THE SYNOPSIS OF PLAY "HELLO BILL"

To be Staged at Crescent Theatre, Friday Evening, June 26

PLAY IS SURE-FIRE LAUGH PRODUCER

Introducing Bill Fuller and Coterie of Friends. Many Complications

Following is a synopsis of the three-act comedy-drama, "Hello Bill."

Play opens at 11:15 a. m. Bill has just been released on his own recognizance, after having been caught in a gambling raid the night before and must answer trial at 2:00 p. m. In the meantime he is supposed to be married to Mrs. Isabella Dare at 12 noon. Bill attempts to get the judge to let him off with a fine, but as the judge has the reputation of giving the limit there seems little chance of that. Bill and his friends get busy and try to persuade him. He sends Cutting, his professional fixer, to fix things with the judge. Cutting tells too much, and the judge issued a bench warrant for him to be arrested immediately. Bill tries to get the wedding postponed. Mrs. Dare will not listen to a postponement. The ceremony is performed. Bill thinks he has to go to jail and looks for an excuse to his wife for his absence. Cutting finds in the paper where a William Fuller has been appointed Colonel in the army and persuades Bill to tell his wife and friends that it is he, and he has been ordered at once to the front.

Three months elapse and Bill comes back from the war. Is received as a hero. A reception is planned, and Bill is up against it. His friends wish to hear of his experiences. Bill gets away with his stories which are very interesting.

The real general and his wife appear on the scene. The wives of the Fullers think their husbands are impostors. Mrs. Wm. Fuller thinks Gen. Fuller is her former husband, whom she thought was dead.

Space will not permit of more detail, but this is not a commencement of what happens in "Hello Bill." This farce is said by competent authority to be as good, if not better than "Are You a Mason?" and "What Happened to Jones," which are well known successes.

Produced by Ben Hur Dramatic Club.

Best slabwood in the market—get prices for Fall or Summer delivery. See me first. All kinds of wood.—H. D. Schmeltzer.

C. Olsen, the Timber logger, was in the city the last of the week.

Capt. A. E. Cooper, of the Oregon National Guard, Third Infantry, was out in Hillsboro, Friday, and conveyed the stolen army property to Portland. Capt. Cooper says that Michael Schuch, the private who stole the property from the Portland armory, is under arrest by the Federal authorities. It appears that several were interested in the larceny of the National Guard property, and the losses have been very heavy. Schuch was found near Salem, and was taken into custody late last week. Jas. Lee Sr. was arrested Saturday, and taken to Portland by the United States Marshal, and he will answer to the Federal grand jury. Schuch is out on his own recognizance. The case is attracting considerable interest, as does any matter where Uncle Sam steps in.

For sale—Having quit teaming I will sell the following: Brown gelding, 8 years, 1900; team black horse, 7 years, 1890 and bay mare, 8 years, 1890; 31 inch Cooper wagon, almost as good as new. This is a part of the four-horse team used by me in hauling between Reedville and Scholla the past three years. Lester Campbell, Scholla, Oregon.

E. W. Dant was up from Reedville, Saturday. Mr. Dant has been looking over crop prospects and says that everything looks fine for a good harvest this year. He has threshed 41 seasons, and is ready to make his 42nd campaign with a separator—unless he can find some responsible party who wants to buy his outfit so he can rest. E. W. says that he would rather give some party a good deal on the thrasher and engine—a deal good enough to let the machine pay for itself than to make another round of threshing and chicken eating this harvest.

Ladies are requested to call at the Paris Millinery Store before they buy their Spring hats, as the prices are right. Good hats from $3 to $5.—Mrs. M. L. Berdan, Second Street, near Washington, Hillsboro.

Dr. Coffee, the Portland surgeon, was in the city this week, and he was about one of the most disgruntled professional men in the state. He was summoned here on the Naylor case, and earned his three dollars per day. As his profession earns big fees, and he was unable to keep his appointments his visit here was not a financial success. Dr. Coffee waited on Ed Naylor when he was shot by Longgan, the Yambiller who killed himself after the shooting.

F. J. Williams, east of town, has a large force of pickers in his Loganberries this week. Mr. Williams is doing his own canning this season, and, besides, is putting up nearly two thousand quarts of Loganberry juice. He says that he is satisfied that growers must do this until the market is large enough so that canneries or presses will supply plants. Williams says there is a big demand for the juice, unfermented, and the supply will be nowhere adequate to the demand.

W. L. Soehren and wife, of Dallas, accompanied by Mrs. D. P. Patterson, were in the city, Saturday, making the trip down in a machine. Mrs. Patterson and two daughters visited with Peter Boscow and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Soehren visited at the home of L. E. Wilkes.

M. N. Bonham, of near Scholla, was an Argus caller, Friday. His sister, Mrs. Frankie Brooks, and her daughter, Cora, of Hopkinton, Ill., and another sister, Mrs. E. J. Utt, of Hartline, Wash., were guests at the Bonham home, recently, and departed last week for Eastern Oregon.

Wool growers of Oregon sold their clips this year for over two millions of dollars, with better price than for years. The wool growers' organs have been very quiet lately as to the result of the last tariff bill.

Prunes are being contracted ahead at fancy prices, and this several months in advance of delivery. Washington county grows the best prunes in the Northwest, and this will mean some money.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Barber, who were over to Tillamook to the G. A. R. annual session, report a splendid time with a reception superior to any ever accorded the old veterans and their wives.

P. I. Lillegard and wife, of Laurel, were in town Saturday. P. I. is getting to be a master hand at running his new auto.

Greer's is the place to buy what dry goods you are going to need.

LITTLE ADELL SIMPSON SHOT AT BEAVERTON

Accidental Discharge of Rifle as Children Play Causes Fatality

CHILD WAS BUT THREE YEARS OLD

Mother was Enroute Home From Hood River to Surprise Family

A sad fatality took place at Beaverton, Friday evening, about 8 o'clock, when the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Simpson, of this city, was almost instantly killed at the home of her grandparents, the result of the accidental discharge of a high-power rifle. The little girl was in one room and her little baby brother was in an adjoining bedroom, playing. The gun was standing in a corner of the room, and in some manner it was discharged, the bullet going through the wall and crashing into the child's head.

Hazel Simpson, the fourteen-year-old aunt of the little child, Saturday admitted that she was the cause of the accident. She says she was in the bedroom, and that she noticed the gun— took it up, examined it, and then posed in front of the mirror. She says she does not know just how the thing happened, but she did not think it was loaded. Snapping the trigger she was horrified to hear the report and the child fall in the next room. She was so frantic that at first she did not tell that she was the innocent cause of the death. The ball went through the wall, cut out a piece of the child's skull, dipped into the brain, and then turned obliquely, and lodged in the wall. Miss Hazel is grief-stricken over the unfortunate circumstance.

Mrs. Simpson, the mother, had been to Hood River, and the children were at the grandparents during her absence. Mrs. Simpson started from Hood River the same afternoon, and passed through Beaverton shortly after the fatality, but knew nothing of it until she reached Hillsboro, when she was immediately taken to Beaverton in an auto.

The death is one of those sad circumstances that call for a great sympathy, and the grief-stricken parents are nearly frantic over the affair.

The funeral took place Sunday, and interment was at Buxton, where the family formerly resided.

Link Hill was down from Gaston, Sunday, coming in to see the Hillsboros beat the Randall All-Stars.

Forest Grove is doing some paving again this year. One can but admire the pluck of the doughty little city to the west of us.

Jos. Cawrse was in from North Tualatin Plains, Saturday. He reports heavy hail falling out his way Saturday morning, and enough rain to stop hay harvest.

A. V. Brown, of Forest Grove, was down to the city Monday. Brown probably knows more crooks and crannies in the Coast Range of mountains between here and Tillamook than any other man in the county.

Ward Downs came from The Dalles, the last of the week, for a short visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Downs. He is now engaged in experting the books for The Dalles City government.

T. G. Elliott, of Walla Walla, was down to Hillsboro, Monday, looking after some business connected with his property on Wapato Lake, where he has been heavily interested for several years.

Contractors Lorusg & Sons finished a big barn for J. Cruikshank, of near Laurel, last week, and also completed the Scholla bridge approach, this week, and started for the Tualatin country, yesterday, to put in a bridge and fill.

P. E. Arlett and wife, of Portland, where Mr. Arlett manages the business of the California Ink Co., were in the city Monday morning. They are on an auto tour of the Willamette Valley, and expect to go as far south as Ashland, and make the trip inside of a week or ten days. Mr. Arlett had the usual bouquet for the crop conditions of Washington county.

J. Louis MacEvoy and his estimable wife, Angela May, have just made a hit with "Broadway," a song of local color for the Broadway of the Rose City, and the words and music are highly expressive of the grill life of the city on the Willamette. Mr. MacEvoy is the author and Mrs. MacEvoy wrote the measure. It has a swing and lilt to it that has pleased the ear of many a diner in Portland's Bohemia.

Mary Gertenschlager has sued John H. Gertenschlager for divorce, alleging that he deserted her last fall. She says she threw an open pocket knife at her; threatened her with an ax and told her for "d—d little he would throw it clear through her," called her a "sow" and other uncomplimentary names—and naturally she wants her freedom. There are four children, ranging from 12 to 4 years, and the eldest, a boy of 12, is with the father. She asks for the custody of the three smaller ones. They live down near Aloha, below Reedville.

HILLSBORO GIVES VISITORS BAD DEFEAT

MCCURDY GETS FOUR HITS, TIMES UP

Much Touted Aggregation Falls Before Prowess of Home Team

The much touted aggregation of ball players, the Randall All-Stars, came out from Portland with hopes high and returned in the evening, after a seance with the locals, crestfallen, and beaten by a score of 15 to 3. The first three innings the All Stars scored one in each, and until the third Hillsboro appeared to be powerless before the visiting mountaineer. In the third, however, Hillsboro commenced to hit, and everybody up took a crack at the sphere, resulting in five runs before the inning closed. McCurdy batted like a demon, and was given four safeties in five times up. Buck Freeman and Ed Henderson each walloped out three, the one by Freeman smashing the fence, and causing a Portland player to turn an ankle in attempting to field it. The locals feel pretty good over the result, for the All Stars have won every prior game this year. The box score tells the story.
