

SUPERVISOR CLEARED BY JURY

Alternative Body out Two Hours and Returns a Verdict

ATTRACTED MUCH ATTENTION

Paroled Sims, Who Robbed Miller Mercantile Store, Scholls

The case of State versus J. E. Zimmerman closed Monday evening when the jury returned a verdict of not guilty. This was the first case where a supervisor hired by the name of T. F. Alderman to work on his farm, near North Plains, at so much per month, board, room and washing, and the keep of a cow, was put to work on the county lands, and collected the money.

The state's contention was that Alderman received but $15 per month and the perquisites mentioned that the supervisor was guilty of obtaining money under false pretences, and asked for conviction on this. The defense contended that there was no intent to defraud; that Zimmerman expected a profit when Alderman worked on the farm and was therefore not guilty of violation of law when he made a small profit on the road work, if a profit could be deducted. Men were scarce, teams were scarce, and the work must show intent to defraud. The defense alleged the county received full value for the expenditure, and while there might be a technicality in the way of acquittal, there was no intent to defraud and no one was defrauded. The jury evidently took this view of the case. Zimmerman is prominent in North Washington County, and has done well with all, with the exception of a few in his neighborhood who have, as expressed by Zimmerman, "had it in for him, and have tried to get him into trouble." The jury: W. E. Crosby, A. H. Thomas, G. A. Plith, W. Miller, Thos. Connell, Wm. H. H. Rainwater, Willis H. H. Rainwater, H. Metzger, W. J. Greer, Otto Wohler, R. H. Greer.

The case was strenuously conducted and the defense was handled by W. G. Hars, who made a most forcible argument to the jury in the closing.

F. J. Sims, who pleaded guilty to robbing the Miller Mercantile Store, at Scholls, was sentenced on three indictments, one to three years on each, and was given a Christmas parole. He was allowed to go to Wyoming, but must pay the costs of the grand jury indictment, the witnesses, and the circuit court expenses. He also must report to the sheriff every three months, and append to his report an endorsement from some Wyoming county official as to his work and his conduct—else his parole will be revoked.

The case of State versus Jack Kantor, charged with robbing the Mays Bros. Store, at North Plains, was set for Dec. 31.

MISS GRACE DEICHMAN

Miss Grace Deichman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Deichman, died at the family home, Tuesday afternoon, December 21, 1915, after an illness of several months. She was born near Laurel, March 16, 1891, and with her parents, came to Hillsboro when a child. With the exception of a year or so at Beaverton she has made this city her home. She was a graduate of the Hillsboro Schools, and also a graduate of the Behrke-Walker Business College, at Portland. For several years she has been an invaluable employee of the Wilkes Abstract Co., and for some time was connected with the Independent. Miss Deichman was a bright, industrious young woman, and had a host of friends who mourn her untimely death. She was a member of the Eastern Star.

Miss Deichman is survived by her parents, a sister, Miss Jennie Deichman, of Beilleville, Wash., and a brother, Chas. Deichman, at home. The funeral took place this afternoon from the M. E. Church, Rev. Myers conducting the services.

News for the economic housewife. Corn and tomatoes three cents for twenty-five cents, at the Hillsboro Mercantile Co.

Although meeting with much stronger competition than has been afforded by some of the shown of the year Mr. A. Chalmers of Forest Grove, Ore., won the premier championship for breeder in the Pacific International Livestock Show at North Portland. This speaks volumes for the ability of his long time breeder and for the history of his herd. The breeding of a herd to winning type and condition shows ability of no mean order. Mr. Chalmers also won second on aged bull, third on senior yearling bull, second on aged cow, second on two year old heifer, second on junior yearling heifer, second on aged herd, third on young herd, third on calf herd, third on get of sire, besides other prizes—Kural Spirit.

If you want a real Christmas present get a Karosafe lamp or lantern—the only 300 candle power coal oil burner on the market that does not have a wick. Drop a card for particulars or demonstration. For sale, only $6.50—W. F. Tews, Hillsboro.

Herman Schulmerich, who has been down in the Yoncalla country for several years, is home for the holidays. He will go back after the first of the year and straighten out things, and then turn over the conduct of the ranch to his son, Geo. J., and then return to Hillsboro to take a lengthy vacation. Herman says that deer were plentiful down that way this season, and he landed three fine bucks, one of which he shot within a few hundred yards of the ranch house.

For Sale: Three or four young cows, all in milk. Jersey strain, and all just fresh a short time. Good milkers.—Wm. M. Hughes, Hillsboro, Route 4. One and one-half miles south of Jobe's Crossing, Oak Park station. 39-41

Hot cakes for breakfast made with Schulmerich's buttermilk and spread with Schulmerich's famous creamery butter is the latest fad. For sale at Hillsboro Mercantile Co.

Hillsboro High School Basketball Team Wins—Hillsboro High's basketball team went to Banks last week and defeated the team of that place by a score of 52 to 17. The stars for Hillsboro were Taggart and Bentley, and for Banks Schulmerich was the stellar attraction. The individual scores were: Hillsboro—Taggart, 17; Bentley, 21; Mann, 6; Schiedt, 6; Barkhalter, 2. For Banks—Eastman, 2; Provost, 4; Schulmerich, 9; Ruthins, 2; and Carstens, 0.

"Young People's Retreat."—The young people of the M. E. Church will hold a series of meetings at the church, next week, beginning Sunday, Dec. 26, Monday, "Life and Task;" Tuesday, "Vision and Task;" Wednesday, "Power and Task;" Thursday, "Prayer and Task;" Friday, "Consecration and Task;" Sunday, New Year's sermon. Everybody invited.

Feed chopper at Bethany will run on Friday before Xmas and Friday before New Year, and then as usual, every Saturday. Anyone coming later than 2:30, please let us know by telephone. 39-41

The Knights of Columbus last evening presented the city library with sixteen volumes of a Catholic Encyclopedia, published under K. of C. auspices. The gift was made in conformity to the wishes of Father Mark W. Lappen, parish priest here for some time, and now in charge of a parish at Greeley, Col.

Mrs. I. D. Smith, of near Farmington, on Sherwood, Route 4, will take charge of maternity cases. Telephone 1515 Line 4. Scholls. 39-40

The tax levy will be made within a week or ten days, and it is safe to say that there will be a further reduction of the amount to be raised. Probably not a great deal, but some, anyway, if the court follows its usual custom.

ROBBER WAS SHOT
3 TIMES BY AGENT

Multnomah Scene of Shooting Early Tuesday Morning

DYING ROBBER KEEPS NAME SILENT

Said He Wanted to Protect His Aged Mother and Sisters

A robber burglarized the Garden Home Oregon Electric station, Monday night, and then went on to Multnomah, where he tried to hold up the night watch. The guard shot the intruder three times, one shot penetrating a lung. Although conscious he steadfastly refused to give his name.

J. D. Stewart, the agent, says: "It was about 3:50 o'clock in the morning when a rock was hurled through the window of the station, falling a few feet from where I was sitting. By the time I looked up the robber was staring through the broken window and pointing a big revolver at me.

"He ordered me to hold up my hands, but I fled. I ran out the door and across about 50 feet of ground to my house, where I called to Mrs. Stewart for my six shooter. When I returned to the broken window of the station the robber was just lifting the money till out and preparing to take the money. There was $9 in the till, but he didn't have time to get any of it, for he ran out the door just as I appeared and shot at him. I fired at him as he ran and when he was quite a distance away I fired again, shooting several times in all. It was so dark I couldn't tell whether he dropped at first, but when he was out of sight I telephoned the Sheriff at Portland, and Deputy Campbell on his way out found the holdup man lying in the road about a block and a half from the station.

"I had shot him three times, once through the body and twice in the arm."

The robber was taken to the Good Samaritan Hospital, where he made the following statement: "I've an old mother back home, also a sister and brother, who are prominent; why should I tell you who I am and disgrace them? They think I am dead anyhow. If I don't pull through this it will be all right; my name will go out with me.

"I am not afraid to die. I am not going to die. I want to say that this was my first job. I was hungry and could not get work, so planned the job to get a few dollars. I could have killed the station agent."

JOHN HERMAN HUNTEMAN
John Herman Huntman died at Cornelius, Dec. 16, 1915. He was born at Munderlo, Oldenburg, Germany, Oct. 27, 1840, and came to America in 1867. He first settled in St. Louis, where he worked for some months, and then went to the Montana mines. He went up the Missouri River to Ft. Benton, and from there to Helena. In 1869 he and Martin Sandberg, well known in the Cedar Mill section, started on foot through Montana and Idaho. They passed through the Couer d'Alene, and traveled through to the Dalles—a distance of over 800 miles. They came on through to Portland, then a town about 5,000. That Fall Mr. Huntman worked on the B. P. Reynolds place on Columbia Slough. He remained there seven years, and saved sufficient money to return to Germany. He was married at the Munderlo Seminary, Germany, to Miss Helena Harms, March 18, 1877. They came to Oregon and Mr. Huntman and wife worked on the Columbia Slough farm two years, and then moved to Hillsboro, where he bought the present Huntman farm, now one of the best little places in the county.

His widow and the following sons survive—John Henry, Herman and William. The funeral occurred Sunday.

COREY—CARSTENS
George H. Corey and Miss Ethel Carstens were quietly married at Kalama, Wash., Dec. 8, 1915. The groom is the eldest son of the late Chas. Corey and wife, and the bride is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Carstens, of near Roy.

They have taken up their residence on the farm of the groom at Mountindale.

George McGee says that old Pennsylvania is regaling herself on good times, and that the depression existed there for but about 12 months. He says there is no complaint anywhere, in the East, that times are hard, and thinks that when the timber begins moving in the Spring that the Northwest will come into its own.

There are over 17,000 separate pieces of property on the tax roll for the coming year. Some have several pieces of property assessed in their names, but a close examination of the list shows that there are nearly ten thousand distinct names on the tax roll. This has grown largely the past few years, due to the cutting up of so much property down in the east end of the county suburban to Portland, and the Shaw-Fear tract, this side of Beaverton. The assessor's index list has 243 pages, with some 72 lists on each page.

STATE VS. BONDSHU CONCLUDES TODAY

Defendant Tries to Lay Blame on Young Halstead, Admits Birth

STATE REFUTES DATE ASSIGNED

Dilley School Records Brought into Court by the State

The trial of E. J. Bondshu, charged with a statutory offense against Violet Bondshu, a 13-year old adopted daughter, was on trial in circuit court this week, and goes to the jury this afternoon. Bondshu admits that he and his wife took the child to Los Angeles last April, and that in July a child was born to the ward, Dr. Edwards, who attended the case, was here and testified as to the date and service. Bondshu contended on the stand that he was doing only a kind office for his ward. The girl, however, swore that Bondshu was criminal, and Bondshu and wife, in defense, alleged that the Halstead boy and the child were together, in the defendant's barn, from 1 to 4, on Oct. 9, 1914, and implied that the young boy was author of the girl's misfortune. The State this morning brought the teacher of the two children from Dilley, together with the register, showing that they were in school on the date alleged by the defense.

The case will probably be in the hands of the jury by night. Bondshu has put up a hard fight, having as attorneys Benton Bowman, Hon. W. N. Barrett, Hon. W. G. Hare and John McKee.

The jury: Wm Prickett, W. E. Crosby, D. Rainwater, J. Correll, Geo W Miller, C. Blaser, Ben Day, G. A. Plith, A. P. Luther, John Peters, Alb Bunning and Alfred Heywood.

John Koehne, of above Bloomington, was in town yesterday, enroute home from a Portland trip.

Judge Bagley has had 12 new jurors' chairs installed in the jury box and the jurymen can now have some comfort. The old seats were just about as comfortable for a long session as the stocks and pillory used away back in the dark ages. A juror was required to sit in one position for hours, and an eight hour session was equal to many hours in the penitentiary. Judge Bagley celebrated the occasion of the new seats Tuesday by holding court until late in the evening, and then calling court at 8:30 the next morning. The chairs are swivel, and are placed far enough apart to allow a juror to stretch his legs quite an improvement.

A Theatre Party Thursday evening to see "The Hoosier Schoolmaster" will be the Scoutmaster's Christmas to the members of Troop No. L.

Mary Evans sues L. K. Evans for divorce, and if what she swears to is true her former lord and master had the meanest man skinned several city blocks. She says that Evans was wont to talk to other women on the residence telephone with the wife within sound of his voice, and make appointments with them, telling her if she didn't like it she knew what she could do. He also told her he had no affection for her, and she says he told her one reason why he married her was because she might some day come into quite an inheritance. They were married in Portland in 1906.

Fred Schomburg, who takes a big interest in the milk industry, thinks that the market next year, war or no war, is going to be in excellent condition. He says that the condensed article is now getting into the market, and he looks for big orders from all over the world. While butter fat dropped 2 1/2 cents the past month, the condenser price has been raised, as noted in another place in this issue, and Fred thinks this is mighty fair of the Condenser people.

Charlotte Palmer has sued Chas. Palmer for divorce. They were married in Chicago in 1889, and have two children, little girls of 10 and 7. She alleges the husband has not contributed to her support, and she has had to go out to work to support herself and children. She wants no alimony, but asks for the custody of the girls.

The Sunday School of Plymouth Church will be entertained by the Endeavor Society Friday evening, at 7 o'clock, at the church. A Christmas tree, Santa Claus, Tarvelogue to Oberammergau with the stereopticon and "eats" will make up the program.

John Denning, aged 89 years, died at Roseburg, Dec. 20. He was a pioneer of 1851, and was captain of a wagon train that crossed the Plains. The remains were interred at Looking Glass. Mr. Denning was the father of Mrs. W. T. Kerr, of this city.

Evangelist Rev. O. P. Hedge, of Portland, will preach every evening at 7:30, in the Mission at 1128 Main Street, and Sundays at 2:30 and 7:30. You are invited.—Rev. P. Lasky.

Fritz Pritalaff, of Gales Creek, was down yesterday. Twenty-five years ago Fritz and the Argus reporter worked for the same firm, and they have not forgotten "Auld Lang Syne."

W. E. Boucsein, of above Mountindale, was down yesterday. When the fry, placed in the creek by the state, gets its growth W. E. expects to have the championship fishing grounds in the state.

Anyone wishing to buy a good saddle pony will do well to write to P. O. Box 27, Reedville, Ore.

J. C. Crocker, of Mountindale, was down to the county seat yesterday.

C. Schoenbacher, of Farmington, was up to the city Monday, on business at the court house.

I. H. Smith, of Forest Grove, was a county seat visitor, Tuesday.

UNION STOCK YARDS
The chief feature in the cattle trade Monday was the sale of three cars of pulp-fed cattle, these went to several different buyers at 7 50. Outside of this the receipts were ordinary and were steady at last week's prices.

Hog trade opened the week briskly. The demand was active and an advance was registered of five cents over any price for the previous week. Bulk of trading was 6 05 to 6 10.

All lines in the sheep house were advanced Monday. Choice lambs are now selling at 7 25 to 7 60, choice yearlings 6 50 to 6 75, choice ewes 5 50 to 5 75.
