

MAXWELL SMASHES RECORDS IN WEST

Ray McNamara Makes New Time Between Spokane and Seattle

AND FROM PORTLAND TO SPOKANE

Quick Acceleration, Efficient Cooling System and Brakes Big Factors in Run

Ray F. McNamara, piloting a Maxwell car, recently made some remarkable records on the western coast, adding to the reputation this make has established for all-around efficiency.

He broke all speed records in a run from Spokane to Seattle in a sleek Maxwell roadster. The elapsed time for this run was eleven hours, fifty-five minutes. The Maxwell bettered the train schedule between these points by more than an hour, and lowered the automobile record by five hours.

McNamara averaged thirty-two miles an hour across the desert lands of Eastern Washington. He crossed the dangerous Biewitt Pass in the Wenatchee mountains and the Snoqualmie Pass in the Cascades after midnight and arrived in Seattle early in the morning.

His record run was checked officially by the newspapers of Spokane and Washington.

Another record for speed and efficiency was hung up by McNamara on a run from Portland to Spokane. The distance is 458 miles and the elapsed time was fifteen hours and thirty-one minutes. The best previous record for this run was made last May, when a motor car did the distance in twenty hours and thirty minutes.

McNamara attributes the success of both runs to the quick acceleration, perfect cooling system, excellent brakes and the Maxwell's ability to stand a good hard beating over a hazardous course.

During his tours in the West the Maxwell pilot has been gathering some valuable road information for the benefit of tourists. A recent trip out of Portland carried him more than 1,000 miles over deserts and through the mountains. Rain and rough roads followed the Maxwell through this junket, but the trip was made without a semblance of mechanical trouble.

ANDREW W. BARBER

Andrew W. Barber, a highly respected citizen of East Hillsboro, died at the family home on Thursday, Aug. 24, 1916, after 24 hours of illness from acute indigestion. He was born at Johnsenberk, N. J., Sept. 8, 1843 and later moved to Dane Co., Wis. He was married to Miss Mary DeJane in 1863, in Wisconsin. He was an enlisted volunteer in the Civil War, and was a member of Co. E. Twenty-third Wisconsin Infantry. He and his family came to Oregon in 1891, and settled at Hillsboro. He was a member of Gen. Ransom Post, and held the esteem of a large circle of friends all over the county.

His widow and the following children survive: A. G. Barber, Laurel; Fred Barber, Cornelius; B. A. Barber, Hillsboro, and Mrs. Kate Hembree, of Carlton.

UNION STOCK YARDS

The weeks market opened with quite a fair sized number of cattle over 1200 head. Quality, while nothing fancy was quite fair. The best steers sold at 7 and cows fairly well. Taken as a whole some strength was developed, especially in the cow section. All other divisions were steady.

The hog receipts were disappointing as far as numbers went. Prices showed some strength at 9 1/2 for tops. The market closed steady to strong.

Nearly 3700 head were received Monday on a steady market. Top lambs are still quoted at 8 25 and other grades in proportion. Market closed steady.

Earl Ringle was severely kicked by one of the Mercantile horses, Monday morning, the animal connecting with Earl's knee and groin. As a result he is laid up at his home in the Annex. Dr. Erwin attended the patient until the return of Dr. E. H. Smith. The injury is a severe one and it may be possible that an operation shall follow.

Ed. Schulmerich and family will soon move into their handsome new bungalow on Sixth and Main. The building is one of the really neat residences of the city, and is a departure from the old style. With outer concrete walls and handsome lines the home is one that marks it as exceptional.

Mrs. Helms, of Tacoma, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Leonard Brown.

Harry Lauder by Walt Mason

H. Lauder is the Canny Scot, who always knows just what is what, and people say he's grown quite rich, by always knowing which is which. One thing's admitted by the bunch, which is that Lauder has the punch. Where'er he does his sprightly chores, he packs the houses to the doors; he sings his songs so passing well, the auditors stand up to yell. Withal, he is a thrifty soul; he wisely will not spend his roll, until he's sure he will not fail to get full value for his kale. That's why he always asks for "Tux" when he would spend his hard-earned bucks for baccy, in his pipe to puff—he knows Tuxedo is the stuff. Great men, wise men, in every land, all tell us that Tuxedo's grand.

HARRY LAUDER
World-famous Scotch Comedian, says:
"Tuxedo for mildness, purity and fragrance, THE tobacco for me. With my pipe filled with good old TUXEDO, all my troubles go up in smoke. In all my world-wide travels I've yet to find its equal as a slow-burning, cool-tasting, sweet-flavored tobacco. TUXEDO satisfies me completely."
