The Heroine Of My Story

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

Sitting at my desk one balmy spring morning, rather than work I looked out through the open window.

At a window opposite a woman perhaps midway between twenty-five and thirty sat at a typewriter writing letters from stenographic notes. She was dressed in mourning.

A sign of widowhood furnished food for a story that I was weaving, with her for the heroine. She was refined looking and comely. Quite likely her husband had left her in poverty, and she was eking out a miserable existence by hammering a typewriter from morning till night. I wondered if the sleek looking man I saw in an adjoining room, who seemed to be the manager, had a wife and if he would not fall in love with the widow and make her comfortable. But when he arose from his desk and stood with his hands in his pockets looking out through the window I changed the direction of my romance and hoped if he did fall in love with the widow she would refuse him, because I did not like the expression on his face. There was something malignant in it.

My story seems to be coming out as I first planned it. While I was dreaming this afternoon, instead of attending to business, as I should have done, the man in the next room to the widow tapped a bell. The young widow arose and, taking up her stenographic implements, disappeared to reappear in his room. Taking a seat beside him, she took down several different dictations. Then when she was about to leave he said something to her that caused her to resume her seat.

From his averted gaze and the expression on the man's face I knew that he was making love to her. And I also knew from something I knew not what—but any woman will understand what I mean—that there was no response to what he was saying. When he ceased to speak she arose and he took her hand, but she gently drew it away and, without a word, left the room. At her own window she faced me just long enough for me to see that she was not pleased.

I have now been watching the widow for a week, and it is evident that she can marry any of the men connected with the office she chooses, for they all seem to be in love with her. I don't blame them, for if I were a man, and not miserably poor as I am, I would march straight over to the office where she works and propose to her myself.

What troubles me is that she won't do what I want her to do. I have heard from authors that their characters are at times very obstinate, and now I find a case in point. There is a man who I think would make her a good husband. He comes in to the office evidently on business and never fails to get a few words with her. She treats him with great consideration, but I can see from the expression of his face—he always faces the window when he talks to her—that he repines to what he says are disappointing.

This morning there was a scene between the manager and the widow. He said something to her that sent her out of his room. He followed her to her desk, where she was putting on her wraps, and he doubtless apologized, for she took off her hat, which she had put on, and was evidently pacified.

It is my opinion that the reason the widow won't marry any of her suitors is that her heart is buried in a grave. I wish she would marry my favorite, but she evidently gives him no encouragement. He stood in one of the windows facing me this morning, and I so longed to give him encouragement to persevere that I looked it, and I'm afraid I suited.

I am very much displeased with myself. The widow's suitor at whom I smiled encouragement came into the office this morning, and I'm sure he made a pretense of business in order to see me. The manager brought him up to me and introduced him, saying to me that he had recommended me to the man as one who would do some work for him. The stranger was very polite and has a winning way.

Pith of the Sunflower Stalk

The sunflower is cultivated to a considerable extent in central Russia, where every part of the plant is put to certain economic uses. The discovery of the extreme lightness of the pith of the stalks essentially increased the commercial value of the plant. This light cellular substance is now carefully removed from the stalk and applied to a good many important uses. One of its chief uses is the making of life saving appliances. Cork with a buoyancy of one to five and reindeer's bale with one to ten has been used. The pith of the sunflower has a buoyancy of one to thirty-five. The latter can be used advantageously in the construction of boats and life preservers. A sufficient quantity can be worn on a person without any inconvenience. The pith of the larger sunflower stalks is used extensively as a substitute for other materials formerly employed in making moccasins for cauterizing purposes.—London Mail.

Curious Apache Belief.

The Apache Indians' religious belief prevents them from committing murder in the dark. If a dozen Apaches should discover a man sleeping by his campfire at night no amount of money would hire them to attack him until the sun came up. They believe that if they kill a man at night their own souls will walk in eternal darkness forever. Knowing this curious superstition, hunters, scouts, trappers and others traveling through the Apache nation in the old days moved about during the night and lay by in some safe retreat during the day.

FOR SHERIFF

To the voters of the Republican party of Washington County: In the coming primary election, May 19, 1916, I will be a candidate for Sheriff, and will endeavor to conduct a clean cut campaign, with respect for my opponents and all others. My standing and ability are before you to investigate, and I would kindly ask every lady and gentleman in the county who know me, to speak of me to their friends. I am a farmer, and feel it no discredit to milk a cow or plow a furrow. I am a native son, having been a taxpayer of the county for 26 years.

If I am nominated and elected I will devote my entire time and attention to the duties of the office, conducting same with strict regard to economy. I will pay all my traveling expenses and livery hire, within the county during my term. I shall appoint as my assistants competent persons, to whom I owe no political debts, who are controlled by none, and influenced only by a desire to give the greatest degree of efficiency at the smallest possible cost, with courtesy to all.

I am for a strict enforcement of the law, but I am opposed to harrassing any individual lacking influence or means of defense, possessed by others, and I will not desire to arrest persons without cause, or for the sake of merely making a record, giving protection of the office to all classes alike. On the other hand, necessity arising, no favoritism need be expected.

My slogan will be "Taxpayers' Candidate. I will pay my way." I would respectfully ask your support and consideration to the above.

Lambert, his wife, to secure the payment of a note of the same date for $1350.00, with interest thereon at six per cent per annum, of $150.00 as and for Attorney's fees, and a decree declaring said note and mortgage in default, and the moneys due thereon forthwith, and adjudicating the rights and priorities of all persons claiming any interest in said land, and declaring said mortgage to be a first lien thereon, and foreclosing same, and ordering said property sold to satisfy said judgment and mortgage, and the application of the proceeds, according to law, and for judgment against the said T. B. Lambert and Jennie M. Lambert, his wife, for any deficiency that the proceeds may lack of equaling the judgments plus all costs and expenses and accruing costs and expenses, and for a decree barring and foreclosing you and each of you, and all persons in privity with you, or either of you, all right, title, interest, equity, lien or claim in or to said land, or any portion thereof, and enjoining you and each of you, and all such persons from setting up any right, title, interest, lien, equity or claim thereto, or any portion thereof, and permitting any party to said suit to bid at said sale, and for such other and further relief as to the court may appear just and equitable, including costs and disbursements of said suit.

Service of this summons is made upon you by publication thereof, in pursuance of an order of Hon. George R. Bagley, one of the judges of said court, on March 6th, 1916, directing publication in the Hillsboro Argus, a weekly newspaper printed, published and of general circulation throughout said county and state, once a week for six consecutive weeks, the date of the first publication being March 9th, 1916, and the date of the last publication being April 20th, 1916.

CHAS. J. SCHNABEL,
