The Portland Journal strikes the keynote to the Sierks' confession fiasco when it says that the defense of Pender can get all kinds of chances in the courts

if new evidence has been discovered that tends conclusively show that Pender is innocent of the murder of Mrs. Wehrman and child. As a matter of fact the Supreme Court would grant a writ of habeas corpus upon presentation—but it appears that Bre'r Thatcher would rather take his chances with the newspapers

The tax counter at the court house will come into its own this week. While the general tax is lower than last year, yet it will be high enough. The Argus takes off its hat to the man or woman who can pay taxes and still retain a smile.

Germany has commenced a campaign against British merchantmen, with the submarines, and three vessels were sunk last Saturday. If the Kaiser can keep this up England will run short of foodstuffs, as well as Germany.

Gee! The legislature will vote tomorrow on the prohibition bill—it has now been amended so a family can have shipped in 24 quarts of beer monthly, and 2 quarts of moonshine.

MRS. CAROLINE PURVES

Mrs. Caroline Johnston Purves, died at her apartments in the Bank Annex, Hillsboro, Jan. 31, 1915, after an extended illness. She was born in Ontario, Canada, Aug. 25, 1846. She was married to John Purves, at Redwing, Minnesota, in 1869, the family coming to Oregon nine years ago. Her husband passed away two years ago. Her surviving children are Robert T., of Seattle, Wn.; Chas. E., Springfield, Ore.; John A., San Francisco, Cal. Of her immediate family she leaves the following sister and brothers: Mrs. John Drew, of Redwing, Minn.; Chipman Johnston, Minneapolis, Minn., and Charles Johnston, Ellsworth, Wisconsin. Five grandchildren mourn her loss, one of whom is Miss Della Purves, an instructor in the Hillsboro High school. The others are Ruby, Nona, Margaret and Robert.

The funeral took place Tuesday.

BIG LUMBER DEAL

The Lovegren Lumber Co., of Cherry Grove, August Lovegren, incorporator, has sold out the holdings, mill, timber, and railway, to a syndicate represented by men from California, Canada and Pennsylvania. The deal is supposed to have been consummated some days ago, and the purchase price is said to be in the neighborhood of a little over a half million dollars. The representatives of the new company are now at Cherry Grove, and will take immediate possession. It is said that the new firm will extend the railway into the timber, and make many improvements. New blood in the Cherry Grove district will mean a great deal for that thriving point.
