowded chamber greeted them—for the matter of licenses to operate saloons, presented by W. V. Wiley and J. J. Krebs, was the bone of contention. Councilman M. H. Stevenson made a statement wherein he said that he would vote to grant the licenses in a sense of leniency to the applicants, as the other three saloons would operate until January 1, to say the least, and he felt that as the prohibition order would not take effect until that date it was only proper that Messrs. Krebs and Wiley should conduct their places on the same footing with the others. Each had paid $20 for six months, and if the courts decide that the election is valid all will close their doors Dec. 31.

Five voted to grant the licenses, while Councilman Targart voted no.

The election case will be heard next Monday, in circuit court, and it is expected that a decision will be handed down shortly after the close.

The Commercial Bank was awarded the $16,000 refunding bonds, at par and accrued interest, the only bid presented.

The usual grid of claims was paid.

The Portland, Eugene & Eastern were granted to Feb. 15 to start operations on their line through the city. General Manager Campbell wrote that he would doubtless be operating by January 15, but he wished to be safe on the franchise, and not be forced to again ask any extension.

TEWS FREUDENTHAL

A pretty home wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Freudenthal, of near Newton, Sunday, Nov. 30, 1913, when their daughter Mabel was united in marriage to Walter Tews, son of August Tews and wife, of this city. Rev. Luoke performed the ceremony, and Elsie Tews and Edw. Freudenthal officiated as bridesmaid and groomsmen. After the ceremony the big wedding party was seated to a splendid dinner. The groom has a position with the Hillsboro Mercantile, and the happy couple will reside at Fourth and Baseline.

Those present at the wedding were: Messrs. and Mesdames John Freudenthal, August Tews, E. Chas and Edw. Kraemer, Chas and Harry Erick, J. Asbahr, F. A. Chervenka, Fred Schoen, W. R. Tucker, W. Meier, C. R. Bradley, R. D. Denny, Paul Tews, Howard Baird, J. T. Shannon, Joe Dennis, Jos. Elliott, John Base, Carl Olson, Marion Black, Edna, Fred, Albert, Herman, and Rosa Kraemer, who played the wedding march, Wm and Harry Schoen, Daniel Emrick Jr., Band Louis Freudenthal, Herman, W and Sylvester Prah, Edna and Margaret Prah, Edw and Herman Freudenthal, Albert, Elsie and Agnes Tews, Carl Meier Jr., A. Siegrist, Lydia, Lola and Hattie Greener, J. S. Walter and Otto Steinke, Evelyn Parent, Herman Schoen, A. Meiers, Fred Sturm, Ed Demming, Mrs. F. Greener, Mrs. Susie Morgan, Chas Lang, Frank Greener, K. M. Robb, J. W. Connell, Roy Schulmerich, Miss Oda Schulmerich.

PLAY WAS SPLENDID SUCCESS

The play given by the Catholic Young People, at the Crescent, last Wednesday evening, was a success from the standpoints of rendition, attendance and financial status. Col. Bragg, played by Edward McLeer, had many things happen to him, and the part was nicely handled. Geo. Engeldinger, as a newspaper man, and Wm. Delsman, as the reporter, were very good; Arthur Miltenberger, the college chum of Delsman, who made up as Col. Bragg, was in his usual comedy form; a well known Catholic played the part of Aaron Cutter, to perfection. Francis Doher, as Dan, the colored servant, was excellent, and Mrs. A. Miltenberger, as Martha Murphy, always a favorite, did nicely. Miss Evelyn Doher, as Lillian Blight; Miss Frances Delsman, as Kitty Bragg, and Miss Elizabeth Delsman, as Mrs. Susanna Bird, the widow, were all very clever and entertaining in their parts.

The play was well received by all, and the young people netted over $100 for their church.

Barney Lewis, the clever charcoal artist, and Rupert Wahner, an excellent slack wire performer, gave exhibitions of their skill between acts.

About 20 tons of No. 1 second crop loose clover hay, in barn, for sale. Will sell at price that will pay for your hauling.—Ladd & Reed Farm Co., Reedville, Ore. 37-9
