Host Raised So Few Things Called Wasn't Sure About the Baby.

FRIEND of mine moved out into the country last year." writes a correspondent, "and after that he bored the life out of us by boasting about his 'country place.' He told how he raised all his own vegetables and animals and everything like that and was no longer dependent on the city for anything, and at last we went out to visit him.

"At dinner I said: 'This is excellent roast pork. Raise your own pigs? "'Yes," he faltered, 'but as it hap pens, this is not our own pork. The tigs weren't ready to kill yet-we started so late and I had to send to rown for this." "It was the same with every one of the vegetables. They hadn't got there in time to start a garden or a hot louise or cold frames or to see to the old orchard. Everything we had was from town, but next year it would be different. It get positively embarrass hig after awhile.

But after dinner my wife cleverly Lelped out the situation. Our host's little baby was brought in by the nurse for inspection. And after we had admired the kid sufficiently my

A LOCAL INVENTION

W. I. Raymond, a well known farmer of the Dairy Creek Section, has invented a new Copher Brap and it is said to be one of the best on the market. The new trap is being manufactured at Forest Grove by W. I. and Garfield Raymond and Portland wholesalers are putting it on the market. The trap is made so that the catching prongs will fit any copher hole, There are already a number of them in use in Mr. Raymond's section, and they are more than giving satisfaction.
