The Convenience and Economy of Gas

FOR COOKING

The universal fuel; no dirt, ashes or smoke. Intense heat applied directly to cooking utensils. The average bill in Portland for domestic purposes is $1.80 per month.

FOR WATER HEATING

An abundant supply of steaming hot water available without effort, inconvenience or discomfort. Sufficient water for a bath obtainable within 20 minutes at an approximate cost of 2 1-2 cents.

FOR LIGHTING

Gas light, being nearest to sunlight, is soft and restful on the eyes. Modern gas lights produce twice as much light as any other form of lighting, for the same expenditure.

FOR HOUSE HEATING

Uniform heat, thermostatic control, fuel paid for as used; no fires to build; no dirt, ashes or smoke. Fuel cost only slightly more than that of solid fuel, offset, however, by the many conveniences.

FOR POWER

As compared with gasoline, the danger element is eliminated. Fuel is paid for only as used and the supply is limitless. Our special rate of $.50 per thousand cubic feet makes gas approximately 50 per cent cheaper than gasoline.

NOTE: Gas will be supplied as soon as the shipment of pipe, now on the way, is received and connections made between Orengo and Hillsboro.

Eriff Applegate picked up
Hoy at the Grove yesterday.
Hoy sold a good Hampden silver watch for a dollar and as it was worth more, suspicion followed. Hoy is an old offender and has served time at both Walla Walla and San Quentin.

Mrs. Henrietta Paulsen, wife of Andrew C. Paulsen, died at Portland, Aug. 8, 1917, aged 75 years. Her husband and two sons survive—Paul Paulsen, of North Plains, and Henry Paulsen, of Portland.

Rev. E. A. Smith was called to Portland Wednesday to conduct a funeral in the Mt. Scott district.

Dr. Lowe, the optician, was here Saturday. Dr. Lowe says that his visit to the South a few months ago impressed him wonderfully as to the patriotism of the younger element, and even old Confederate veterans are he-waiting the fact that they are too old to take up arms for Uncle Sam.

I wish to announce that I have installed a modern machine for removing wide wagon tires without damaging the felloes as is usually the case in removal, and owing to the prospect of the short Spring crops I will set light tires at $3.00 per set; 3-inch wagon tire at $4.00 per set. I have installed a gasoline filling station, best in the city. I also carry in stock auto tires and accessories. Ford sizes a specialty.—L. G. Wiedewitsch, Cornelius, Or. 22
