Miss Alice Sewell returned last week from an extended visit at the San Francisco Exposition.

John Wunderlich, of Banks, was transacting business in town the first of the week.

Richard Wiley was out from Portland, Sunday, the guest of his father, W. V. Wiley.

J. H. Wescott, of Gaston, was a city caller the last of the week, greeting friends.

Editor A. E. Scott, of Forest Grove, was in town Monday afternoon, on business.

About thirty-five friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. Doohar surprised them at their home in this city, last Thursday night, the occasion being a farewell compliment. Refreshments, cards and dancing were the features of the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Doohar and daughter, Kathryn, and son, George, leave this week for White Pine, Minn., to join the boys who left here several weeks ago to work for a lumber company.

P. S. Anderson, formerly of Witch Hazel and now of Rogue River, in the Eagle Point section, where he owns a stock ranch with 200 acres of alfalfa, was in town Saturday, having just returned from his farm up in Alberta. He says the Alberta country has the largest crop in its history, and many have not threshed, yet, owing to the scarcity of labor, due to early enlistment in the European War. Anderson says that Canada suffered greatly in the loss of men in the first encounters, and two men who worked for him two years ago were among the killed.

Elijah's Altar

Obelisk hid "one hundred of the Lord's prophets in a cave." On the west end of Carmel, below the monastery, is a large cavern, partly artificial, where, to increase its sanctity, the holy family are said to have reposed on their return from Egypt. The "Place of Sacrifice" is some eight miles inland along the crest of the mountain, overlooking the Kishon, the whole plain of Esdrason, Jezreel and the mountains of Galilee. Many churches and nationalities, not to mention individuals, have searched the slopes of Carmel for the exact spot where Elijah "repaired the altar of the Lord," selecting twelve stones from the ruins of the neglected altar. At the urgent request of an English lady who thought of purchasing the site I once made a careful study of the location suggested. While we may never know the exact spot, there is a lovely little plateau not far from the summit which would fulfill every necessity of the narrative and provide a matchless natural theater for this matchless event in history.—Christian Herald.

Wonders of Naval Gunnery

The fire of a naval gun is directed from the fire control station, a small box on the masts. Here is the range finder, a large telescope pointed at right angles to its object. This telescope consists of a series of mirrors of various sizes and curves, which catch the light of the object, which can be seen by the eyes of the officer, who can set his lenses so that he can gauge the correct angle by a small calculation and can range almost the exact space separating him from his opponent. The information is telephoned to the gunner, who directs the telescopic sight attached to his gun on the desired object. This sight magnifies the size of the opponent and brings its characteristic close to the eye. In the meantime the expert officers in the fire control watch the fall of the shot. Should it miss delicate instruments tell how far the shell was of the target. The correction is made, and the second shot, if not on the spot, comes unpleasantly near.—Pearson's.

No Invulnerable Forts

It will continue to be physically possible no doubt to build a fort so strong that no shell could penetrate it, whether fired directly at high angles or to fall upon it vertically from the clouds. It would require merely to calculate the force of explosives and the resistance of steel and concrete and make the steel and concrete thick enough. But it may have ceased to be worth while. A fort would still be vulnerable from below ground. Its foundation could not be laid so deep that an enemy might not drive a tunnel under it, and then it would be necessary only to put enough high explosive there to blow the fort away. So perhaps in the future military strategy will adjust itself to the idea that fortifications cannot be permanent, wherefore they had better be even more impermanent, serving only as temporary bulwarks against an oncoming enemy.—New York Times.

No Cause For Worry

"It's sure enough strange how marriage changes some men," commented a Washington heights dweller to a friend who stood with him on a corner. "Now, see that chap entering my apartment house? He's been married only two weeks, and yet—say, do you see what he's carrying? Well, it's a garbage pail for their new flat. Why, if any one had told him three months ago that he'd carry a garbage pail through the street he'd have been ready to fight. I never saw such a—" "All right—all right," the friend interrupted. "Tell me about him next year." "Why?" "Because he'll be changed back again by that time. Don't worry about the case."—New York Globe.

All the Latest Improvements

There is a certain dear old lady who owns a little farm and takes a few boarders in summer.

Recently an anxious young mother who has been industriously delving into medical literature of late inquired of the old lady whether or not the milk that was served at her table was pasteurized.

"Of course" was the old lady's indignant reply. "Don't we keep all the cows we've got in the pasture all summer long?"—Youth's Companion.

Washing Velvet

White velvet and most colored ones, too, will wash beautifully. Just knead and squeeze quickly in a warm—not hot—lather, rinse in tepid, then cold water. Wring carefully and shake well. While still damp iron on the wrong side on a thick felt or blanket covered with a clean sheet.

Kept Happy

"Yes, we went to California." "Did your wife enjoy the scenery in her trip across the continent?" "I don't think she looked at much scenery. But she enjoyed herself, all right. She looked at hats in eleven different states."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Similar Result

"Hubby, if you had never met me would you have loved me?" "I don't know about that. But I suppose I would have been just as deeply in debt."—Kansas City Journal.

Ventilation

Changing of the air in a room once or twice a day is not sufficient. Ventilating a room while it is not occupied is not sufficient either. Two or three occupants of a closed room will vitiate the air in it in a few minutes. Ventilation should be most active while a room is occupied by people.
