You can't satisfy the "big ellows." Their papers criticised Wilson when he sent troops to Vera Cruz, then criticised him because he would not interfere that we shall have war with the country to the South of us.

A Portland straw vote gave Wilson more ballots than both Hughes and Roosevelt combined.

Politicians of the Hughes-Roosevelt type ascribe the vote to the women, but as a matter of fact women largely vote as men do. With either Roosevelt or Hughes in the field it begins to look as though Wilson will have a big chance to succeed himself.

In justice to a resident of Hillsboro it might well be said that Benton Bowman would be a safe man in the legislature. He
