President Wilson has signed the Alaskan railway bill, and the government will soon have construction under way. The road will open Alaska's interior to development, and give rapid and cheaper freights, and make business with the North a pleasure to the Pacific Coast states. Portland is already giving the Alaskan trade attention, and their Commercial Organizations are passing commendatory resolutions for the part that Senator Chamberlain had in championing the measure.

The next time you meet Alice pretend to be thinking about something else and don't see her."

"That will make matters worse."

"Very well; if you won't take the medicine I prescribe, go your own road."

I concluded to try Beth's prescription. The next time I saw Alice I pretended to be absorbed in something else, and just before we were to come together I turned off in another

George W. Howell, of Banks, this morning pleaded guilty to the charge of extorting $125 from Chas. Lippert. Judge Campbell sentenced him to three months in the county jail, but gave him a parole during good behavior. The case was ready to proceed to trial, when the plea was entered. It appeared from the argument of counsel, in asking for leniency that Howell had arrived home one evening and found Lippert in the house, talking with his wife. He accused Lippert of coming to see Mrs. Howell, and with the persuasion of a gun scared Lippert into paying $125. Counsel for the state said he was ready to prove by medical testimony that Lippert had not invaded the sanctity of the home, and Dr. F. A. Bailey was ready to testify that such was the case. The court, however, said he granted the parole because he thought Howell was honest in his belief that Lippert was guilty of wrong-doing, although mistaken. The case would have been salacious, and it ended much better by the plea of guilty being entered.

Mrs. Wheeler, residing on Eighth, between Fir and R. R., celebrated her 67th birthday on Friday, Feb. 20, by inviting in a few neighbors and a few of the W. R. C. Guarded Statement.

"There's something very simple andarming and direct about the American girl," said Bishop Blougram at a dinner in Seattle.

"Once, in the far west, I married a pretty American girl to a cowboy."

"Do you take this man for better or worse?" I asked her.

"She shrunk her supple shoulders.

"I can't tell till I've had him while," she said. "Exchange."

Individualism.

The sunflower turns toward.

As every poet knows.

But doctors think of fevers.

And farmers think of heat.

The tropic leaves tobacco.

Some cases recover from.

Others think of Raleigh.

And kids of cigarettes.

The mustard plant for salads.

Has charms that never wear.

Yet some folks think of smartness.

And some of beds of pain.

The cabbage, green and bushy.

In beds, or sown in beds.

Hints return to the chemists;

To seeds, cabbage heads.

Bo thought association.

Affects the landscape's tone.

We set it all in common.

Yet make it each its own.

and doesn't run when he sees her coming now." —Chicago Tribune.

"What do you mean by my sister running me?"

"I'm not supposed to tell, but I must no promise. Beth has told me all about her."

"About what?"

"About your new fancy. Mr. Ignorance, or, rather, her fancy. Any one can see that she is trying to bring it about herself, and with such a piffling."
