The Argus wishes all a happy new year, and a prosperous one. Washington County is growing in wealth and production each year, and the end is not yet. Today it stands first in dairy production; first in standard schools, and first in a small death rate. We have just altitude described real property ted origing to prefer the property ted origins to discussion, as enough to get outside the malaris district, and just the height not to suffer from extreme cold. The Lord smiled when he fashioned the little basin in which the you to keep up the record. It is oregon, and more particularly described up to every one to make this a smiling year. Let us smile.

These factors are still trying to force war, but it is to be hoped that national sanity will prevail. By the end of the next year we should have a world peace-but

Tom early fell to with a fisherman named Wilkins Captain Wilkins be was called, as all men who sail their own bouts in that region are who took a fames to the youngster because they both loved the water. Wilkins usually went out after dark, set his nets and returned about surrise the next morning. Tom was so in love tain love Tom Both were awed by the selemn grandeur of the starry dome

"I danno. Reckon I do it as you git out of bed in the middle of the night and go downstairs for a drink of wa

One day when the two were sailing Casco bay and if he grew rich be would spend the whole of each sensor

"I won't be with you when you're running your own eacht. Tommy," said the captain. "but if you ever get in a bad fix I'll help you out." "What! After you're dead?"

"No one dies. We simply change conditions; we don't need legs and soats and such like." When the mackerel became so scarce that It didn't pay the captain to go out nights he and Toss would cruise about among the beautiful islands of the bay, fiving abound the bont. They had butterfish for breakfast cod or when at auchor in a cove, with the wavelets southing them to slumbet against the sides of the boat, they kept awake only because it was so delight

Well, the day came when Tom Sin gleton was able to keep a small yacht of his own and spend the greater part of the summer cruising in her. took her to Casco bay-be owned ed sailing to his heart's content.

But, though he know a great deal over, he didn't have Captale Wilkins to ely on, for the captain's old bulk was buried in the cemetery on the highest part of Orr's island, where one can see the ocean in many different parts. So Singleton was obliged to sail his own boat, confining himself to fair weather. But if the yachtsman could tell about what the weather would be be couldn't predict freedom from fog. The co of Maine is nearly as had for I the banks of Newfoundland e suddenly, and s long while voyage past Seguin came rolling in from the eastward and enveloped them. Singleton could steer only by compass, and what is compass steering on the coast of Maine; The fog was heavy and promised to be of long duration.

Tom heard a swish of waters to port. He knew the sound and steered just in time to avoid one of the big submerged rocks of that part of the bay, The party passed a couple of hours in terror; then it began to grow dark.

The women and children were most ly in the cabin or on the forward deck. Tom had the tiller. He began to feel a resistance when he turned it, and, this continuing, he yielded to the force He heard waters surging to port and starboard, but seemed to pass, by some unseen seamanship, between or around all dangers. He let go the tiller, and it moved not by the waves, but apparently by the unseen force.

What was Tom's astonishment at last to find himself in the parrow crooked gut between Orr's and Batley's islands and going through safely! When he got out into the sound the fog suddenly vanished and he was enabled to steer for the dock.

No one can convince Tom Singleton that a spirit band was not on the tiller during that perilous voyage. And he remembers Captain Wilkins' words: "If you ever get in a bad fix I'll help
