

HILLSBORO CELEBRATES WITH TEN THOUSAND PEOPLE AND FINE PROGRAM

Day Was Ideal and Not a Single Person Injured—Parade Was the Recipient of Many Commendations

Hillsboro celebrated Independence Day with fully ten thousand people in the visiting list. The day was ideal, and fortunately there were no accidents causing injuries to persons—an automobile collision being the only disaster.

The morning opened with one of the best parades witnessed in the city for many years. The big procession, several blocks long, was headed by Grover Combs, as Uncle Sam, and he was the ideal of "your dreams" as the representative character of the country. R. B. Collins, Henry Schmelzer and Mrs. Murrow officiated as marshals. Mrs. Murrow wore the sash that Judge Crandall carried through the Civil War. J. C. Lamkin led the procession with the big silk flag that has graced so many public occasions. He was preceded by the Orenco Band, the Cornelius Band working later in the parade. Gov. Withycombe was in an auto, along with Mayor Barrett.

The order of parade, as near as could be written, was:

Veterans of the Civil War.
Boy Scouts.
Goddess of Liberty—Miss Anna Berge, and attendants.
Geo. and Martha Washington, Hillsboro Fire Department.
Military Rank, Knights of Pythias.
Pythian Sisters.
Vita Club, twenty young men in uniform.
W. C. T. U.
Cornelius Military Band.
Percy Long's Hardware float.
Spicker's Harness Shop.
Hoag's Milk Supply.
Bloyd, motorcycle.
F. A. Ross, grocery.
Mrs. Grace Emmott, Millinery.
Ford Peace Party—Auto horse float, by Chick Shannon and Geo. McGee, one of the most unique.
Chas. Brandaw, clown, on mule.
Boys, representing Indians.
Two Chas. Chaplins.
Miss Rhea Wilkes, decorated auto.
Part of the Children's Parade. (It was impossible to repeat all of this parade as given on the day before.) A pleasing feature of the Scotch section was the playing of bagpipes by E. Russell Ewart, of Portland, who came as a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gore. Many had never heard this delightful Scotch instrument at its best.

The parade of the children's floats and characterizations on the third was one of the best features of the celebration. The various Nationalities represented were well conceived. So close was the effort that it was hard to pick the winners. Cornelius is entitled to a cordial congratulation for sending down a Holland representation that was unique and true to life. The ladies clubs and organizations who had charge of the different sections are to be congratulated, and the parade was given great praise.

ROBERT C. GOSSMAN CHARGED WITH THEFT

Unable to Give $8,000 Bond, Although Wealthy, and is in Jail

SOLD HORSES FROM CROP PASTURE

North Plains Citizen of Affluence in Queer Transactions

Robert C. Gossman, a wealthy citizen of North Plains, is in the county jail awaiting the hearing of a charge of larceny of horses from the pasture of Victor Crop, on the Thos. Otchin donation land claim. A few days ago Gossman sold two teams of horses to Portland people, one buyer being a liveryman by the name of Williamson and the other a gentleman by the name of Neal.

J. Jacky, of North Plains, missed his horse from the pasture and a search was made by Sheriff Reeves, resulting in the location of the horse in a Portland barn. Sheriff Reeves took both Williamson and Neal to the Gossman home the first of the week, after night. The sheriff left the two men outside, and went in and questioned Gossman, who denied having sold to either of them. He then brought them in the house and Gossman admitted the sales and denied telling Sheriff Reeves that he had not made the sales. Since being lodged in jail Gossman again denies the sales, and it is thought that he is playing the insanity dodge. The horses were sold at a figure that clearly showed that the sale could not have been legitimate. Gossman claims to have sold one team on description, and the buyer says he went to the pasture and took the horses himself, that being done, however, only after Gossman had gone with him a day or so before and picked out the animals.

Gossman is worth several thousand dollars and his actions are not easily understood. He sold one team for $80, and it was worth several times that amount. Gossman's hired man was brought over to Hillsboro, but he appears to have shown a clear bill of health so far as conduct is concerned.

Sheriff Reeves has now identified all four of the animals. Two of them belong to J. B. Hanley, of Leisville, and they were mares, each worth at least $200 being four-year-olds and weighing about 1300. In fact, it is stated that the government had bought them for $200 each, and they were to have been delivered to Henry Keenan, of beyond North Plains. Gossman, in making the sale, had split the Hanley team, selling one to Neal and one to Williamson.

Mr. Hanley went to Portland Monday and identified his horses. The animals have been brought back to Washington County, and the buyers will force Gossman to repay them. The grand jury commenced taking evidence against Gossman yesterday morning. Gossman was placed under $5,000 bail, and was unable to give bonds.

ROSS—MANN

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Mann, south of Hillsboro, Wednesday afternoon, at two o'clock, when their daughter, Jean, was united in marriage to Geo. Minor Ross, Rev. Andrew Carrick, of Portland, officiating, using the impressive ring ceremony. The parlors were decorated in pink roses, ferns and English Ivy. To the strains of Lohengrin wedding march, played by Miss Dorothy Linklater, of Hillsboro, the bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She was very attractive in a gown of embroidered voile with full length veil, and carried a bouquet of Bride roses. Miss Dorothy Linklater caught the bride's bouquet.

Geo. Kurts, an ex-convict, who has been camping in a tent between Sherwood and Tualatin, was picked up by Constable Andrews the other day and brought to Hillsboro. Kurts is a bad one, and admits that he is a natural-born thief. He has served time from both this and Multnomah counties, and lately being allowed his liberty, settled in the brush, below Tualatin, where he has been raiding houses while the occupants were absent. He entered the home of Walter Eames and stole a revolver and razor, and the gun was found in his tent. He also raided the home of Chas. Schmokel and stole six or seven dollars worth of groceries. He refused to go before the grand jury yesterday, when the witnesses were called.

Both machines were loaded when they struck, but fortunately no one was injured. N. H. Scheidel, of Orenco, suffered a slight scratch on the elbow. It was a narrow escape. Mc's machine was coming north on Seventh, and Collier's machine was going east on Fir, and they met at the intersection.
