LOUIS PATNOE SUES WASHINGTON COUNTY

Wants Damages for Team Going Off Grade on Taylor Ferry Road

Team WAS DROWNED LAST JANUARY

Light Load of Hogs to Market When Outfit Went Down Bank

Patnoe has sued Washington County for $1780 damages for an accident that took place last January, on the Taylor Ferry road, on what is known on the map as the Dietz fill. Patnoe alleges that the fill is about 850 feet long, 5 or 6 feet high, with a road-top of from 8 to 10 feet. He says that the road was unsafe to travel when the water was up, and that the county knew it, but failed to warn public travel. He alleges that on Jan. 8—which is Gen. Jackson's day—he was driving north along the Dietz fill with a load of hogs for market. He drove his team on the fill, and found the water too high that his horses went off the embankment, drowning both of them. His harness was damaged $10; his hogs, which were dressed, were damaged $20; and he values his team at $500. He says on account of the experience his health has been injured in the sum of $1250.

Patnoe has retained O. B. Huston, a son of S. B. Huston, and the attorney is affiliated with C. L. Sweek in the conduct of the case.

The case was filed last Friday, and will come up at the October term of court.

This is the first big damage suit of its kind filed against the county for some time.

CHINA PHEASANT COMES TO MADISON'S BEDROOM

Perches on Bedpost Morning Law Opens, and Meets His Fate

WINDOW CLOSED AND MADE CAPTIVE

First Bird of Season Does not Wait for Hunter to go in Quest

F. R. Madison, who lives near the city park, was surprised man on the morning of October 1—the morning that the season opened for killing Chinese pheasants. Madison had been dreaming of shooting the bird that is so much sought for, and about daylight he awakened. To his astonishment he discovered a young Chinese rooster perched on the foot of his bed. Madison carefully left the bed and shut down the open window, and he and the bird had it all hands around. He soon captured the intruder, however, and had him ready for the frying pan. It is thought that the pheasant had been shot at by hunters, and that in the gray of the morning he sought shelter in the bedroom to get away from his pursuers. Madison is a man of veracity, and his word is unquestioned—as a matter of fact he would resent any doubt as to his statement. This is the first instance reported where a bird sought a house as a place of refuge—and it proved to be his doom.

MRS. NATHAN NOLAND

Mrs. Nathan Noland passed away at the family home in Cornelius, October 2, 1914, after an extended illness. Her maiden name was Melissa Jane Dawson, and she was born in Yamhill County, June 20, 1849. Her parents were Mr. and Mrs. John Dawson, who at one time resided near the Ira Purdin place, north of Forest Grove. She was united in marriage to Mr. Noland a well known pioneer and they have made their home at Cornelius practically all of their married life. Her husband and the following children survive: Mrs. Alice Barry, Portland; Mrs. Emma Sirard, Portland; J. S. Noland, Portland; Mrs. W. M. Merrill, Cornelius. Claud C. Noland, at home.

The funeral took place Sunday, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

E. A. JACKSON

E. A. Jackson, well known here in the fifties, died at his home at Philomath, Sept. 30, 1914, from heart failure, and his funeral took place Friday of last week. He was born in Missouri, and was aged 70 years. Coming to Oregon in 1852 he settled at Hillsboro. He was an Indian War veteran, and was in the service with Alonzo Sigler, a step-brother. His widow, who came from Lane County, survives, and of his immediate family he leaves two half-brothers and one half-sister, all of Hillsboro—James Sigler, Mrs. Wm. Tupper and Geo. Sigler.

VANDERZANDEN-VANDHEY

Martin J. Vanderzanden and Miss Theodora Vandhey were united in marriage, September 30, 1914, at the church of the Visitation, Verboort, Father L. A. LeMiller, officiating. Both are popular young people of their community.

For Sale: Span mules, weight about 1800, 4 and 5 years old. Also set double harness, in good condition.—Gus Reichow, Cornelius, Route 1. 27-9

John E. McParland has been appointed postmaster at Garden Home, and Albert Porter will get his commission as postmaster at Gaston.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Miller, of the Arcade district, were Hillsboro visitors, the first of the week.

John Wismer, of near Cedar Mill, was in the county seat Monday, on business at the court house.

Daniel Roe and Arthur Bacon were down from above Mountindale, Monday, and while here visited at the clerk's office.

The Women of Woodcraft will give a dance at W. O. W. Hall, one mile west of Cedar Mill, Saturday evening, Oct. 10. Tickets, 75 cents. Dancing from 8 until midnight. Everybody invited.

A Hillsboro hunter was out Saturday and shot a bird in one field, and the pheasant fell over in another farm. The farmer on whose land the bird fell appropriated the kill, much to the chagrin of the hunter.

W. E. Hays, of St. Johns, formerly of this city, came out yesterday, and was greeting friends. He is nursing a fractured leg, caused by turning over a wagon-load of wood a couple of months ago.

From Jan. 1 to Oct. 1, the associated banks of Washington County have paid to Treasurer E. B. Sappington the sum of $3757.11 in interest on county funds. This will go into the county general fund, and is enough to operate the treasurer's office the year around, so far as help is concerned.

Mrs. Margaret Pool, aged 51 years, was ordered committed to the State Hospital at Salem, Monday, Dr. Leon Hyde making the examination for sanity. She has been brooding over losing her means of support, and her mental affliction is partially hereditary, as her mother before her was insane. She has been residing at Forest Grove.

Washington Grange No. 313, of the Arcade district, beyond North Plains, will hold its annual fair on the first Saturday in November. The county Pomoos Grange will meet with the Washington Grange on the fourth week of this month. The Grange recently passed a resolution against the proposed eight-hour law, to be voted on at the November election. Every farmer appears to be against this measure, and it will suffer an overwhelming defeat in the rural counties.

BOARD ADJUSTING PROPERTY VALUES

Valuations Will be Raised Here and There and Lowered in Places

OVER 200 HEARD THE PAST WEEK

More Attended Than Ever Before in the History of the Board

The Washington County Equalization Board has heard more people relative to fixing of values than at any prior year in the history of the county. Over 200 were cited to appear and show cause why values on tillable land should not be raised, the most of these hailing from the Bethany-Cedar Mill section. Last Saturday several were out from Portland to look after values on their farms in the east end of the county, and just what the board will do is conjecture. It appears, however, that the assessments will be raised in instances, and lowered in others, so that, when all is said and done, the valuation will not be materially changed.

On account of heavy taxation there is a general opposition to raising values, but the board stands for an equitable assessment, and will use their best judgment to get them as nearly right as possible. So long as this is obtained it will make no difference in tax. Lower valuations mean a higher millage of tax, while higher values mean a lower millage rate. The Equalization Board has been busy several days attempting to get all the evidence possible so as to get values adjusted with satisfaction.
