Habit, if wisely and skillfully formed, becomes truly a second nature, but unskillfully and unmethodically directed it will be the ape of nature, which imitates nothing to the life, but only clumsily and awkwardly.—Bacon.

Guessing a Star.

Mira, the wonderful star in the constellation Cetus (the Whale), stands foremost among those variable stars which have produced so much guesswork. Besides the theory that its even months' variations are due to the flickering up and down of gas, it has been conjectured that this distant sun is subject to particularly acute sun spots, that its obscuration are due to eclipse by huge planets revolving round it and even, according to Maupertuis, that it is not spherical in shape, as other heavenly bodies are, so that we see it sometimes in sections, sometimes in plane. Occasionally, as in 1789 and 1839, it has blazed up actually to first magnitude, while from 1672 to 1678 it disappeared altogether.—Boston Transcript.
