The people of Oregon will be foolish if they do not kill off the school graft within the next year. Oregon is suffering from too much taxation. It no sooner killed the millage bill at the polls than the legislature passed a law "rubbing it in" and giving the fat of the land to the institutions.

Candidate Booth, running for the United States Senate, is one of the old-time assembly men, believing with the rest of the standpatters that a convention is better as an agency to select officials than the people themselves. The people of Oregon are in line to let Mr. Booth keep on believing this. When a man feels like he can't trust the people, the people are likely to show him that they are not likely to trust him. This is one big reason why Senator Chamberlain will defeat the millionaire lumberman.

FREDERICK HANSEN

Frederick Hansen died Sunday, Aug. 23, 1914, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Paul Stalder, of Cedar Mill, with whom he had been making his home for seven years. He was born in Denmark, October 7, 1834, and emigrated to America when 36 years old, settling in Iowa, where, in 1896 his wife died. He came to Oregon in 1900, settling first near Reedville, and has lived in this county since, with the exception of a year and a half of residence in Portland. He leaves two sisters in Iowa, one in Minnesota, three daughters, three sons and 17 grandchildren. The children: Mrs. Paul Stalder, Cedar Mill; Mrs. F. E. Adams, Harrisburg, Ore.; Miss Alma Hansen, Chas., Wm. and Rudy Hansen, all of Portland. The funeral services were held from the Bethany German Baptist Church, Rev. Graf conducting the services. Interment was in the Union cemetery.

Henry Swanson Jr. departed for Santa Cruz, Monday, to arrange for the burial of his brother, who was killed last Sunday.

Beaverton has filed a petition for a local option election with 57 signatures. Looks like Beaverton will have two votes on the liquor question.

SHERIFF'S SALE ON FORECLOSURE. IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE STATE OF OREGON FOR WASHINGTON COUNTY.

C. W. Redmond, Plaintiff, vs. Mary A. Lane and Wm. A. Gerriek, Defendants. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN,

John Swanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Swanson, was instantly killed in an auto accident, at Santa Cruz, Cal., Sunday. He was aged 24 years and was born on a farm near Forest Grove. Three years ago he went to California, and studied mechanical engineering, and was running a plant at Santa Cruz when he met death. Fifteen months ago he was married to a Miss Gearhart, of Pennsylvania. His father and mother and the following brothers and sisters survive: Elizabeth, Forest Grove; Henry, Portland; Edith and Edgar, Forest Grove.

SURPRISE

A surprise was tendered Mrs. F. S. Smith, at the family home in South Tualatin, on the evening of Aug. 24, the occasion being Mrs. Smith's 49th birth anniversary. Those present were: Messrs. and Mrs. J. E. West, M. B. Hoard, R. Hoard, A. O. Johnson; Mesdames B. P. Rosencran, F. Miller, John Strain; Misses Lillian and Marie Rosencran, Jennie, Mildred, Ethel Johnson, Priscilla Smith; Messrs. John and Fay Rosencran, Fred and Louis Miller, Richard Hoard, Virgil and Marian Johnson and Lester McClarkin.

At a late hour ice cream and cake were served, after which Miss Smith sang several beautiful solos. The assembly departed wishing Mrs. Smith many more happy birthdays.

THE ANTIQUE—UP TO DATE.

She gazed at the antique clock on the stair. 'Twas a relic of dark wood and brass, A costly timepiece, a treasure rare, But lately purchased and placed up there, 'A quaint old gem!' she said. 'Did you stand in some old man's hall, Where the twilight flickered and on polished floor and on carved wall, Where fell the shadows of antique wall And straightly stiff' she said. 'Did you look, perchance, in a window maid— A costly antique, a treasure rare, In a tortoise shell clock and a gay brocade With a very short waist?' she said. 'Did you see her lover, a lonely strain, A-bending his stately head, To touch her lips and to laugh again, Till her fair cheek warmed with a crimson stain? Oh, quaint old gem!' she said. 'Ah, the wondrous pictures seen by you In the days so long since fled! But the tall old clock (perhaps a gem to view, 'I wonder what she would say if she knew I was made last week!' it said.—London Globe.

Cliffed.

'The farmer had electric lights in his house.' 'That so?' 'Yes, and a bathroom with a porcelain tub.' 'Indeed?' 'And telephone and an automobile.' 'Well, I declare.' 'If they keep on improving things in the country soon there'll be no place for us city folks to go to when we're tired.'—Detroit Free Press.

Not an Even Break.

Rex and Tommy had been inattentive the whole morning, and the teacher said that each must write his name 200 times as a punishment. Presently when the rest of the class had gone home Tommy was found crying bitterly. 'It's not fair,' he sobbed. 'Rex has only got to write Rex Dun 200 times, but my name's Thomas O'Shaughnessy.'—Dundee Advertiser.

Probably.

'Why does that fellow look so plump and grumpy all the time?' 'I fancy it is because he keeps so many men's things stuck in his pockets.'—Kansas City Journal.

Checked.

'Does your husband ever gamble?' 'No,' replied young Mrs. Brown. 'Sometimes I wish he would gamble a little instead of writing his name so many times that his neck is sore.'—Washington Star.

Big Game.

Friend Trent hit me. Angler Bite away! Why they were absolutely vicious. I had to hide behind a tree to bait my hook.—London Opinion.

THE GREAT DETECTIVE.

He Scores a Triumph Over the Tango Tea Husband.

'SIR,' said the great detective, 'you may as well confess. I always find out everything I go after. If deduction won't work, I use force.' 'But confound it, I tell you,' spluttered the banker, mopping his perspiring brow. 'I say I have nothing to confess! I have been at my desk every afternoon for the past three months, and I can prove it.' 'Well, why don't you prove it?' demanded the great detective. 'Because, no matter how hard the wind blows, she is still his mother,' retorted the banker sarcastically. 'Is that a species of the capricious bunkyard on your wrist?' cried the great detective suddenly. 'Where?' said the banker, and hung up his wrist. Quick as a flash of buttered lightning the great detective seized it, stabbed it sharply with a small stiletto which he had concealed in his hand, and as quickly whipped off his hat to catch the resultant six drops of blood.

In the silence of his laboratory that night he examined them. 'Tangle-ace! Just full of it,' he exulted. 'He could never get himself in that condition without attending tango tea every afternoon for months! Now to identify the brand of tea by the acid, thus locate the hotel that uses it, and in that way discover the woman—and presto, his wife gets her divorce and I get a $10,000 fee—hoop!—San Francisco Chronicle.

REMINGTON-UMC REPEATING SHOTGUNS. What is your preference in a repeating shotgun—hand-operated or auto-loading? If hand-operated, you know the Remington-UMC Pump Gun. Everybody knows it. If auto-loading, then get your dealer to show you the Remington-UMC Auto-loading Shotgun—an arm that is performing in a way to show sportsmen that here at last is an auto-loading shotgun that works.

Remington-UMC Repeating and Auto-loading Shotguns are sold by dealers everywhere. Find the one who shows the Red Ball Mark of Remington-UMC—the sign of Sportsmen's Headquarters. He's the man.
