FORMER TOWNSPEOPLE HAVE 20TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Schulmerich Entertain Friends at Creswell

WEEK-END PARTY HAVE JOLLY TIME

Number of Hillsboro People Make Trip to Creswell Party

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Schulmerich, well known in Hillsboro, entertained a number of their friends and relatives at a week-end party at their home in Creswell, Oregon, in celebration of their twentieth wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Schulmerich were united in marriage in Washington County, Sept. 30, 1894, and during their residence here, which dated from their marriage until a few years ago, they made many friends. Mr. Schulmerich was in the general merchandise business for years, in charge of the Schulmerich store, and when he sold out the business, he entered the Commercial Bank as cashier. Later he severed his connection with the bank and became interested in farm lands a few miles out of Creswell. He now has a handsome home in the city of Creswell, where they entertained their friends the last of the week.

Mrs. Schulmerich is a daughter of J. Wilkes, and a sister of the well known Wilkes Brothers. The guest list: Herman Schulmerich, Yoncalla; Messrs. and Mesdames Ed. Schulmerich, J. B. Wilkes, Thos. Bilyeu, D. B. Burkhalter, George Biersdorf, W. N. Barrett, Wm. Nelson; Miss Elinor Wilkes, Mrs. O. G. Wilkes and daughter, Lois, Delbert Biersdorf, Mrs. E. C. McKinney, all of Hillsboro and vicinity.

The celebration was projected when Mr. and Mrs. Schulmerich visited here last Winter, and it was at first contemplated to make the trip overland, by auto. The bad weather, however, vetoed this, and the party went by train, with the exception of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wilkes, who made the trip by machine.

Invited guests who were unable to attend sent their best wishes to the worthy bride and groom of 20 years.

Fred Davidson, Forest Grove, suffered an accident while coming home from the State Fair, one night last week. He was on a motorcycle, and was in advance of two companions, Roy Vogel and Harry Hamilton. His wheel swerved and threw him, and when the boys came along a short time later they found the machine, but no Davidson. He had been stunned and had crawled off in a ditch, where he was discovered a few minutes later. One of the boys took him back to McMinnville, and had him conveyed to Forest Grove in an auto. He is recovering nicely and feels none the worse for his accident.

W. L. Moore has been reappointed postmaster at Banks, this being his fifth appointment. He was formerly official at Greenville and when the office moved to Banks he was retained. President Harrison gave him his first appointment, Cleveland reappointed, and then in turn Roosevelt and Taft signed up the credentials. President Wilson signed up the commission last week, and when the bond gets to Washington and is approved, Moore will again be officio. He has served since 1891—a record that is a worthy one.

J. L. Jones, a wandering traveler and laborer, was arrested the first of the week, charged with entering the house of Chas. Lippert and stealing a breech-loading shotgun and two saaten shirts. Jones was lodged in jail to await his hearing. He formerly resided in the Nehalem section, and his parents are living down Salem way. Jones does not look as though he is overly bright. The prisoner came to Hillsboro Monday morning, and was stopped by John Lippert, father of Charles, who telephoned him of the robbery and who was suspicious.

Robt. McKnight, the hopman of Meek Plains, has a porker that knows a good thing when he sees it. A few Sundays ago his porcine majesty was in the orchard, when a gale blew a pillow from the colthesline. The fellow calmly appropriated the pillow and laid down with his head on not unlike a man. When he had his nap out he picked up the cushion and carried it to his shed, where he was found that evening, using it for a headrest. Evidently he is not the only porker who knows a good thing when he sees it—and without the need of higher education.

Louis Wallant, a youth residing near Tualatin, was arrested the first of the week charged with defrauding a hotel keeper, Mrs. Wendell by name. The father of the boy appeared before Judge Smith and told him there was a misapprehension, as he thought he had told the proprietress that he would stand good for the board. Upon the father paying $30 of the claim, and paying the costs of the action, and agreeing to pay the remaining board charge, the young man was allowed his freedom.

That measure for an eight hour day for all classes of labor is being shot all to pieces by the farmers of Washington County. Expressions from hundreds uncovers the fact that not one out of a hundred will vote for it. They are absolutely right. If the factory or mill people want the eight-hour law let them get it passed—but for the farmer it would be a drag unmentionable. Even the women will vote against it—for they know the futility of an eight hour law on the farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Guild, of Vale, were here Tuesday and Wednesday, guests of W. N. Barrett and wife. Henry has the same old congenial way with him, and says he will be glad when he is through as Receiver of public moneys at the Vale Land office. He and Mrs. Guild will move to Corvallis, for residence, after leaving Vale, and as their son is there, as well as a brother of Mrs. Guild, they will have a little home colony of their own.

Bert Baker, deliveryman for the Chisholm grocery, of Orenco, went out hunting with Albert Keehn, Sunday, taking one of the delivery horses. When near Elmonica a gun slipped and was discharged, the load taking effect in the horse's hip and back. The animal was taken home and the wound treated, and he will be able to be in harness in a month or so.

Wm. Schulmerich returned the last of the week from the Salem Fair, where he had his herd of registered Jerseys. He was awarded several prizes, receiving first, aged bull; third, aged bull; first on heifer calf; third on yearling heifer and on bull calf. Mr. Schulmerich could have found ready sale for the head of his herd.

Mrs. Nellie Ferguson and son, Winfield, motored over to Vancouver the last of the week, and returned Sunday accompanied by Mrs. Ferguson's sister, Miss Agnes Hill, who will make an extended visit. Mrs. John Verdun, another sister, is here from Seattle for a week's sojourn.
