The Lovegran Lumber Co., of Forest Grove, linve filed an an-swer to B. N. Nordin's suit for $35,000 damages for being struck by a vine maple in their logging camp. The company says if Nordin was injured it was not at all through their negligence, but on account of his own carelessness or the negligence of his fellow servants. The lumber company asks that the case therefore be dismissed. Nordin claims he is permanently injured, and has suffered a partial paralysis as a result of his accident.
