We Want Everybody to Know

That we will, beginning at once, give Cash Register receipts with every cash sale, showing amount of sale, date and who made the sale. We will ask you to keep these receipts as we are going to give back to our cash customers one day's cash sales each month. We will select one day each month and will announce in our window on the 5th day of each month the date we have selected, and then all you will have to do is look over your Cash Register receipts from us and see if you have any bearing that date, if you have just bring them to us and we will refund your money. There is no trick to this proposition.

STATE FORESTER APPOINTS WARDENS

Names Number of Supervisors as Fire Officials for State
PERMITS FOR SLASHINGS ISSUED
 County Fire Warden Allen Rice Gives Out List of Appointees

People who have slashings to burn or are unfortunate enough to have forest fires break out will be interested in the list of fire wardens for this county. Heretofore it has been the custom for the County Judge to issue permits for the burning of slashings, etc., but oftentimes the judge is not familiar with the conditions, and County Judge Reasoner has deemed it expedient and better for all concerned to refer these matters to the local fire warden, and with a view to making the service as efficient as possible, the State Forester has appointed the road supervisors in the various road districts of the county as fire wardens where they were inclined to act in that capacity without pay, and through the courtesy of County Fire Warden Allen Rice, we are favored with the complete list for Washington County. Should any of our readers for any reason wish to consult a fire warden or get a permit for burning slashings they should consult Mr. Rice or their warden for their road district. The list is as follows:

- Allen Rice, county fire warden, Forest Grove, Fay Mead, federal patrolman, Banks; D. O. Zenor, state fire warden, Gates Creek; Walter Hayden, state fire warden, Banks; Wm. J. Weis, state fire warden, Banks; Ed. Lilly, private fire warden, Glenwood.
- Road supervisors that are fire wardens: Ernest Dethlefs, Gaston R. 4, Dist. No. 4; Jonas Moline, Beaverton R. 2, Dist. 7; Henry Hesse, Hillsboro R. 2, Dist. 8; Chas. O'Neil, Dilley (fire warden), Dist. 15; Nicholas Bothman, Banks R. 1, Dist. 16; John Friday, Banks R. 2, Dist. 17; H. L. Greig, Cornelius R. 2, Dist. 18; Harry Robinson, Beaverton R. 1, Dist. 22; H. W. Scott, Gaston R. 1, Dist. 23; J. H. Hoffman, Gaston R. 2, Dist. 24; A. Keenan, Banks R. 3 (fire warden), Dist. 27; R. E. Bateman, Forest Grove R. 1, Dist. 29; Carl Bejgreen, Hillsboro R. 3, Dist. 35; Grant Mann, Cornelius, Dist. 37; John Schmeitler, Sherwood R. 3, Dist. 45; Frank Williams, Hillsboro, Dist. 5; County Judge, Hillsboro, Dist. 5.

 E. B. Tongue, Attorney for Administratrix.

YOU know, all tobacco users know that men want a real tobacco chew.

Everywhere men are saying to their friends that the Real Tobacco Chew is the goods.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste.

Got Too Familiar.
 A story told of Justice Brewer concerns a trip he made to his old home in Kansas, accompanied by Mrs. Brewer. In Washington a justice of the supreme court is spoken of as "Mr. Justice," and that is the title Mrs. Brewer always has heard. When they reached Chicago, however, the "Mr." was dropped and the jurist was referred to as "Justice Brewer." At Omaha some old friends called him "David J.," and when they crossed the Kansas line some former neighbors referred to him as "David."
 "Let's go home," suggested Mrs. Brewer.
 "Why?" asked the justice.
 "Because, dear," Mrs. Brewer replied, "I am afraid if we go any farther they will be calling you 'David.'"

A Grand Climax.
 The following reminiscence is related by the well known composer, Isidore de Lara, writing of his opera "Messaline." One night the principal baritone fell ill, and the manager implored Mr. de Lara to take his place, as the theater was filled with people, and to disappoint them was out of the question. Mr. de Lara consented to do so but stipulated that he should not dress for the part. Accordingly he made his appearance on the stage in a frock coat, although all the other characters wore the costumes of ancient Rome.
 In the part he was playing Mr. de Lara had to be thrown to the ground by Messaline's slaves. The "slaves" flung him down so violently, however, that a quantity of money which he had in his pocket rolled all over the stage. It is possible that the audience might not have noticed this little piece of unheeded byplay had not the "slaves" become so excited at the sight of the coins that they left their captive and rushed to pick them up with the eagerness of gold miners who had struck a pile of nuggets.
 "This," says Mr. de Lara, "was the great bit of the evening."
The Oldest Joke.
 It will be difficult to discover an older practical joke than that of the coppersmith and the maker of brazen images for the temple of Osiris, which is embodied in Egyptian inscriptions dating from the reign of Menes, founder of Memphis, who ruled over 7,000 years ago. According to ancient records, there dwelt between these two craftsmen a quiet man whose desire was for peace and who was sadly disturbed by the noisy occupations carried on by his busy neighbors. He therefore asked each of them to say for what sum they would change their dwellings. This they did. Each calculated the amount required, and he, being satisfied, paid it over to them.
 "Now," he asked of the coppersmith, "where is your new dwelling?" "I have taken that of the maker of images," was the reply. "And you," queried the quiet man of the latter, "whither goest thou?" "To the house of the coppersmith."
 This is one of many tales told in all ages which are woven into myth and legend and differ only in local color.

Had an Easy Job
 Cy Warman, author of the song "Sweet Marie," was an official of the Grand Trunk railroad, but he was at ways modest about his post. Once he stopped overnight at a little hotel in northern Michigan, conducted by a man who had previously run a shooting gallery and later a night lunch car in New York. The host related his own life story at length. Then he became interested in the biography of the visitor. "What do you do in Montreal, Mr. Warman?" "I work for the Grand Trunk," said Warman. "What kind of a job have you got? Do you sell tickets or handle baggage?" "Oh, I've got a better job than either of those," said Cy. "You know the man who goes alongside the train and taps the wheels with a hammer to see that everything's all right? Well, I help him listen."
